Marines Quit Haiti; Credit To Roosevelt

Withdrawal After 20 Years Is Attributed to His Interest.

Evacuation Oct 1, '34; Finances Stay Under Direction of U. S.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

The New Deal was extended to the Caribbean yesterday when the United States agreed to withdraw 800 Marines from Haiti after an occupancy that had lasted almost 20 years. Franklin D. Roosevelt was Assistant Secretary of the Navy when the Marines went into Haiti, and it is in his Presidency that they will come out.

Under the terms of the treaty signed yesterday in Port-au-Prince by American Minister Norman Armour and President Stenio Vincent, the evacuation of the Marines will begin on October 1, 1934. The fiscal administration of the island's finances will be continued under American direction, although the President of Haiti has the power of appointing the administrator who will be known as the fiscal representative.

Bond Action Continues.

Servicing of the bonds of Haiti will be continued as before to assure amortization of amounts outstanding and prompt payment of debentures at their maturity.

The treaty provides that the internal revenue service shall be manned entirely by Haitians. Simultaneous with the withdrawal of Marines in 1934, the American scientific mission likewise will be removed.

Thus will be liquidated America's intervention in the island republic, which began after an enraged Haitian mob had dragged President Guillame Sam from the French Legation and torn him limb from limb.

Gen. Smedley D. Butler, outspoken Marine commander, was in charge of the first occupation by the Marines. Haitians charged he locked their Senate in its chamber until it ratified the 1915 treaty.

The settlement of the Haitian question is the first major diplomatic achievement of the new administration in the field of Caribbean policy. Under direction of former Secretary Stimson, the Haitian problem had been studied in a new and sympathetic light. However, the personal interest of President Roosevelt carried through the revised American policy toward the island republic.

Armour Acclaimed.

The present treaty is in a sense a personal triumph for Minister Armour, who was sent from the American Embassy in Paris, where he had been counselor and charge d'affaires, to take over the difficult task of the legation in Port-au-Prince.

Armour had been in Haiti only a few months. However, from his arrival there, when he made a speech in French and recalled the glories of Haiti, he has won a warm place in affections of the people. His personal influence undoubtedly had a large part in the signing of yesterday's agreement.

Final details of the treaty were arranged at the visit of Armour here a fortnight ago. At that time he had reviewed details of the financial arrangement, about which there was some difficulty with Acting Secretary of State William Phillips and also with Assistant Secretary Jefferson Caffrey.

Roosevelt Interest Deep.

The text of the accord between the United States and the Haitian government comprises 27 articles. It is entitled, "Haitianization of the Garde and Withdrawal of Military Forces from Haiti." The first article provides for withdrawal of the Marines and taking over of command by Haitian officers.

The problem of Haiti undoubtedly would have constituted more than a talking point at the forthcoming Pan-American conference at Montevideo. The eloquence of Haitian Minister Dantes Bellagarde would have been lifted in criticism of the American occupation there, as it so frequently has happened at the Pan-American Union with embarrassing consequences.

Mexico Standing Pat For 6 Radio Channels

Mexico City, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The secret plenary session of the North American Radio Conference tonight approved committee reports which will be formally adopted and announced at a final plenary session at 5 p. m. tomorrow, when final adjournment will be taken.

It was learned reliably that the announcement would reveal failure of the conference to resolve the most important difficulty, allocation of frequencies. Mexico is firm in demanding six clear channels for her stations along the United States border and the Cuban, Nicaraguan and Costa Rican delegations have supported her.

Washingtonian Heads Women Dentists of U. S.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Dr. Mary Newell, Washington, today was installed as president of the Association of American Women Dentists. Dr. Minnie Proctor, of Los Angeles, was named president-elect to take office next year, and Dr. Pearle Bishop, Denver, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Finds His Name

WILLIAM MICHAEL STEPHENSON, whose identity has been established through the work of psychiatrists and newspaper publicity after months of investigation.

Mystery Man Is Identified By Missing Toe

By Gerald G. Gross.

"John Doe," who for months, perhaps years, has lived in the darkness produced by amnesia, is resurrected.

A white-haired derelict, groping for his identity since he was found wandering near police headquarters last April, is John Doe no longer. He is William Michael Stephenson, husband and father, of Akron, Ohio.

The Washington Post, July 16, published exclusively a story and photograph of the amnesia victim. Four days later the Cleveland News ran his picture and a brief description.

John Doe said he was from Cleveland. Akron, where his wife now lives, is only 36 miles from Cleveland.

Miss Marie Thomason, Nashville, Tenn., saw the picture and identified the man as the brother of her friend living there, Mrs. Ellen Varley. She communicated with the Cleveland News, who forwarded her letter to The Post.

She asked one question which helped clinch identification. Did this man have one toe missing? William Michael Stephenson was so marked and so is the mystery man, who has lived at the District Home for Aged and Infirm since May 27.

Writes Correct Name.

Prior to this test, two Washington psychiatrists led "John Doe" to disclose much sought after information through hypnosis. Two examinations were required. In the second he was asked to write a letter to his wife.

He began: "Dear Lenora." He wrote a few lines of endearment and handed it to the doctors. They asked him to sign it.

Without hesitation, he wrote William Michael Stephenson.

Oregon's Repeal Vote Is Formally Ratified

Salem, Oreg., Aug. 7 (AP).—Delegates to the Oregon Constitutional convention here today voted 110 to 5 in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Thirteen States previously had filed their ratifications of the twenty-first amendment in Washington.

The convention was merely a formality as each delegate was pledged to vote as his county voted in the special election July 21. Out of 36 counties, only two, controlling five delegates, voted for retention of the eighteenth amendment.

Milk-Price Investigation Date May Be Set Today

A date for opening the investigation of milk prices in the District is expected to be set today at a conference in the office of Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

The meeting will be attended by Senators King and McCarran and Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the subcommittee which will conduct the investigation. The first hearings are expected to start within a week.

Two Nations Are Rebuked By Germany

British and French Told Their "Mixing-In" Inadmissible.

Advised Interference in Austrian Case Is Not Wanted.

Berlin, Aug. 7 (AP).—The French and British Ambassadors were told today by the German foreign office that their governments' "mixing in the German-Austrian impasse was inadmissable" when they handed the Wilhelmstrasse identical notes saying that German propaganda activities in Austrian politics violated the spirit of the four-power peace pact.

An official communique by the Wolff Agency stated the French Ambassador, Francois Poncet, called with reference to the four-power agreement and said that according to the view of the French government German propaganda with reference to Austria in recent days was not compatible with treaty conditions.

The French diplomatic representative was told that the Berlin government failed to see any reason for application of the four-power treaty in this instance, and that Germany regarded as inadmissable this interference in the German-Austrian trouble.

The British Ambassador, who delivered a similar representation, was given the same answer.

The distribution of pamphlets by Nazi airplanes over Austria attacking the government of Chancellor Dollfuss, and broadcast speeches in Germany of the same character, have recently aroused anxiety in Great Britain, France and Italy.

Austria Seeks Permission To Add Military Strength

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP).—Austria wants to increase her military strength and has privately asked the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy for permission to do so, it was learned in an authoritative source today.

Czechoslovakia is understood to have entered objections to the Austrian request.

Germany Nazis Are Blamed In Austrian Police Death

Kufstein, Austria, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Authorities tonight formally charged that German Nazis were responsible for the killing of Michael Schwaningej, an Austrian auxiliary policeman, shot from ambush along a road near here. Kufstein is on the border between Austria and Bavaria.

The Austrian Minister at Berlin was instructed to protest to the German foreign office.

The Austrian heimwehr rushed a detachment to the frontier and closed the area to traffic.

Arizona to Vote For Repeal Today

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 7 (AP).—Arizona, prohibition leaders conceded tonight, will vote tomorrow to make this State the twenty-first to approve the twenty-first amendment.

No delegates opposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment were nominated by prohibtionists for the election. Voters disliking the "wet" slate must write the names of their choices upon the ballots.

This "baby State" of the Union, which repealed its State prohibition enforcement laws last year by a vote of 2 to 1, is the first of four commonwealths to vote this month upon the constitutional amendment. August plebiscites also are to be held in Missouri, Texas and Washington. The votes tomorrow also will nominate a successor to the congressional seat of Lewis W. Douglas, now Federal director of the budget.

Davis, Who Urged Boulder Dam, Dies

Oakland, Galif., Aug. 7 (AP).—Arthur Powell Davis, 72, internationally known engineer and widely known as "the father of Buolder Dam," died here today after an illness of several months.

Davis had been failing for some time and it was in the hope of rousing him that friends obtained his appointment last July 10 as consulting engineer on the Boulder Dam project, under the Department of Interior. He served the Government many years, but had been out of its service about a decade.

About a year ago Davis returned from Russia, where he supervised building of a hydroelectric system for the Soviet government. It was his last big work. He was credited with first envisioning Boulder Dam, and during 21 years as an engineer in the Department of the Interior worked consistently for its construction.

7 Escape in Plane Crack-Up at Detroit

Detroit, Aug. 7 (AP).—Seven passengers in a Chicago-bound American Airways plane escaped injury late today as the ship crashed at Detroit City Airport after an unsuccessful attempt to take off. J. L. Huber, pilot, was cut on the head and shoulders.

Police said the plane apparently fouled wires near the airport and that Pilot Huber circled back in an attempt to land again. The plane dropped into a street bordering the airport. Officials of the American Airways Lines said the passengers asked that their names not be divulged. Police dispatched to the field were unable to locate them.

NRA Aid to Go To Strike Area Seeking Peace

Mellon Company Pact to Rehire Signed; Board of Arbitration Meets.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

The National Recovery Administration pushed forward yesterday its drive to wipe out labor disturbances throughout the country.

Named by President Roosevelt on Saturday, the new National Arbitration Board held its first meeting, perfected its organization and outlined plans for coming to grips immediately with its pacification task.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant recovery administrator and former American Federation of Labor officer, conferred with persons having to do with the Pennsylvania coal strike and other disturbances. He is to go to Fayetteville, Pa., this morning to iron out misunderstandings which have delayed return of strikers to work, despite the temporary settlement worked out last week by operators and miner leaders at the behest of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

Mellon Company Agreement.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., a Mellon concern, signed an agreement which would bring strikers back to work immediately in the company's mines.

From the coal regions Mr. McGrady is to go to Lynn, Mass., where he will seek to bring about an end to a strike among shoe workers.

The arbitration board is expected to take up today the hosiery strike in Pennsylvania and the motion picture strike in Hollywood. Many other disturbances will receive attention from the board.

Wolman Presides at Meeting.

Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor advisory board of the Recovery Administration, presided at the board meeting yesterday in the absence of Senator Robert F. Wagner (Democrat), of New York, who was named chairman by the President. Mr. Wagner is in Geneva, but was advised by Walter C.

Col. Roosevelt Visits Duce; Will See Pope

Rome, Aug. 7 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today received Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who is on his way to the United States from the Philippine Islands.

Col. Roosevelt is making a week's study of youth organizations in Italy. He expects to see Pope Pius tomorrow.

Georgia Tobacco Shutdown Urged

Atlanta Hears Growers Are to Ask Martial Law Use If Necessary.

Atlanta, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Atlanta Journal today said tobacco growers would urge Gov. Talmadge tomorrow to close all tobacco markets in the State, using martial law, if necessary, to bring better prices to the growers.

Incomplete figures released by the State Department of Agriculture today showed prices ranged from 11.90 to 14.75 cents per pound during the first four days of auction sales.

The Journal said the delegation calling on the governor will be headed by Ed Rivers, speaker of the Georgia House of Representatives, and L. L. Patten, of Lakeland, secretary of the special growers' committee named by tobacco producers at Valdosta Saturday.

Arkansas to Make Beer Sales Legal

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The Arkansas Legislature is expected to be called into special session on August 14 to legalize 3.2 beer in the State and enact other "emergency" measures. Gov. Futrell indicated today he would issue the call Wednesday.

26 Killed and 160 Wounded As Army Quells Cuban Riots; Machado Resignation Near

Cuban Police Battle Women Strikers During Riots

Bullets Riddle Helpless; Welles Given "Slap" by President.

(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)

Havana, Aug. 7.—Twenty-six persons were reported killed and 160 wounded tonight in disorders which followed upon military occupation of the city—the reply of President Gerardo Machado to the united demand of all political factions that he resign immediately.

President Machado, in an address, appealed to the nation tonight to "defend the republic's independence at all costs."

Responding to an administration request, the Congress in extraordinary session this afternoon, gave the president authority again to suspend constitutional guarantees of personal liberty—a move sought to cope with the rapidly spreading strike movement in the island.

The spark which touched off the disorders was the gathering of a crowd estimated at 10,000 before the capitol. They were celebrating information broadcast by the A B C Opposition Society that President Gerardo Machado would resign within 24 hours.

Suspend Guarantees.

Previously the Senate and the House of Representatives met in special session and voted a bill to suspend the guarantees for 30 days.

The demonstrators before the capitol finally were started moving by 50 police afoot and 10 mounted on horses. They fired into the air many times to get the crowd under way. Meanwhile hundreds of Havana residents stood on the roofs of their homes firing into the air.

Soldiers mounted guard at the palace and unlimbered machine guns.

Many Felled by Guns.

Cavalry troops paraded in midtown, firing indiscriminately. Persons scurried for cover, but many of them fell.

Pistol, rifle and submachine gun fire rattled, roared and echoed from around the great white capitol.

The city was grimly quiet tonight, while almost hopeless efforts to count the dead and wounded went on.

A police wagon dashing down Galiano street ran over and killed two people.

The troops mounted machine guns at strategic points in uptown Havana. One of them was trained on the plant of the newspaper Diario de la Marina.

Resignation Asked.

Despite Machado's action it was learned authoritatively that the executive will leave office tomorrow.

Facing what was freely described as the gravest situation in Cuba's

French Fliers Set New Mark In Hop to Syria

Distance Record Lowered by 560 Miles; Pair Aloft 56 Hours.

Damascus, Syria, Aug. 7 (AP).—The airplane Joseph Lebrix, piloted by the Frenchmen, Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, landed at the military airfield at Rayak, 79 miles from here, at 6:10 p. m. today, Greenwich mean time (1:10 p. m., Eastern standard time), with the proud claim of having shattered the world distance record by about 560 miles. Rayak is approximately 5,650 miles by direct airline from New York.

The airplane, which left New York Saturday morning, crossing the Atlantic, passing over Paris and central and southeast Europe, was in the air approximately 56 hours.

The French airmen abandoned their plan to fly to India because of the more rapid consumption of gas than had been anticipated, which was thought to be owing to evaporation because of unusually hot weather.

Reports received here said that Rossi and Codos made an excellent landing and still had gasoline in their tanks when they came down to earth. Government officials declared the world distance record had been broken, although the exact comparative figures were not available.

While flying over Latakia, Syria, the Frenchmen sent a message, which said:

"In one hour we will land at Rayak, as the result of very abnormal gasoline consumption. Nevertheless, the Joseph Lebrix, despite 1,000 hours of flight and 11 departures with full loads, has linked New York and Beirut in 55 hours. Long live French wings! Long live Syria. Long live France!"

Lindbergh's Fuel Low in Greenland

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 7 (AP). Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is at Angmagsalik, Greenland, on an aerial mapping expedition, may encounter difficulty in leaving there on account of insufficient fuel supplies, reports from Greenland said today.

Fuel stores at Angmagsalik have been promised by the Government to John Grierson, British aviator, who was at Reykjavik, Iceland, today on his leisurely flight from England to New York. Gov. Oldendow fears that supplies are not sufficient for both the Lindbergh and Grierson planes.

As a result of the situation, it is believed here that Col. Lindbergh's projected trip to Iceland will be canceled.

Nebraska Masons Told Not to Sell 3.2 Beer

Pender, Nebr., Aug. 7 (AP).—Nebraska Masons were under orders today not to sell 3.2 beer. Archie M. Smith, of Pender, grand master, has issued an edict that no member of the order could sell beer and remain in good standing.

Every Blue Lodge in the State has received a copy of the edict. For violation, a member may be ousted from the lodge if found guilty by a Masonic commission. Beer becomes legal in Nebraska Thursday, and practically all cities of the State were arranging to license its sale.

Trial, Sentence Take 23 Minutes

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—The new order of quick justice in Chicago courts had a speedy workout today.

Ellis Sebastian, 28, went on trial at 12:05 p. m., on a robbery charge.

At 12:20, the jury retired to consider the evidence.

At 12:25, a verdict of guilty was returned.

At 12:28, Judge Joseph B. David sentenced him to from 1 to 20 years in prison.

9 Save Village In Forest Blaze

Flames Pass Over Water-Soaked Houses to Timber Beyond Hamlet.

Crandon, Wis., Aug. 7 (AP)—The heroic work of nine men, who refused to evacuate Nelma when a forest fire roared down upon it, today saved that village from destruction.

Ignoring orders to leave, they manned fire hose and played streams of water on homes and business houses while the flames swept across lawns and thickets and passed on to timberland on the other side of the hamlet.

The nine men used a pump sent from Crandon and drew water from the Brule River to soak the buildings.

For two hours the fire raged about and through the village, driven by a 35-mile northwest wind. Sheds, trash, shrubbery and everything combustible went down before it—except the houses and store buildings the handful of fighters kept wet.

Thousands of acres of cutover timber lands in northern Wisconsin and Michigan were afire while more than 1,000 men battled to check further destruction over a wide front.

16 Art Masterpieces Are Stolen From Villa

Cannes, France, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Sixteen painting masterpieces by Fragonard, Corot, Manet, Renoir, Courbet and Degas were stolen today from the villa owned by Eugene Geoggroy, a Frenchman.

Police believed it was the work of an international gang of art thieves operating on the Riviera. The canvases were stripped from their frames.

Post Repays Friends Double for Their Help

Oklahoma City, Aug. 7 (AP).—When Wiley Post's round-the-world flight plans were delayed because of a repair bill growing out of a smashup of his monoplane Winnie Mae, at Chickasha, four friends of the flier employed at Curtiss Wright Airport here made up the $500 to pay the bill out of their own salaries.

It was revealed today that Post, upon his return to Oklahoma City Saturday, forced the four to take checks for double the amount they had sacrificed.

Paraguayans Claim Big Victory Over Bolivians

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 7 (AP).—A communique of the ministry of war tonight said Paraguayan forces in the Gran Chaco had repulsed a Bolivian offensive on the entire front, inflicting heavy losses.

U. S. Forces Not to Enter Cuban Turmoil

President Keeping Close Watch on Situation by Telephone.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt was apprised tonight of serious street rioting in Havana.

He said after a telephone conversation with Undersecretary of State William Phillips at Washington that the United States Government had given no thought to intervention with military forces.

Sumner Wells, United States Ambassador at Havana, was conferring with political leaders there late tonight.

President Roosevelt expressed the hope that a satisfactory solution of the general strike crisis might be achieved during the next few days.

He directed Phillips to keep him informed throughout the night.

Reports that a contingent of American Marines had been ordered to Havana from Norfolk were denied by the President.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt had left the summer White House late in the afternoon for an evening picnic at their favorite retreat at Valkill Cottage at the far edge of the estate. The outing was interrupted by the telephone call from Undersecretary Phillips.

Code Extension Halted By Puerto Rico Strike

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The strike of 5,000 tobacco workers, mostly women, in Caruas, Fice and other towns was spreading to other industries today, including sugar plantation workers. The strike is preventing extension of the United States blanket industrial code to Puerto Rico, Gov. Robert H. Gore believes.

Roosevelt to Tour 4 Virginia Camps

Will Take Luncheon With Forestry Men on Quick Trip Saturday.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt plans visiting four civilian conservation camps on a quick trip to the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia Saturday.

Robert S. Fechner, head of the conservation administration, was advised yesterday from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., by Marvin H. McIntyre, the President's secretary, that the Chief Executive would go directly by train from New York to Harrisonburg Friday night, arriving at the Virginia city early Saturday.

Fechner and a White House automobile will meet the Presidential party at Harrisonburg and motor with them to one of the camps in the George Washington National Forest, probably North River Gap, 20 miles from Harrisonburg.

Then the party will go to the three camps on Skyline drive in the Shenandoah National Park. The President plans having luncheon at one of the park camps. The party will return to Washington Saturday.

Steamship Crews Strike For Wage Pay Increase

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—The crews of ships belonging to the South American Steamship Co. went on strike here today, demanding a 25 per cent salary increase.

Judge Sentenced For Votes Theft

Oregon County Jurist Will Serve Four Years for Stealing $10,000.

Klamath Falls, Oreg., Aug. 7 (AP). Earl H. Fehl, Jackson County judge, was sentenced today to four years in prison for complicity in the theft of 10,000 ballots from the Jackson County Court house at Medford last February.

He was one of twenty persons indicted for the theft and destruction of the ballots, which were stolen the night before a recount was to have been held to determine the legality of the election of Gordon L. Schermerhorn as sheriff. Schermerhorn, convicted several weeks ago, will be sentenced this week.

Fehl and Schermerhorn were supported by Llewellyn A. Banks, former Medford publisher, who awaits sentence for second degree murder. Banks shot and killed a constable who attempted to serve him with a warrant in the ballot theft case.

Help of Loan Agencies Asked By Roosevelt

'Sympathetic Attitude' Is Urged; Companies Here Cooperate.

President Roosevelt appealed to loan organizations yesterday to support the administration in the campaign to aid distressed home owners through the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Writing from Hyde Park to William F. Stevenson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the President asked for "a sympathetic attitude toward the plan of exchanging bonds."

He also asked the loan organizations to join the Home Loan Banks and to aid in developing the Federal Savings and Loan Associations about to be organized by the loan board.

The Home Loan Bank Board received word that the Bank of America, Los Angeles, has instructed its 415 branches in 247 cities to accept the bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Encouraging response is being given the District office of the loan corporation by loan associations and insurance companies. Two loans were approved by the local office yesterday.

Plea for Aid

Following is the text of the message to building and loan associations and savings banks that President Roosevelt sent through William F. Stevenson, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, yesterday:

"My dear Mr. Chairman:

"I desire through you to urge the building and loan associations and homestead associations and savings banks of the country to render aid in the campaign the administration is waging to enable unfortunate home owners to save their homes. They can do this, first, by showing a sympathetic attitude toward the plan for exchanging bonds of Home Owners' Loan Corporation for mortgages on homes, and accepting them in cases where they can do so.

"Second, by joining the Home Loan Banks and procuring funds from them to loan to distressed home owners whose loans are eligible to be discounted in the Home Loan Banks and thus build up a permanent reserve of long-time credit in these institutions and relieve the Home Owners Loan Corporation from the pressure of that class of loans, enabling that corporation to concentrate its resources on relief of those owners whose loans are not eligible. These two institutions should work hand in hand—the corporation being transient and designed to relieve pressing and unusual needs, and the bank being permanent and designed to make provision for current and continuing needs.

"Third, they can aid in developing the Federal Savings and Loan Associations now about to be organized by the board, and thereby increase the available capital and lessen the load to be carried by the corporation as membership in one of those associations gives access to the rediscount facilities of the Home Loan Banks.

"Hoping this appeal will be effective and that we will find these great institutions united in a forward movement in the great work before us, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

Coal Mine Guard Fires On Pickets

One of Group Seriously Hurt at Nonunion Shaft in Indiana.

Clinton, Ind., Aug. 7 (AP).—A guard at a nonunion coal mine at Bunsen, near here, fired on pickets this morning, seriously wounding one member of the group.

Sam White, the wounded man, was taken to a hospital at Terre Haute. Officers who investigated the shooting said they were told a man known as "Rip" Caveny fired the shots. He fled after the shooting.

Between 150 and 200 pickets had lined the road leading to the mine early this morning. They had promised, however, that there would be no violence.

Carolinian Sentenced In Maryland Auto Case

In addition to being held for the grand jury, James Brown, Durham, N. C., was given 2 years 6 months and 5 days in the House of Correction in Laurel police court yesterday.

Six charges were placed against the man. The one holding him for the grand jury was that of stealing the automobile of Howard M. Voyce, Baltimore. The other charges included reckless driving, having no registration card, having no operator's permit, speeding, and operating a vehicle without the consent of the owner.

Officer's Flailing Arms Catch Woman Unawares

Mrs. Julia A. Trewaine, 34, 1215 Sixteenth street northwest, discovered yesterday it is best to keep a safe distance from traffic officers during the 5 o'clock rush hour.

Crossing F street at Thirteenth yesterday, Mrs. Trewaine encountered the flailing arms of Policeman Jerome Karlton, who directs traffic at that corner. Her glasses were knocked from her nose and her nose and face scratched. She refused hospital treatment and absolved Karlton.

Hundreds of baseball enthusiasts followed The Post's scoreboard play-by-play description of the Washington-New York double-header in Yankee Stadium yesterday. Ample room was provided for the throng by closing E street in front of The Post Building. Each away-from-home game of the Nationals will be illustrated by The Post's electric scoreboard.

Money Policy Experts Called By Roosevelt

James Warburg and Two Professors Are Invited to Hyde Park.

By Lawrence Sullivan
(Post Staff Correspondent).

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Another approach to the problem of domestic monetary policy was forecast at the summer White House tonight following announcement that James Warburg, technical adviser on currency to the American delegation at London, had been invited to Hyde Park tomorrow.

With him will come Prof. George Warren, of Cornell, and James Rogers, of Yale, who were commissioned by the President several weeks ago to make an exhaustive study of monetary policy in connection with the administration's program for further stimulating business recovery.

White House attaches declined to indicate officially whether the meeting of three monetary experts with the President might be interpreted as a portent of early developments in the reflation policy.

Money Issue to the Fore.

It was pointed out, however, that with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, again on the way to the United States for conferences with Federal Reserve Bank officials in New York, the money question must be regarded as conspicuously to the fore in the President's plans.

Linked with these suggestions were revived reports that Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, who has been in poor health for about two months, might soon send his resignation to President Roosevelt. The President was said today to have concluded finally against further pressure upon Secretary Woodin to retain his post. Plans for a visit by Woodin to Hyde Park had to be abandoned last week because of his continued enfeebled condition.

Director of the Budget Douglas and Senator Couzens, of Michigan, were mentioned in Washington speculation several weeks ago as possible appointees to the Treasury post. Today's advices at Hyde Park, however, were to the effect that several other names have been placed before the President and no final choice will be made before the Chief Executive returns to Washington next week.

Secretary Woodin has an appointment to visit Hyde Park next Wednesday. It is not improbable that his resignation may be announced formally at that time.

Gets Conference Report.

The President is authoritatively reported to have set September 1 as the date when the new Secretary of the Treasury shall take over his official duties.

Further details on the day-to-day operations of the World Economic Conference was given to President Roosevelt in a two-hour meeting with Dr. T. V. Soong, Minister of Finance in the Nanking government and head of the Chinese delegation at London. Accompanied by Alfred S. Sze, Chinese Minister to the United States, Dr. Soong arrived from Washington by special train early today.

Whether the question of additional American credits for Chinese food shipments had been discussed was not revealed in the official resume of the exchanges.

Gandhi's Wife Jailed Soon After Release

Ahmedabad, India, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Mme. Kasturbai Gandhi, wife of the Mahatma Gandhi, and 15 other women were rearrested today immediately on release from jail.

They had failed to comply with the India government's restrictions against the campaign of civil disobedience.

Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, of what transpired at the meeting.

Other board members attending the session were Mr. Lewis and Louis Kirstein, of the William Filene Sons Co., of Boston. Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, were not present.

There were undersurface indications, however, that there will be plenty of work cut out for the labor pacifiers. Several labor organizations are known to be dissatisfied with the manner in which affairs are going and some have quietly suggested that they might resort to strikes unless certain objectionable features of some proposed codes and official interpretations of code are softened.

Held Too Busy to Help.

Criticism is voiced against the fact that the labor advisory board is so busy and so frequently scattered that it does not always serve as an effective watchdog for labor.

Some labor leaders feel so strongly about their inability to keep in effective touch with developments that they have suggested that the American Federation of Labor withdraw its connection with the board. Mr. Green, federation president, however, is not inclined to take that view. He wants to continue as a member of the advisory board and probably shall.

There was set up yesterday a NRA division to handle the growing number of complaints. Offices were assigned the complaint handlers on the third floor of the Commerce Building.

Representatives of the printers' union have lodged a complaint against provisions of the temporary code approved for their trade. The approved work week will not mean employment of any additional printers, Clyde Mills, president of Columbia Typographical Union, said. Mr. Mills presented the protest in both the name of the local and national printing union.

Codes Withdrawal Planned.

Formal request is expected to be made today for the withdrawal of approval of some of the temporary code provisions. The codes approved for the Printers League of New York and the United Typothetae of America calls for a 40-hour work week. The latter code provides only for compensatory time off for overtime, but that of the former provides for payment of time and a half for overtime work, with a flat 40-hour maximum.

Printers are disappointed, too, over the interpretation which permits display of the blue eagle insignia by employers who abide by present hour and wage agreements or who reduce wages in proportion to reduction of work weeks.

Retail codes apparently are going to give trouble. Retailers are, according to complaints, planning to reduce store hours or else stagger working hours to obviate necessity for hiring more persons. Grocers were singled out for a sharp rebuke by A. D. Whiteside, deputy administrator, in a telegram sent the chairman of the Indiana Retail Grocers Association at Indianapolis, Ind.

Gen. Johnson also took a sharp fling at what he described as "various rackets," which have sprung up in connection with the recovery drive. He mentioned various publications, which he said were attempting to convey the impression they were sponsored by the administration.

Fall Off Motorcycle Hurts Girl; Car Blamed

Thrown from the rear of a motorcycle in an accident at Ninth and F streets yesterday, Flora Kurz, 17, 716 B street northwest, was in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull.

David Cohen, 30, Takoma Park, Md., driver of the motorcycle, was not injured. Police said they were struck by an automobile. The driver was not held.

Union Leaders Call on Miners For Showdown

Head of Pennsylvania Local Urges Strikers Not to Return.

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 7 (AP).—A call to striking miners to reconsider their refusal to resume work under the Roosevelt truce tonight presaged a showdown between leaders of union locals and higher officers of the United Mine Workers of America.

While charges of alleged Communistic agitation flew through the soft coal fields as thousands of workers turned a deaf ear to pleas to return to the mines, William Feeney, president of District 4, United Mine Workers of America, called a "reconsideration" meeting for tomorrow morning.

Immediately Martin Ryan, local union leader, sent word to his followers—the officers who voted Saturday night against acceptance of the truce—to refuse to attend the meeting.

Lays Trickery to Lewis.

He assailed Feeney and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, charging they had tried to "trick" the striking miners by not accurately presenting terms of the truce.

With the issue drawn between national and district officers on one side and Fayette County union local leaders on the other, the soft coal regions were quiet tonight as they awaited the arrival tomorrow of Edward F. McGrady, assistant labor administrator of the Recovery Administration.

Plans Personal Appeal.

He is going to Uniontown to make a personal appeal to miners to resume work pending adoption of a coal code.

The charges of Communistic agitation were raised after only 6,000 to 10,000 of some 60,000 strikers went back to the mines today in accordance with the terms of the truce effected by President Roosevelt. Ryan flatly denied the accusations that radicals were responsible.

Go-Between Asks Writ for Freedom

Gangster's Attorney Seeks Strewl's Release in O'Connell Case.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Attorney Daniel H. Prior, counsel to the late gangster, Jack "Legs" Diamond, produced habeas corpus writs today seeking release of Manny Strewl, the intermediary in the John J. O'Connell, jr., kidnaping case.

The writs, served on Police Chief David Smurl and Police Commissioner James Bolan, of New York City, are returnable tomorrow before Supreme Court Justice Foster, Monticello, N. Y.

Strewl, who acted as intermediary in ransom negotiations for release of Young O'Connell, liberated for $40,000 after being held captive 23 days, has been held "in custody" for questioning in the case.

Prior declared he had been retained by Strewl's family. The attorney charged Strewl had been held illegally.

Meanwhile, District Attorney John T. Delaney was preparing evidence which probably will be presented to a grand jury during the week.

Harold Lloyd Given Official Police Badge

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (AP).—In recognition of his interest in police work, Harold Lloyd, film comedian, was presented a badge today from James K. Watkins, commissioner of the Detroit, Mich., police.

Assistant Chief Jack Finlinson, of Los Angeles, made the presentation.

history as an independent nation, representatives of the opposition, liberals, conservative and popular parties agreed today that there could be no solution of the political situation while Machado remained in office.

A commission of five liberal party representatives called at the palace so to inform him.

The president replied, it was learned on the highest authority, that he was ready to leave office if the people so willed, but that he would not quit as the result of any "foreign intermeddling."

This reference was interpreted in political circles to refer to the mediation efforts of Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, who has been engaged for some time in an attempt to placate political difficulties.

The American envoy previously had revealed that he had suggested a "formula" for the settlement of the present situation, which he described as very grave. This solution was understood to provide that Machado take a "leave of absence."

One member of the commission revealed Machado declared he intended to telephone Washington to determine the exact powers of Welles.

Residents of the city tonight locked and barricaded their doors and drew the shutters tight.

The strike, which began two weeks ago with a walkout of omnibus drivers, had virtually paralyzed all the nation's commerce and industry. Disorders were reported in cities throughout the republic.

Cuban Aid Denies Machado Has Quit in Wire to Post

The Post early today received a cablegram sent last night from Havana by Ramiro Guerra, secretary to President Machado of Cuba. The message follows:

"In view of the misleading messages sent today from this city by an American correspondent, I ask you in a spirit of fairness to ponder the following facts:

"It is untrue that President Machado has resigned. It is untrue that the Liberal, Popular and Conservative parties have agreed that President Machado's resignation is the only way to settle the Cuban political difficulties. Members of the Liberal party have asked him to resign. As I am wiring you, President Machado is walking through Havana streets inspecting the police service for the protection of citizens.

"The above facts are true, as you can ascertain if you have in Havana a reliable representative. It is unfortunate that the sending of misleading information to the States that afterward was broadcast in Havana provoked the clashes that we all lament, but the government only performed its essential functions and the responsibility shall fall where it belongs."

Witness Tells How Man Was Shot by Policeman

Havana, Aug. 7 (AP).—Jose Garcia, photographer, gave this description of disorders incident to the occupation of the city by military forces:

"I was entering a newspaper plant when a uniformed policeman shot and killed a man standing almost at my side."

Man Dying After Losing Arm Under Freight Car

Charles Stanton, 41, of 455 C street, whose left arm was severed when he fell from the rods of a freight car on Highway Bridge yesterday, was in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital last night.

Stanton suffered serious internal injuries and was not expected to live, according to hospital officials.

U. S. Workers Promise NRA Codes Support

2 Organized Groups, Left Out of Plans, Pledge Unstinted Help.

By Robert C. Albright.

Rival camps of organized Federal workers will pitch their tents under the shadow of the Blue Eagle, despite apparent inconsistencies in the Government's treatment of public and private workers.

The National Federation of Federal Employes made its position clear last night in a strong letter to all local unions, urging complete support of the National Recovery Administration.

Earlier the American Federation of Government Employes, in a letter to National Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson, pledged solid cooperation with recovery plans. This came in the face of his failure to include Federal workers under "code" benefits extended to private industry.

Appeal to President.

Meanwhile the International Association of Machinists pressed ahead in efforts to block the Navy's five-day-week order, entailing a one-sixth reduction in pay for 46,000 Navy field workers. Intervention of the National Recovery Administration has been sought. A direct appeal to the President will be made when he returns from Hyde Park.

President Luther C. Steward of the National Federation of Federal Employes, in his letter last night to member locals, called on each unit to adopt resolutions supporting recovery plans and to sign membership consumer pledge cards.

"The membership of the National Federation of Federal Employes can be counted upon to do more than its share in this concerted effort," Mr. Steward wrote.

"In every emergency in the past, Federal employes have been to the forefront of those working for the national welfare. In this emergency they already have earned that position. Now, with the NRA program ready, and its success dependent upon the whole-hearted aid of every man and woman in the Nation, Federal employes once more may be expected to rally to the cause."

Glass Pledges Support.

Vice President David R. Glass, of the labor affiliated American Federation of Federal Employes, recently wrote Gen. Johnson the membership of his group would back the recovery program to the limit, and realized any "code" Federal workers may get will have to be accomplished through new legislation.

Mr. Glass said last night his organization's "code" or "bill of rights" for Federal workers, will be drafted at an early date, and laid before the President on his return from Hyde Park. His organization also will line up behind the International Association of Machinists in their fight for a 39-hour week in Navy Yards without pay reduction, as a substitute for the current five-day week order and pay cut.

The Federal Government's civil service reemployment program initiated by President Roosevelt as a means of caring for ousted Government employes, slowed up somewhat last week, according to figures made public yesterday by the Civil Service Commission. Only 75 employes who had lost out in the Government economy drive were put back to work in Government agencies during the week. The number has averaged 200 in previous weeks. About 3,000 unemployed still remain on the commission's reemployment lists.

Chicago Enjoins Strike Activities

Temporary Injunction Is Granted Against Six Organizations.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—A temporary injunction against alleged strike activities of three Communist and three labor groups was today granted 11 Chicago leather goods companies which have signed President Roosevelt's trade code agreement.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing the companies, presented the names of 300 employes, whom he charged with "conspiracy to destroy the complainants' businesses contrary to the President's proclamation and his code program."

He charged they were satisfied with hours, wages and working conditions, but were nevertheless attempting to form mobs and foment riots.

Colleges May Post Blue Eagle Symbol

Education Board Drafting Code, But Students Will Not Be Included.

(United Press.)

The sign of the Blue Eagle soon may be seen on college campuses.

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, announced yesterday that a committee of the American Council on Education is drafting a code for submission to the National Recovery Administration.

Dr. Marvin neglected to mention what class of worker would come under the code but inquiry developed that he did not mean students.

Worker Hurt in Fall.

William A. Athey, of 528 North Columbus street, Alexandria, an oiler at Potomac Yards, was injured yesterday when he fell from a freight car and was taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment. His injuries are not considered serious.

ADMIRAL ROMEO BERNOTTI.

Bernotti, Commanding 2 Training Riggers, Reaches U. S. Today.

When Admiral Romeo Bernotti brings his two square-riggers into Baltimore today he will be reliving memories of the last such Italian training cruise made 40 years ago.

When Bernotti first sighted American shores, at that time, he stood on the deck of the Vittorio Emanuele as midshipman. Today he is the superintendent of the Naval War College and Naval Academy of Italy and commands the two training vessels, Christoforo Columbo and Amerigo Vespucci.

Admiral Bernotti's present cruise has additional familiar atmosphere, inasmuch as the Vespucci, flagship of the present voyage, is an exact duplicate of the Emanuele on which he hoisted sails and swabbed decks 40 years ago.

U. S. Relief Funds To Kansas and Missouri

(Associated Press.)

Unemployment relief grants of $800,000 to Missouri and $549,427 to Kansas were announced yesterday by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Both allotments were on the basis of one Federal dollar for every three spent by the two States in the second quarter of this year.

Balbo Ready for Flight; Weather Is Satisfactory

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Aug. 7 (AP).—A report received here tonight from Shoal Harbor said the Italian air armada might hop off from there tomorrow at daylight for the Azores on its homeward journey.

Although there was fog off the coast of Newfoundland today, Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the expedition, was said to be satisfied with weather conditions over the Atlantic.

Navy Building Plans Guarded With Secrecy

Department Uses Gag Rule to Keep Secrets From Other Nations.

Fear that foreign espionage systems otherwise might obtain information beneficial to their own navies last night led the Navy Department to surround its gigantic building program with war-time secrecy.

The secrecy policy, it was disclosed, is similar to those maintained by Germany and Japan and was adopted partly in retaliation against them.

All private ship yards holding contracts for the 21 vessels to cost $129,000,000 and all navy yards which will build the 16 remaining ships of the program have been instructed to guard plans and specifications.

Build Up to Others.

Simultaneously, a gag law has been introduced at the Navy Department to prohibit architects and engineers from disclosing details concerning the craft with which the United States hopes to move toward naval supremacy.

The four light cruisers and the 1,850-ton destroyer leaders were decided upon to offset Japanese and British strength in these categories.

The ships will possess more noncorrosive steel than any other American ships. As far as possible electric welding, such as Germany is putting into its mysterious "vest-pocket" battleships, will be used. Substitution of welding for rivets will make for lighter weight and consequently greater speed.

The Navy, too, it was learned, has been experimenting with new turret designs capable of carrying four guns and has been studying the feasibility of adopting Diesel engine propulsion.

Plans Not Revealed.

Whether these will be incorporated in the 1933 vessels, though, was indeterminable because of the Navy's desire to keep other governments ignorant.

The craft, it was pointed out, will be equal or superior to anything possessed by any navies other than Germany's and Japan's.

Stores Conform With Beer Rules

Operators Complying With Regulations or Seeking Off-Sale Licenses.

Delicatessen and drug store operators whose on-sale beer permits recently were threatened with revocation because the establishments failed to comply with District regulations are either conforming to the rules or exchanging their temporary permits for off-sale annual licenses, Vernon E. West, chairman of the Beverage Permits Board, said yesterday.

Many have conformed with regulations by installing partitions to separate the tables at which beer is sold from the other part of the store.

Applications, especially for off-sale licenses, are still pouring into the permits board. Twenty-five requests were received yesterday. The board today will submit 90 more annual licenses to the District Commissioners for approval.

Hobbs Is Indorsed By District Legion

Southern Maryland Council Backs Him for State Commander.

The Southern Maryland district council of the American Legion, representing more than 90 per cent of the veterans of this section, have indorsed J. Bryan Hobbs as Maryland commander, it has been announced at Laurel, Md.

G. Stuart Reeder, vice commander and president of the Southern Maryland council, in a recent address before Laurel Post, No. 60, stated that the council was unanimously in favor of Hobbs.

Hobbs, commander of the Laurel Post, will be one of the outstanding candidates at the State convention, at Hagerstown, Md., August 23-26.

Besides the district candidate, other delegates will include Kenneth B. Jones, L. W. Waters, James R. Whalen and Mansfield Ferrall.

Mayors' Official Doubts Contracts Can Be Altered

Doubt that existing public works contracts for municipal construction can be altered to allow contractors to come under an hour-shortening, wage-raising code was expressed last night by Paul V. Betters, Chicago, secretary of the Conference of Mayors.

Mr. Betters was in Washington yesterday conferring with public works administration officials on this and other phases of the public works program. Few cities have authority to change contracts already let, Mr. Betters said. Such alterations as may be required to bring contractors under the code must be done by the contractors themselves, who must bear the cost, Mr. Betters declared.

British Editors Favor Building Stronger Navy

Popular Support Is Strong for Proposed Program of Construction.

London, Aug. 7 (U.P.).—Strong popular support for Britain's navy building program was voiced in the press today.

The comment referred to the naval programs of the United States and Japan and insisted that it was time Great Britain rebuild her navy to a more efficient and greater strength.

The campaign aroused interest also in Germany, where press comment viewed the naval building race as forerunner of another world war.

U. S. Building Cited.

The Morning Post here, referring to the United States and Japan, said:

"Both those powers are engaged in almost identical building programs which together add upward of 60 ships to the floating navies of the world. While reading no menace in these preparaties, it seems mere common prudence to be sure the British navy does not lag behind the rest of the world."

The Spectator, calling attention to the Japanese population growth, added:

"Reports of Japanese naval maneuvers on a record scale in the Pacific and preparation of record naval estimates seems sinister, and by no means irrelevant to the comment on population figures."

More Protection Urged.

Earl Jellicoe, speaking at Portsmouth, said:

"We were very near disaster in its forst form in April, 1917, when German submarines sank 155 British ships," he said. "It would be a very hard thing if that ever happened again. Yet in those days we had well over 100 cruisers, whereas, now we have only 50. And we had 350 destroyers then against 150 now. anybody can see we certainly are not erring on the side of safety."

German comment included the following in the Neueste Nachrichten, a Dresden newspaper:

One wonders what England will do. Will she imitate the example of others? It is evident the idea of disarmament has suffered a grave setback. The powers neither disarm nor keep their armaments stationary."

Taxi Driver Offers Twelve-Point Code

Six Traffic Violations Set as Limit for Permit to Hack.

"Thou shalt not," multiplied by 12 and codified by George E. Bowley, represents the latest working code for taxicab drivers.

Submitted to The Post yesterday by Mr. Bowley, the proposed code outlines the do and don'ts of the hackers' fraternity.

An eight-hour day for the "cream of the crop" among hackers is prescribed under the code. Only men with less than six traffic violations recorded at the Traffic Bureau would be allowed to drive. The author of the code, himself a hacker, claims that the plan would benefit passengers as well as hackers.

Corset Industry To Revise Code

Manufacturers Are Ready to Pay Higher Wages Than Minimum.

(Associated Press.)

Corset manufacturers were advised yesterday by the National Recovery Administration to revise their proposed code of operation to make it appear fairer to themselves.

Soon after hearings opened, Earl D. Howard, deputy administrator, said the testimony showed they were willing to pay much higher wages than the $14 a week minimum for men and $13 for women provided in the code.

Howard set today for an executive session to try to compose all differences developed in the hearing, including a 40 versus a 35-hour week, and an issue raised over a lower minimum wage for women and for men.

Sweeping Quiz Of Pits Crash Is To Be Started

Decline of 30 Cents After Rise to Be Investigated, Says Paper.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Tribune said today that the investigation of the recent wheat price crash will be one of the most sweeping ever undertaken by the Department of Agriculture and will include operations on the Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth and Kansas City exchanges.

"All phases of the advance in wheat between June 15 and July 18, and the drastic decline of 30¾ cents between the latter date and the inside level of 93¾ cents for December delivery by July 20 will be delved into," the paper said.

The trade in all markets was reported to have received official instructions as to the information desired. The Tribune said the reports would be submitted to a careful audit.

Results of the investigation are to be forwarded to the Secretary of Agriculture. Chicago commission houses were asked to make their reports to the grain futures administration within 10 days.

The paper said every operation in the wheat market equaling 200,000 bushels or more between the beginning of business on June 15 and July 31, regardless of character, must be shown.

"It was also anticipated," the paper added, "that the real cause of the debacle in the wheat market on July 19 and 20 will be shown to have been largely due to an overextended 'long' position which found few buyers when general selling started. Whether there was any short selling will be determined by the investigation, which calls for all accounts to be designated whether 'hedging,' speculative, spreading, or commission house."

Johnson to Open Drive in St. Louis

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (AP).—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson will address a mass meeting at the Municipal Theater next Sunday, when the St. Louis campaign to enlist popular support for President Roosevelt's reemployment program will open formally.

A telegram received today by the St. Louis NRA committee said its request that he speak here had been granted.

Signed copies of the President's voluntary blanket reemployment agreement were received today by the St. Louis office of the Department of Commerce from 2,610 Missouri employers, bringing the total to 32,095.

Bids on $75,000,000 Treasury Bills Opened

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Acheson announced that the tenders for $75,000,000, or thereabouts, of 91-day Treasury bills, dated August 9, and maturing November 8, 1933, which were offered on August 3, were opened at the Federal Reserve Banks yesterday.

The total amount applied for was $263,679,000, of which $75,142,000 was accepted. The accepted bids ranged in price from 99.940, equivalent to a rate of about 0.24 per cent per annum, to 99.917, equivalent to a rate of about 0.33 per cent per annum, on a bank discount basis. Only part of the amount bid for at the latter price was accepted. The average price of Treasury bills to be issued is 99.919, and the average rate is about 0.32 per cent per annum on a bank discount basis.

Fiancee Unable To Give Clew in Sanborn Death

Last Saw Him Day Before Disappearance, Says Swede Interpreter.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Extensive questioning of his blonde fiancee today served only to deepen the mystery of the slaying of Henry F. Sanborn, socially prominent railway executive.

The woman, Miss Magnhild Almskaar, 27, a Swedish interpreter, viewed Sanborn's body at the morgue in Jamaica, Long Island, and submitted to hours of interrogation, but police said she was unable to furnish any clew.

Sanborn disappeared after leaving his office in the Woolworth Building on July 17, saying a man was waiting to drive him to Long Island. On Saturday his body was found buried in a shallow grave near Bayside, Long Island. He had been shot twice in the back, and had been dead about three weeks.

Miss Almskaar, who was found in the office where she worked was quoted by authorities as saying she had not seen Sanborn since the day before he disappeared.

Meanwhile police in France and Italy were asked to find Bancroft Mitchell, son of the former United States Attorney General, who was said by Queens Borough authorities to have been associated with Sanborn and William McNair in the purchase of stock in a Connecticut brewery.

Mitchell sailed for Europe on July 22, and was believed not to have heard yet of Sanborn's death.

Police Hunt Pair In Slaying Case

Crude Map Found by Body of Prominent Cincinnati Business Man.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 7 (AP).—The victim of a mysterious slaying, found near an amusement park here last night, was identified today as Oliver S. Baily, 27, prominent both in Cincinnati business and society.

Baily was special representative of an insurance company here and son-in-law of Jesse T. Lippincott, president and treasurer of the Cincinnati Union Stockyards. He was the son of George J. Baily, Cincinnati attorney.

Officers said he apparently had been struck from behind with a brick. As they sought a woman and a man they believe were at the scene, the officers were puzzled over a crude map, drawn with pencil, which indicated by a dot the place where the body was found. The map was found near the body.

Grain Exchanges Will Submit Code

(Associated Press.)

Grain exchanges yesterday responded to the demand of farm administrators for a code covering reforms intended to bring stabilization of prices.

They informed administrators that tomorrow they will submit a code of exchange practices which the farm officials plan to pass on as soon as possible.

After the mid-July collapse in grain prices, administrators called exchange representatives together here and George N. Peek, the chief administrator, told them that if they did not "put their houses in order," the administration would prescribe a code.

Provisions of the exchange code, which will be submitted at a conference with administrators, were not revealed.

Forgotten Drunk Tires of Jail, So Out He Walks

George Brooks, 618 Sixth street northwest, discovered the role of the "forgotten man" has its advantages—especially in a jail. Brooks had but six days left to serve on a 15-day drunkenness sentence at District Jail when an urge for freedom came. So Brooks walked away.

There were jailers in the jail's yard and police on the street, but no one noticed him go. They didn't even miss him for 24 hours.

U. S. Is Seeking To Check Arms Sales to Gangs

U. S. Dickering With Firms to Halt Purchases of Machine Guns.

(United Press.)

Disarmament began at home yesterday when the Government sought to dam the source of underworld weapons.

Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney General in charge of Federal antiracketeering forces, announced negotiation of an agreement with the Thompson Machine Gun Co. to prevent sales of machine guns to anyone except Governmental units.

He said a similar proposal had been made to the Colt Firearms Co.

Mr. Keenan's action was considered a significant step in the battle against gangsters, whose machine guns have sprayed death in American racketeering.

Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley—"loaned" to the Justice Department to study crime conditions—has opened offices in the department.

He conferred at length with Acting Attorney General William Stanley and Mr. Keenan.

"I'm entering this job with an open mind," Dr. Moley remarked. "I'm talking with Keenan and the others in the department in a very preliminary way."

He indicated one of the first questions to be considered was the recommendation of legislation to help combat crime. Mr. Moley has been employed by several State governments to survey criminal problems.

Mr. Keenan declined to discuss reports that Mr. Moley had singled out the Urschel kidnaping case in Oklahoma for special study. The Justice Department, however, has sent agents to Oklahoma to cooperate with local authorities in the search for the abductors. Reports also have been current that Mr. Moley was significantly interested in the O'Connell kidnaping in New York.

Struck 40 Women, Suspect Admits

Penknife Bandit Talks as He Is Identified in Police Line-up.

Identified in a police line-up as the penknife bandit who attacked two women Sunday night, Edward Diggs, colored, 3716 Sherman avenue northwest, confessed 40 similar attacks, police said.

Diggs was arrested Sunday night by Policeman C. L. Arion when he saw the man running along New Hampshire avenue at Park road northwest with an open penknife in his hand.

Shortly before, Miss Elizabeth Totten, 1121 Lamont street northwest, and Miss Marjorie R. Hutcheson, 3103 Georgia avenue northwest, were attacked and knocked down by a man who attempted to snatch their purses. The man was armed with a knife, they said.

Miss Totten was taken to Garfield Memorial Hospital. Her brother identified Diggs, as did companions of the women. Police are checking cases Diggs confessed.

Former Judge's Son Stays in Front of Police Station and Pays $1.

Is it lawful to park in the free State of Maryland? If so, where and when?

Answers to those questions are solicited by Homer R. Thomas, son of former County Judge Harry R. Thomas, of Arlington County. Here's the reason why.

Thomas and W. Rex Furr, both of Clarendon, were returning early yesterday from Coudersport, Pa. Becoming tired and sleepy, they decided to park and rest. They parked in front of the Frederick Police Station. It was about 2 a. m.

Awakened by an alarm clock, set for 5 a. m., they found a red ticket saying report to the police immediately. They complied and found all policemen at the station taking an early morning nap. They awakened the desk sergeant.

"Yes," he said, "you are the boys in the Virginia car. I saw you park. You have violated the law. We have no court today, but you can leave a $1 bill and need not come back unless you wish."

Thomas declared that he did not mind the dollar fee, it was the principle of the thing.

Another DelaySeen For Calvert Bridge

Another obstacle to early construction of the Calvert Street Bridge appeared yesterday.

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals, expecting a reply daily for the past week from Modjeski, Masters & Chase, Philadelphia consulting engineers, has not received word as to whether the firm will design a multiple arch masonry bridge without advance payment.

Rejection of Sod Bids Sought by Association

Rejection of all bids on supplying sod for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, to the District repair shops and the calling of new bids is asked in a letter sent yesterday to the District Commissioners by E. E. Ruppert, president of the Greater Washington Sod Association.

Ruppert said association members, including the District, Maryland and Virginia, will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Silver Spring, in the Montgomery County Building, to formulate a code for the industry in accordance with the request of the National Recovery Administration.

Freedom Plea By Zimmerman Balks Officers

Illinois Gangster Halts Extradition Move by Appeal.

Illinois authorities here to return Frank Zimmerman, Chicago gangster, wanted in that State for bank robbery, were again thwarted yesterday by application by Zimmerman's attorney for a writ of habeas corpus.

District Supreme Court Justice Joseph W. Cox had granted extradition papers when the application was made by Attorney Charles Ford. Hearing on the application will be held today before Judge Cox.

Zimmerman is alleged to have participated in a $52,000 bank robbery in Streator, Ill., in May, 1932. He escaped from jail shortly after the robbery, according to police, and has been at large since.

Washington detectives arrested Zimmerman here last week, and have held him under heavy guard since his arrest, fearing an attempt to free him.

A witness at the extradition hearing was Alex Brown, of Chicago, on parole after turning State's evidence in the robbery case. He identified Zimmerman as one of the participants.

Odell S. Smith Heads Citizens At Fire Parade

Leading Washingtonians on Committee That Will Review March.

Many prominent Washingtonians joined hands with firemen yesterday to help make this year's National Firemen's Labor Day parade the biggest in its history.

Men and women representing a cross-section of business and civic life in the National Capital will serve on the important citizens' committee, which will be headed by Odell S. Smith, long identified with the firefighters' Labor Day celebration.

In addition to the leaders announced herewith, others who have not yet been reached by Mr. Smith are expected to lend their aid within the week.

The committee is as follows: Rudolph Jose, Harry F. Allmond, Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, Edward R. Pierce, Maj. E. W. Brown, Robert J. Cottrell, Capt. Charles Demonet, Maj. D. J. Donovan and Mrs. John Allen Dougherty.

Also, William Eno, Lieut. Howard S. Fisk, Robert V. Fleming, E. C. Graham, Isaac Gans, Dr. George C. Havenner, J. Thilman Hendrick, Gen. John A. Johnson, Mark Lansburg, Martin A. Leese, Louis Levay, Louis Lowe, Capt. O. R. Moxley, Edward J. Murphy and George W. Offutt.

Also George Plitt, Samuel J. Prescott, Charles J. Waters, George S. Watson, Ben T. Webster, Lloyd B. Wilson, J. G. Yaden, Vernon T. Orrison and Rolfe E. Bolling.

The citizen's committee will review the parade as well as help with its organization. Some of its members will serve as judges and parade officials.

Mr. Smith plans a meeting of the citizen's committee shortly, and at this time its work will be discussed and outlined. Local firemen and members of the National Firemen's Association, as well as Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, were unanimous in their thanks to the citizens who will assist the big parade.

Jobless Asked to Register.

Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare in Arlington County, has been appointed county chairman for reemployment by George W. Guy, of Richmond, State director of the National Reemployment Bureau. Mrs. Jacobs urges all unemployed persons to register at her office at the county courthouse.

Astronomers Think Meteor Collided With Planet Saturn

Believe Huge White Spot Is Cloud of Dust Caused by Blow.

(Associated Press.)

A terrific collision between a giant meteor and the planet Saturn was advanced yesterday by Naval Observatory astronomers as a possible cause of the huge white spot that appeared on the planet early Saturday.

The spot appears to be about the size of the earth, nearly 8,000 miles across, but that does not mean necessarily that a meteor as large as the earth hit Saturn, astronomers said.

The spot as seen from the earth is probably a cloud of dust in the atmosphere that surrounds Saturn. Such a cloud might have been produced by the fall of a huge meteor or by a giant volcanic eruption from inside the planet. The dust cloud might be considerably larger than the meteor or eruption that caused it.

Checking Rotation Speed.

The white spot, standing out plainly against Saturn's yellow background, is being used by astronomers to check up on the exact speed of the big planet's rotation.

Measurements from the last two spots that appeared on Saturn, which is 9 times the diameter of the earth and 100 times as heavy, have shown that it is spinning much faster than the earth, making a complete revolution in 10 hours and about 17 minutes. The last two spots appeared in 1876 and 1903.

The rotation check-up is not easy, because the spot can be seen only three hours at a time and may disappear soon when the dust cloud becomes spread throughout the planet's atmosphere.

What the astronomers can see is only the dust cloud in the atmosphere because their telescopes can not penetrate through the atmosphere to the planet itself. Mars is believed to be the only planet whose surface has been seen by astronomers, all others being veiled by their atmospheric blankets.

Planet May Not Be Solid.

Saturn is only about one-tenth as dense as the earth, which means it may be gaseous or liquid instead of solid, but a volcanic eruption still could take place on it, the naval astronomers pointed out.

The earth may have undergone collisions with meteors in the past that could produce just as much of a disturbance in its own atmosphere, the astrologers added.

Saturn is surrounded by its famous rings, composed of dust particles, and has eight or nine "moons" or satellites. It is second in size only to Jupiter and is about 745,000,000 miles from the earth when it approaches nearest.

Wall Paper Industry Asks Shorter Hours

(Associated Press.)

A demand from labor for shorter working hours and a wide divergence of views among manufacturers and wholesalers marked the opening yesterday of hearings on a proposed code for the wall paper industry.

Warning manufacturers against overproduction, William Collins, president of the United Wall Paper Craft Workers, asked for a 30-hour work week in place of the 40 hour proposal in the code submitted by an advisory committee of manufacturers.

Groceries' Code Plans Deadlocked

Unfair Practice Articles Accord Seen Today in Chicago Parley.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Representing the grocery trade of America, a national committee, including independent and chain store officials, deadlocked temporarily here today on articles of their code pertaining to unfair practices, including rebates and trade allowances.

Hours of work and wage have been decided. Other sections required by the agricultural adjustment agreement are still to be agreed upon. Trend of discussions indicated possible agreement and completion of remaining sections of the code tomorrow.

Industrial launderers organized a national association today and also will start work on a code tomorrow.

Arlington Soon to Start Work of Grading Roads

Work of grading and resurfacing roads in Arlington County will be started within the next few days, it was learned from the office of County Manager Roy S. Braden yesterday. The program calls for work on 12 miles of roadway that will not be affected by the installation of the proposed county-wide sewerage system.

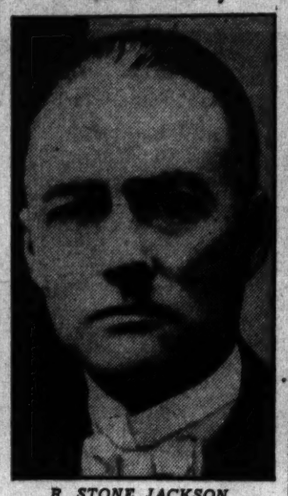
This work was authorized at the July meeting of the board, but was postponed while a careful check was made as to the plan for laying the trunkline sewer.

Washington Hit-Skipper Gets Jail in Alexandria

George T. Hughes, 33, colored, of the 1000 block Lamont street, was arraigned before United States Commissioner John Barton Phillips in Alexandria yesterday on a charge of failing to stop after colliding on the Mount Vernon boulevard, near Capital Overlook. He was given 30 days in jail.

James R. Duncan, Alexandria, was the driver of the automobile with which Hughes' car collided. Duncan noted the number of the license on the other car and gave it to Park Policemen H. M. Borger and F. T. Cain.

Funeral Today



R. STONE JACKSON, well known Mason, who will be buried today in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Jackson Rites Will Be Held This Afternoon

Masonic Leader, Former U. S. Official, to Be Buried in Rock Creek

Funeral services for R. Stone Jackson, for many years a leader in Washington Masonry, will be held at S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be at Rock Creek Cemetery.

Jackson died suddenly at his home, 1434 Harvard street northwest, late Saturday at the age of 64. The last 45 years of his life was spent in Washington.

Coming here in 1888, he first was employed in the Navy Department. Later he was transferred to the Food Administration, serving under Herbert Hoover. After the World War he was disbursing officer with the Federal Board of Vocational Rehabilitation and his last position was that of adjudicator in the Veterans' Administration.

Mr. Jackson was one of the organizers of Mount Pleasant Chapter, No. 13, of the Masons, of which he was high priest, and of Mount Pleasant Council, No. 5, of which he was past master. He also was past-master of Benjamin B. French Lodge, No. 15, Washington Commandery, No. 1, and a member of the Shrine, Almas Temple.

Born in Elmira, Ill., September 29, 1869, Mr. Jackson was married three years after coming to Washington to Miss Lenora Vialle Rooney, of this city. He is survived by two children, Miss Frances L. Jackson, 1434 Harvard street northwest, and Roy L. Jackson, of Woodbury, N. J., and three brothers.

Mrs. E. M. Bennett Funeral Is Today

Retired Major's Wife Will Be Interred in Arlington.

Funeral services for Mrs. Esther Morton Bennett, who died at her home Saturday, will be held today at 2 p. m. at her late residence, 4104 Military road northwest. Interment will be at Arlington Cemetery.

Born in Greenup, Ky., in 1884, Mrs. Bennett was educated at schools near there and at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. In 1908 she was married to Maj. Chester A. Bennett, United States Army, retired, now a Washington attorney. He was the son of Representative A. B. Bennett, of Kentucky, and since the World War, in which Maj. Bennett attained the rank of major, the couple has lived in Washington.

Mrs. Bennett was a member of the Christian Church here. She is survived by her mother, three sisters and a brother, all of Greenup.

Arlington I. O. O. F. to Meet.

Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., will meet this evening in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon at 8 o'clock.

Plant Is Closed, 100 Dismissed, In Alexandria

Shirt Company, First to Sign in NRA, Gives No Reason.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Century Manufacturing Co., makers of men's shirts, the first Alexandria industry to sign the NRA agreement, closed yesterday, throwing approximately 100 women and girls and a few men out of work. No reason was given other than that it was ordered by the company's head office in Baltimore.

The company placed in effect Tuesday a maximum work schedule of 40 hours a week and a minimum wage of $14, which, it is understood, was considerably more than the workers had been receiving.

Several months ago the employes of this company went on strike for two weeks, due to a 10 per cent wage reduction, with no guarantee of continued work. A proposal of the workers to accept a 5 per cent reduction, with a guarantee of work until January 1, 1934, was accepted by the company and the employes returned to work.

The employes were notified of the closing when they reported for work yesterday morning. They were given no information as to when they would be recalled.

A meeting of the retail merchants of Alexandria was held last night in the Corporation Courtroom, at which J. W. Delehanty, of the public relations division of the National Recovery Administration, was to speak, but it was announced Mr. Delehanty would not be present, owing to the fact that the object of the meeting appeared to be an agreement as to the hours which retailers would be permitted to remain open.

Attorney Hannon E. Norris, presided, and explained to the meeting that it was his understanding there is at present no limitation as to the hours of opening and closing, other than the "gentlemens' agreement" reached last Wednesday, and recommended that the matter be allowed to rest until after the hearing of the national retailers on August 15.

Morris Rosenberg explained some of the features of the national recovery act.

At the meeting Wednesday night, it was agreed, by a vote of 20 to 19, that all grocery stores would open at 7 and close at 6 o'clock and 8 o'clock on Saturdays, and close all day Sundays and legal holidays. It appeared last night that some of those voting against this proposition had been opening earlier in the morning and closing later. One grocer stated that he had been threatened with the cancellation of his NRA insignia.

The meeting adjourned to await definite action of the national retailers, following the hearings in Washington.

Marylander Fined $10 In Crash Injuring Man

Pleading not guilty to charges of reckless driving and failing to have a registration card, Venancio Q. Liberato, East Riverdale, Md., was fined $10 and costs in the Hyattsville Police Court yesterday.

The charges were placed against Liberato following a crash at Brentwood, Saturday, that buried Ray Shenk, 19, Winchester, Va., under an 8-ton load of sugar. Shenk is recovering in Sibley Hospital from cuts and bruises. The sugar truck was alleged to have been overturned when sideswiped by Liberato's car. Another truck also was demolished in the accident.

Two Liquor Seizures Made in Maryland

Two liquor seizures, made by Federal inspectors, have been reported at the office of United States Commissioner Parran in Upper Marlboro.

When the car of Theodore Stringer, Bryan Road, Md., was stopped near Piscataway, Md., agents found 12 half gallons of alleged white whisky. Edward Holt, colored, Mechanicsville, Md., was charged with manufacture and possession of whisky.

War Leader Dies

BARON HANS VON BELOW, of 1024 Sixteenth street northwest, chief of staff of the German army on the eastern front during part of the World War, whose body will be brought to Washington for burial September 1. Baron von Below died Sunday in Waynesville, N. C. He was 74.

Maj. Allen, 51, Argonne Hero, Is Dead Here

Received D. S. C. for Valor After Being Wounded; Arlington Burial.

Maj. Oliver Allen, Infantry, died Sunday at Walter Reed General Hospital. The major, who was 51, had been on duty as a member of the faculty of the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Surviving is the widow, Mrs. Lavinia Allen, who was with the major at the time of his death. He will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery. Funeral arrangements will be annunoced later.

Born in London, March 25, 1882, Maj. Allen joined the Georgia National Guard in 1908 and served as second and first lieutenant and captain until 1911. He entered the Army as first lieutenant of Infantry in 1917. He was promoted to the rank of captain in 1918, and two months later became major. He left the Army in 1920.

Allen received the Distinguished Service Cross as captain of the 16th Infantry, First Division, in the Argonne Forest. The citation read:

"Capt. Allen remained in command of his company after he had been wounded and after the battalion commander had been wounded, took command of the battalion and led it forward under heavy fire from artillery and machine gun, taking and holding all objectives."

He also received the Silver Star citation for meritorious service and gallantry in action and the Purple Heart decoration (oak leaf cluster). He was a member of the General Staff Corps eligible list. A graduate of the infantry school advanced course in 1923, he also was graduated from the command and general staff school in 1924 and the Army War College in 1928.

Alexandria's Firemen Going to Convention

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, of Alexandria, will leave today for Harrisonburg to attend the meeting of the steering committee of the Virginia Fire Chiefs Association tonight.

The forty-eighth annual convention and tournament of the Virginia State Firemen's Association will be opened in Harrisonburg tomorrow, and the Alexandria companies will be represented as follows:

Relief Truck and Engine Company No. 1, 20 men; Potomac Truck and Engine Company No. 2 and Rescue Squad No. 1, 28; Columbia Engine Company No. 4, 32, and Engine Company No. 5, 20. The Citizens Band will participate in the parade with the local companies and at least 50 members of the ladies' auxiliary will attend.

Famous Fliers, N. A. A. Fight It Out Tomorrow

Showdown Is Due on Rulings Governing Unsanctioned Races.

Prominent names in aviation circles of the Nation will be passed about at the meeting tomorrow of the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association, where several rulings must be made that will prove unpleasant and perhaps embarrassing.

The N. A. A. faces a showdown on its administration of the sporting events of the flying fraternity. The contest committee will receive a report from a special disciplinary committee on a larger group of important pilots. The association either must deprive them of their sporting licenses for a long period, or back down from its stand as representative in America of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, the world power in aeronautical sport matters.

That stand says that pilots who partake in an unsanctioned race, as the accused did, may be banned from sanctioned meets for three years.

32 Pilots Involved.

Among the 32 pilots involved are some of the best racing pilots in the country. Associated with them in the race, which was under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune, are others of the air fraternity whose names carry weight because of their accomplishments. Maj. Rudolph "Shorty" Schroeder, one-time holder of an altitude record of 900 feet for the United States; Alfred V. Verville, designer of racing and military planes, and "Mattie" Laird, widely known designer, builder and pilot of racing and commercial planes, are but three whose names are bywords in aviation.

Col. Roscoe Turner, speed flier, reached Washington Sunday. He is prepared to present his side of the dispute, which arose at the National air races in Los Angeles, when he failed to round the home pylon on the first lap of the Thompson Trophy race. Turner circled the pylon on the next lap, but the local committee ruled he had committed a technical fault and disqualified him. Here is another knotty problem which the whole committee must decide. Five other fliers, entitled to the five-way division of the prize money in the race, are interested seriously and their stories also will be presented.

N. A. A. Long in Turmoil.

The N. A. A. has been sailing troubled seas for quite a while. Some critics have gone so far as to recommend its abolishment. It is the sole authority in America of the F. A. I., the oldest authority in air sports event and as such, grants and denies sanction for all air events. Its severest critics have aimed their barbs mostly at former Senator Hiram Bingham, the president, and advocated his replacement by some one who better understands aviation and fliers.

Amateur Wireless Development Seen

Hiram Maxim Says Wide Use by Private Citizens Is Not Far Off.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—A new era of communication is being ushered in by amateur wireless development, Hiram Maxim, of Hartford, Conn., president of the American Radio Relay League, declared here at a banquet of the world-wide radio amateur convention.

Amateur wireless communication, Maxim said, has shown that the day is not far distant when private citizens will be able to converse independently of the facilities of governments and large corporations.

Maxim recalled that his father took him to the Philadelphia Centenial in 1876, and commented that there seemed little left to accomplish. "The situation is much the same today at this fair," he said, "yet we undoubtedly are on the verge of developing many new things, of which amateur wireless is one."

NRA Strike Truce Assailed by Thomas

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Norman Thomas, in an address at New York University today, attacked the recovery administration's truce on strikes, contending it sets "an extremely dangerous precedent for labor to give up its right to strike."

The Socialist leader declared the truce proposed by President Roosevelt for the Pennsylvania coal strike "provides no adequate safeguard of the workers' right to strike for higher wages and better conditions."

Campers Honored at Fort Myer

Training Camp Awards Are Made

Final Review Held Before Gen. Henry by 125 Student Officers.

Maj. Gen. Guy Henry, chief of cavalry, received the final review of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Myer, Va., yesterday morning. One hundred and twenty-five of the student officers filed in parade before the cavalry's high ranking officer, following which they received certificates and camp awards were made.

Parents of the boys attending were special guests of Col. Kenyon Joyce, commanding officer of Fort Myer and head of the C. M. T. C. camp there. In the afternoon an inspection review was held for Col. Joyce and Maj. Alexander Surles, the camp's executive officer.

Due to the governmental economy program no basic or beginning students attended this summer's camp. The students enrolled were members of the advanced Red, White or Blue course. Several were from New York and New Jersey, but most of them were drawn from Pennsylvania, Maryland, the District of Columbia and Virginia.

31 Presented Certificates of Naturalization

10 Nationalists Are Among Graduates of Americanization School.

Thirty-one men and women, of 10 nationalities, received diplomas and certificates of naturalization last night at the Americanization School.

Cooks, scholars and clerks were represented. Some held college degrees; others could barely read and write. These, however, had given satisfactory evidence in their examinations that they were qualified to become American citizens.

The new citizens were felicitated by Mrs. Harvey Wiley, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs; D. W. MacCormack, the new commissioner general of immigration, and Edward J. Lockwood, director of evening and summer schools.

Scholarship to Honor McCoy.

The diplomas were presented by Henry Gilligan, member of the Board of Education, who also led in the singing of patriotic songs, and the naturalization certificates by Justice Joseph W. Cox, of the District Supreme Court. Albert Blum, of the Americanization School Association, addressed the class.

Miss Maude E. Aiton, principal of the school, announced that a scholarship would be estabished in memory of the late Justice Walter I. McCoy, foremost sponsor of the Americanization School.

New Citizens Listed.

Those who received certificates and the countries from which they came are:

John Munro, England; Wilfred Daniel Howell, England; Lorenzo Nicciolino, Italy; Andrew Silver, England; Liberato Capacchione, Italy; Katharine Petmezas, Greece; Kathe Angela Jelinek, Czechoslovakia; Pearl Kipnis, Russia; Carl Muller, Germany; Salome Tolzman, Germany; Romeo Sforza, Italy; Patrick Fogarty, England; Falk Gordon, England; Mariano Adriana, Italy; Clara Liddle, Germany; Biagio Magista, Italy; Lazzlo Tehel, Hungary; Giuseppe Ferrigno, Italy; George Demetrios Calomiris, Greece; John Peter Marcos, Greece; Vincenzo Tranchitella, Italy; John Henry McLeod, England; Eva Marantz Hellman, Russia; Willy Abraham Brandler, Poland; Johann Paul Jennerwein, Germany; Johann Jans Horath, Germany; Rudolph Anton Seidel, Germany; Nello Morgante Pardini, Italy; Belja Melamed, Poland; Wilhelm Carl Tendick, Germany, and Sarah McKain, Ireland.

Veteran, Given Purple Cross, Salutes With Crippled Thumb

John F. Kelly Was Wounded During World War in Trenches.

By John J. Daly.

Uncle Sam paid off a paying teller yesterday.

Since he was invalided home from France, in 1918, John F. Kelly has been paying teller at the National Savings and Trust Co.

Always, with Kelly, it's pay, pay, pay—to other people.

Maj. Richard LaGuarde, U. S. A., stepped up to the paying teller's window:

"You were in the Army?" he asked.

"Sergeant, 312th Machine Gun Company, 79th Division," said Kelly.

"Wounded at the Argonne?"

"And how!"

Kelly held up his left thumb: "see that? It's artificial. Only two joints." Kelly wiggled the thumb.

"Any other wounds?"

"I can't show you those, sir," Kelly blushed: Bullets had gone through his left side.

"Okeh," the major said, "You're the man I want. You've been awarded the Purple Heart."

Owen Mulligan, the old watchman in the bank—a veteran of the Spanish War, overheard the remark. He laughed: "A Purple Heart for Kelly. Should have been green!"

Kelly and five companions were wounded September 30, 1917, when a German shell landed in the midst of a platoon. One man was killed.

With his Purple Heart, Kelly wears a three-bar medal for service at St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne, and another defensive sector.

JOHN F. KELLY, of the National Savings & Trust Co., receives the Purple Heart citation from the Government.

War? No! Ireland Plans Horse Show

Dublin, Irish Free State, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Saorstat gave itself over to holiday making today and preparation for the annual national horse show, while officialdom continued to discredit all reports and rumors of a threatened civil war.

It was stated that a new armed force, established by the government, will counter all attempts at sabotage and meet any other untoward incident. Submachine guns will be the principal weapons of this force.

Anxiety continued to be felt in authoritative quarters that disturbances may occur if the projected demonstration next Monday of the National Guard is held.

15,000 Dentists Consider Teeth

Mission Today Is to Save Molars, Not Extract Them, Leader Says.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Teeth of the Nation became one of the chief topics of discussion here today as 15,000 American dentists gathered for the Centennial Dental Congress and the diamond jubilee of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Arthur F. Black, president of the congress and dean of Northwestern University Dental School, opened the convention, recalling that the last Chicago World's Fair was the occasion for the first international meeting of dentists.

"Millions of teeth were pulled then," he said. "Today our mission is to save teeth."

He urged a "new deal" for the next generation by giving teeth of children attention in preference to those of adults.

In response to greetings from President Roosevelt the congress wired him an indorsement of his reconstruction program.

Dr. Margaret Smith, of the University of Arizona, said there was lack of provision for removal of flourides, a mineral which causes mottled enamel in teeth, from the water of Boulder Dam.

Arlington Democrats To Go on River Cruise

The Democratic Club of Arlington County, sponsoring a cruise down the Potomac River, will leave this evening from Wilson's Wharf, Washington, promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Guests of honor will be Representative Howard W. Smith and Postmaster General James A. Farley. Other guests will be delegations from Alexandria, Fairfax, Loudoun and Prince William County clubs.

6 Heard Today In Jett's Death Investigation

Montgomery Prosecutor Is Not Fully Satisfied of Accident Theory.

While Montgomery County officials have veered to the belief that the death of Wilmer Lee Jett, 23, whose decapitated body was found beneath the wheels of a Glen Echo street car, was accidetnal, the investigation will continue until State's Attorney Stedman Prescott is fully satisfied there was no foul play.

Four women and two men, who were at the party in the cottage of Raymond Lange, 37, a short time before the death of Jett, and the motorman and conductor of the street car which struck him will appear at an informal hearing in the State's attorney's office at Rockville today. Lange is held at the Rockville Jail.

Police yesterday checked details of events preceding the death as related by Lange and have found his story coincides with testimony of several other witnesses, one a policeman.

Public Support Held Need of NRA Signers

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (AP).—Merchants displaying the "blue eagle" emblems must be supported by the consuming public with an increased volume of buying if the recovery plan is to succeed, Ben Allen, of Washington, Ind., president of the American Retailers Association, said here today.

Opening the organizations semi-annual convention, he also said some dependable credit provision was needed to finance merchants under the increased overhead entailed by the recovery plan until increased buying power is manifest.

848 in Virginia Have Licenses To Sell Beer

Two Counties Will Not Prosecute Retailers Until State Acts.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 7 (AP).—To date 782 retailers in Virginia have been issued Federal licenses to sell 3.2 beer, which still is illegal under Virginia statutes.

The licenses cost $20, so the total paid to date is $15,640.

In addition to these retail licenses, 66 wholesalers have bought licenses. At $50 each, the wholesale license total in Virginia to date is $3,300.

Most of the retail licenses have been to Richmond and Norfolk merchants. Others are in Newport News, Roanoke, Portsmouth, Charlottesville, Winchester, Fredericksburg, and a few smaller communities.

In Richmond City and Henrico County, court authorities have announced that no retailer will be prosecuted for selling the 3.2 beer until after the special session of the General Assembly next week, when legalization of beer will be considered.

Retail and wholesale licenses issued to August 1 are for the fiscal year which began July 1. Those who obtain such licenses hereafter during the year will be entitled to a rebate. Beginning August 1 the rebate amounts to $1.66 a month for retail licenses, and $4.17 for wholesale licenses.

Fairfax Group Urges Beer Tax for Schools

Use of beer revenue for Virginia public schools was favored in a resolution approved by a Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce committee last night.

Drafting a recommendation to the Chamber of Commerce on beer, the committee urged that body go on record favoring the issuance of selling licenses by county revenue commissioners. The chamber will act on the resolution tonight.

Spending for Recovery.

Gen. Johnson's plea for greater consumption of the products of industry is an essential part of the campaign for industrial recovery. Expanded production without increased consumption would lead certainly to another period of difficulty. Business is never good unless people are buying the articles and commodities they need or desire.

Increased wages and employment will create more buying power. But Gen. Johnson realizes that to make the program of recovery complete these incomes must be spent for consumers' goods.

"We are all consumers," says Gen. Johnson. "It is what we buy and have and use that makes the increased business upon which the whole program depends. No employer can go on increasing payrolls without increased business. We are buyers, and the part of buyers is now to buy or this plan will be a failure."

It is not easy to convince individuals that spending on their part is necessary to the general recovery program. Each man or woman is inclined to think that his or her individual purchases are so small that they do not count for much in economic program of a nation. But when the purchases of 125,000,000 people are added together they create that enormous demand for goods and services that sustains the business and industrial structure. If the general tendency among individuals is to hoard their incomes, stagnation all through the economic system can be expected, regardless of whether wages have been increased and employment extended.

Aside from his plea for patriotic cooperation with the NRA program, Gen. Johnson is relying upon two factors to accelerate public buying. Prices are going up, he says, and "the things you want will be worth more than the money you can save by not buying." Furthermore, he tells the public, "if you don't spend now and get something you will spend later for taxes and doles and get nothing." The public response to this argument is eagerly awaited.

Deadly Snake Bites.

The death of a 10-year-old boy near Blue Ridge Summit from the bite of a copperhead emphasizes the fact that constant vigilance and prompt action must be exercised by all persons in the fields and forests at this season. The lad had passed through a briar patch and had felt a slight sting on the ankle, which he attributed to a briar. A day and a half passed before it became evident that he had been poisoned, and then it was too late to save his life.

Copperheads strike without warning. They hear acutely, and often lie in wait under a stone, in a position to strike. Even the smaller reptiles, not over eight inches long, are capable of dealing death. They are extremely quick and agile, camouflaged so they are difficult to detect among leaves and stones, and they rarely retreat when approached.

Col. Martin L. Crimmins, an expert in handling reptiles, was bitten on the hand by a water moccasin at Suffern, N. Y., on Sunday evening, when he was transferring bagged snakes to a suitcase in preparation for a lecture on poisonous snakes. His hand happened to brush against a bag in which the moccasin was inclosed, and the reptile's fangs struck through the bag and sank into his hand. Fortunately first-aid treatment was instantly available. Two physicians opened the wound with a scalpel and drained it as well as possible with a suction bulb, after which they administered antivenin, which Col. Crimmins had brought along to demonstrate at his lecture.

Antivenin, a serum for treatment of copperhead and rattlesnake bites, is now available in cities, but it is difficult to procure in country districts.

New York to Syria.

Two French fliers, Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, have achieved one of the most remarkable airplane flights on record. Leaving New York Saturday morning, they landed at Rayak, Syria, yesterday afternoon. But for a leaking oil line they might have continued to their hoped-for destination, Karachi, India. As it stands, however, the feat is one of the longest nonstop flights ever made. It is said to be 500 miles longer than the 5,340-mile flight made last February by Gayford and Nicholetts, of the British air force.

The machine used by Rossi and Codos is a heavy monoplane, christened the Joseph Le Brix. It performed its duty without a flaw. The fliers encountered bad weather and adverse winds across the Atlantic, but passed over Le Bourget nearly on schedule, and then a gasoline leak caused trouble and made it impossible to proceed farther than the Syrian coast.

In spite of the many achievements of aviation this year, the amazing flight of the two Frenchmen best illustrates the fact that distance and time must now be reckoned on a new basis. From the skyscrapers of New York to the mountains of Lebanon within a few hours is a feat that practically annihilates both time and space. It spurs the inventive genius of man and opens visions of still further improvements in mechanical flying. France may well take pride in the achievement of Rossi and Codos.

Coal Miners and the Truce.

Conditions yesterday in the Pennsylvania bituminous fields took an adverse turn when thousands of miners refused to return to work, notwithstanding the agreement approved by the President to suspend the strike pending adoption of the coal code. No mines were in operation in Fayette County, the H. C. Frick Coke Co. having postponed resumption of operations at the request of Gov. Pinchot. A battalion of national guardsmen and a force of State police are on duty.

Some of the local leaders explained that the refusal of the men to return to work was merely because they wanted more time in which to study the terms of the temporary agreement. But they added the suggestive statement that several thousand pickets would be on hand if the Frick Company should reopen today. The national leaders are disappointed with the action of their unions, and fear that their cause will be injured by the lack of co-operation with the Government in this time of stress. They hope, however, that further study will convince the miners that the truce is not inimical to their interests, and should be supported loyally while all sides are striving to work out a permanent arrangement.

Throughout the country's depression, labor has displayed fortitude and public spirit, realizing that the Nation's ills would be more tolerable if all men having work would stay on the job. The record should not be spoiled now by a strike in the coal fields. Since the terms of the armistice are purely tentative, not committing the miners to any future policy, it may be that they will conclude that remaining at work is the best policy to pursue, especially since their own leaders advise such action.

Automobile Thefts.

The number of automobiles stolen in the United States last year reached a total of 250,000, although the operations of organized criminals stealing cars outright for resale were reduced. Much of the trouble comes from youths who take cars for a joyride and leave them wrecked or abandoned, and from petty thieves who steal motors for the purpose of stripping them of accessories. The need for stricter laws in many States is shown by the improved conditions in States that have adopted legislation that has been more or less standardized, covering registrations and sales.

The effectiveness of the campaign against automobile thefts is shown by a decrease in seventy large cities last year of 15 per cent over 1931. During the last decade the percentage of stolen cars recovered has risen from 70 per cent to 90. In other words, of the 250,000 cars stolen last year 225,000 were restored to their owners, though many cars were lacking removable parts. Improved conditions are due not only to stronger laws, but to increased police vigilance and added difficulties in disposing of cars.

Laws requiring the seller of an automobile to produce a certificate of ownership have now been adopted in twenty-five States, and these regulations are supplemented by the Federal enactment making it a crime to remove a stolen car from one State to another. The A. A. A. protects its members with a standing reward for the arrest of its registered cars and is vigorous in assisting prosecution. That general enactment of title laws will afford the best protection is indicated by the notable decrease in stolen cars in the States that have adopted them. The fact that fourteen cars were stolen for every arrest made shows the need of still greater vigilance. A lamentable feature of the record is that a large percentage of the offenders arrested for car thefts are boys of only 17 and 18 years of age.

Exposing Man's Past.

Another chapter in the unknown history of early America has been unfolded through an expedition headed by Edgar B. Howard. In the arid lands of New Mexico, near Clovis, Mr. Howard and his associates found skeletons of mammoth, camel, musk-oxen, horses and an extinct type of bison in close association with human implements. To the paleontologist these findings tell a vivid story.

The musk-ox is adapted to an Arctic environment. Today these animals are found in Greenland and Northern Canada. Hence, scientists conclude that the climate of New Mexico was much cooler in those ancient days than at present.

Today the region in which these fossils were found is arid. Indications are that rains were heavy during a period which is believed to have ended about 15,000 years ago. As the country became more arid, the paleontologists say, animals crowded about the lakes to obtain water. Presumably the fight for water became intense as the lakes dried up, and many animals died in the mire about the lake shores. Since these strata are again being exposed by erosion, scientists are able to reconstruct the story of that ancient struggle for survival.

Prehistoric man enters into the picture through the discovery of flint weapons and open hearths in the same strata in which mammoth, camel and horse skeletons were found. These human implements were in such close association with the skeletons as to remove all doubt in the minds of eminent scientists that they belong to the same period. It seems to be a logical deduction that ancient Americans hunted these animals and used their flesh as food.

Similar discoveries have been reported in the past, but the scientific world has discounted some of them because the fossils and implements were removed before being analyzed by competent authorities. This discovery has been scrutinized by the University of Pennsylvania Museum and the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences. It seems to offer concrete evidence on which at least a fragmentary story of a past age may be built.

China's Foreign Trade.

Interesting changes have occurred in China's foreign trade as a result of the Japanese invasion, boycotts, floods, civil strife and Communist depredations. The Chinese Inspectorate of Customs, in reporting the statistics for 1932, states that the United States for the first time led Japan in exports to China. Although American exports to China decreased in 1932, the percentage furnished by this country increased from 22.34 to 25.58 per cent, while Japan's exports to China decreased from 19.88 to 12.17 per cent of China's total imports.

Although China's cotton crop increased sevenfold in 1932, her imports of raw cotton decreased very slightly. The United States sent 3,102,351 piculs as against 2,573,757 in 1931, while Japan's shipments to China dropped from 247,069 piculs to 88,934 piculs. British Indian cotton exports to China dropped from 1,811,076 piculs in 1931 to 453,629 piculs last year. A picul is equivalent to 133 1-3 pounds.

The boycott of Japanese goods did not improve Great Britain's trade with China, which dropped heavily in 1926 as a result of the anti-British boycott and has not yet been fully recovered. But in spite of the wave of patriotic feeling against Japan, the fall of the yen enabled Japan to land goods in China below any possible competition, and "even at Hankow toward the end of the year Japanese prices were too tempting to be resisted by a people impoverished by the 1931 floods." British yarn and cloth made some inroads upon Japanese trade, but the Inspectorate of Customs expresses doubts that this advantage can be held, on account of the heavy depreciation of the yen and the dumping of Japanese piece goods in the great markets of Tientsin and Kiaochow.

The law of 1875 requires Uncle Sam to deduct what is owed to him before he pays any bills. But the law doesn't specify farmers.

No one would have doubted Kentucky's sincerity if the rifles, machine guns and dynamite had been left out of her primary election.

The States should hurry up and not keep Santa Claus in doubt between kegs and demijohns.

Lightning Rods.

Howard S. Warren, in Bell Telephone Quarterly.

The first installation of lightning rods on a public building in Europe was that on the Church of St. Jacob in Hamburg in 1769. The use of rods spread rapidly in northern Germany. Gradually in the southern countries of Europe also, lightning conductors gained in favor, largely through the activities of a few enthusiasts. One night, under cover of darkness, a zealous follower of Franklin installed rods on the Cathedral at Siena. This created great indignation, but the enemies of the rods were appeased when they found, after a heavy storm during which the cathedral was terrifically bombarded by lightning, that the structure remained uninjured. Shortly thereafter rods were erected on the observatory of the University of Padua. Here again an angry crowd became pacified when, after seeing lightning strike the observatory, they found that it caused no damage. On May 9, 1778, the Senate of Venice issued a decree ordering lightning rod protection for public buildings, this being the first official recognition of lightning rods by any government. Important buildings such as the Louvre, in Paris; St. Peter's and the Vatican, in Rome, and the Houses of Parliament and St. Paul's Cathedral, in London, were later equipped with rods.

A remarkable lightning rod installation was designed for the City Hall in Brussels. The equipment was very elaborate and included some 60 "aigrettes" or elevation rods having a total of more than 500 points. The three ground electrodes had a total contact area of more than 2,500,000 square feet. In 1889 Oliver Lodge said:

"Of all the buildings in the world not wholly made of metal, the Hotel de Ville at Brussels was and is the most perfectly and elaborately protected. No electrician exists who would not a year ago have asserted, had he gone over it, that it was absurdly and exaggeratedly safe from damage by lightning. Last July it was struck and set on fire."

Thus we see that no system of lightning rods affords absolute protection, although it should be mentioned perhaps that in this case the fire was due to the ignition, by an induced spark, of gas from a leaky main.

Towers, monuments, stacks and other unusually tall structures, are more exposed to damage by lightning than ordinary buildings and the national code for protection against lightning includes special precautions for such structures. The Washington Monument, for example, has been struck by lightning repeatedly and, before the lightning rods on it were properly interconnected with the structural metal, was considerably damaged.

In many respects and to a large extent lightning is still a mystery. Both electrically and meteorologically it is unique. The ratio of surmise to knowledge about it is high. The practical questions of protecting structures and electrical systems against damage by lightning are better understood than are the theoretical features.

NEW STOCK MARKET RULES.

The New York Stock Exchange is operating under new rules. The customer is no longer considered "dead" when kicked over the sidelines and may be brought back and put into play at the point where he went out of bounds.

• • • •

The game won't be as exciting as it has been in the past, but it will be more sporting.

• • • •

Under the new rules the amateur speculator is allowed the protective headgear heretofore limited to the insiders, and is even given the privilege of punting or passing from behind his own goal line.

• • • •

Heeling, hurdling and the use of elbows in transactions involving less than 100-share lots are ruled illegal without the player's written consent.

• • • •

Pool operators will be numbered and all brokerage house tape watchers will be given programs bearing these numbers so they can tell who is who and what is going on down on the playing field.

• • • •

From now on the goal posts will be regarded as stationary and the old custom of allowing the big operators to move them when hard pressed by the other side will be considered unethical.

• • • •

The old hidden "bull" play becomes illegal under rule 46, section 65, and the dangerous "slam the lamb" formation is punishable, if the officials see it. (However, the use of binoculars by the officials will not be considered clubby.)

• • • •

The stock exchange is now changing its rules as often as the football rules committee. It is getting so a customer is afraid to buy anything for fear he will be violating a new regulation.

• • • •

All pools must now file reports with the judges, showing their strategy on both offense and defense, exposing all their secret formations, &c.

• • • •

Things are beginning to look good for the outside public. All that remains to be done is to have the stock exchange post a statement at the opening every day announcing which way the market is going.

• • • •

With a guarantee that there will be a radio broadcast over a national hookup in case of any change of plans.

SAFE AT FIRST.

No margin accounts will be allowed stock exchange customers carrying stocks quoted below $5 a share, it is announced. "That's okay," said Elmer Twitchell today. "All my stocks are up to $6.25."

The $5 a share rule would have made all trading on margin impossible a few months ago.

The Blister Has No Value Unless You Associate It With a Hot Stove

By Robert Quillen.

SOME years ago Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt took his pen in hand to autograph a picture of himself for a young collector. He began to write the words, "To my friend." Then he stopped. Neither he nor the collector could remember whether "friend" was spelled "ie" or "ei".

Many otherwise good spellers never learn to use these two letters in combination with any assurance of accuracy, yet there is a simple rule by which anybody can remember the orthodox arrangement.

Where the letters follow a "c," the "e" comes before the "i". In other cases, with a half-dozen exceptions, the "i" comes before the "e." And since "c" and "e" have the same shape in print, all that you need remember is that the letters shaped alike come together.

The trick of remembering is simple. If a thing is hard to remember, attach it to something that is easy to remember. Hitch your wagon, in short, to a star.

That is the natural method. Your mind is a filing cabinet and all associated ideas are filed together. One remembered fact reminds you of another.

As the old folks remember trivial things that happened the year of the big wind or the year of the locusts, so you remember unimportant matters that were associated with some tragedy or triumph.

Since the great matter can not be erased from the mind, any small thing connected with it is preserved as well.

The old-fashioned pedagog who taught with a birch was wiser than he knew. Modern experiments have shown that students make fewer mistakes when a slight electric shock punishes error.

It is association of ideas. The lad in jeans remembered the definition of an isthmus because it was filed with a never-to-be-forgotten birch dressing.

You never forget the pronunciation of a word if some ass corrects you in public.

Shame is the best of memory aids; pride, perhaps, the next. But any means will serve if it fits the method. And the method is a simple matter of tying a little fact to a big one.

Child Labor in the Codes.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

One of the major objectives of the NRA campaign is the abolition of child labor, to remove, in President Roosevelt's words, "this monstrous thing which neither opinion now law could reach in years of effort." Child labor is forbidden in the temporary blanket code, and several industries, notably cotton textiles, have specifically included it in their permanent codes. However, loopholes have been brought to public notice which, it is feared, will endanger the movement's success.

Thus, Secretary Perkins, in her address on the steel code, pointed out that its wording provides that no signer shall "knowingly" employ any person under the age of 16. Miss Perkins described this as a probable oversight, but asserted past experience had shown that the qualifying word cited "makes it almost impossible to enforce any child labor law," in that the task of proving intentional violation is exceedingly difficult. The management, Miss Perkins urged, should be held responsible for keeping children out, and with no ground for quibbling.

To Stimulate Buying.
Kansas City Star.

The Nation-wide campaign to encourage buying, as revealed by the industrial administrator, Gen. Johnson, is thoroughly consistent in objective with purposes of the recovery act. The central aim of that act is to build up the country's purchasing power by getting men back to work, enlarging pay rolls and increasing wages. It has been assumed that when there was the broadened ability to buy, the buying would be done accordingly.

That is a perfectly reasonable assumption. It also is reasonable to assume that the administration can do something to stimulate buying by reminding the public that this was its contribution to recovery, a contribution necessary to the success of the plan by making it profitable for employers to take on more workers and adjust wages.

Just Folks.

The Burdened Ant.

The world is much awry and yet
Gardens are gay with mignonette.
By many a wall
Are hollyhocks tall
And almost on every tree branch swings
A bird, so blithe of heart, he sings!

The world is freighted down with care
Yet fruit is ripening everywhere.
The golden grain
Upon the plain
Waves in the gentle summer breeze
And mourns no by-gone luxuries.

Today across my patch of grass
I watched a black ant homeward pass.
To my surprise
Full twice its size
Was the great burden which it bore.
Yet back it came to look for more.

Again it tugged and pulled and strained,
Nor can I say it once complained.
To be alive
To toil and strive
With courage seemed delight enough.
Ants must be made of rugged stuff!

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

Bargeron.

WE have had some pretty hot days here in the old Nation's Capital this summer, so the newspaper boys, as Senator Fess calls them, may be forgiven for many of their sins. But just what is responsible for the wave of stories about the efficiency of the young women secretaries in the New Deal is something I can not understand.

Seldom a day passes that a person doesn't see the photographic likeness of some Miss Priss spread all over the paper with an accompanying story that she is a pillar of strength to Commissar So and So or Deputy Commissar So and So or So and So of the Brain Trust.

In these days that try the mettle of our leaders, when they are marching to the martial tread, when men are shouldering their antidepression muskets and marching off as to war, there is an unsung influence in every office, it would seem, that is really making the wheels turn.

I have just read, for example, that Commissar Johnson would not be half the man he is if it were not for his efficient secretary upon whom he heaps a lot of the responsibilities a man of his ambitious undertakings would naturally have. Let us hope that this is not so.

• • • •

DEFT hands already have succeeded in dramatizing our commissars and the personnel of the "Brain Trust" to the point where we stand in utter awe of what they are doing, which probably is well, at that.

Indeed, I have lain awake of nights after reading about some of the gentlemen, thinking that we must have a new race of men. So vividly have some of their exploits been described that one doesn't need much of an imagination to visualize the workings of their brains, to see the little thoughts, as they labor under bright lights, leave one compartment of the mind and move over to articulate with another little thought, the two of them articulating subsequently with others and forming what is known as a train—you know, a train of thought—on the way to a conclusion.

A mind is something that we used to consider a very personal matter, but the New Deal has brought on so much discussion of brains that we have no hesitancy in referring to one brain as bigger and better than another, or of their comparative weights. The word "brilliant" we fling around with an utter abandon. I suppose this has all been necessary because, if the leaders are to hold their people, they must make them think they are smart, and there probably is no better way to do this than to speak of brains as the rank and file of us discuss our operations and the weather.

But why must there be a dramatization of the secretaries?

• • • •

ONE wonders if Mrs. Roosevelt's hand is not in this; if in her movement to give the women a break she has not directed that the New Deal publicity men must get over a dramatization of the secretaries.

It presents a happy picture, I will admit. There is nothing so soothing to our present restless frame of mind as the picture of Commissar Johnson, for example, with his problems of codes and minute men and protection of the consumer bulging his temples, having his trusty and competent secretary at his side taking from his shoulders many of the smaller codes, and smaller minute men and smaller protection of consumers.

I think the very efficient Miss Prissies should be encouraged in this, encouraged, in fact, to be able to take over the bigger problems in the event the commissars and brain trusts collapse.

In view of the weirdness of some of the happenings over the last few months, it need not be surprising if in a few months things will have got to the stage where the commissars and brain trust can go away and leave the running of the Government to the prim Miss Prissies.

• • • •

MAKE no mistake about it; the publicity they are getting is causing them to take themselves quite seriously. And believe me, it is high efficiency when an important business man, harassed over what is happening and coming to Washington to try to find out, is told by a very important looking young miss that the commissar is in conference and can't be seen.

Prof. Moley's young secretary received considerable publicity. Whereupon she decided that like the rest of them she would write for the magazines. The burden of the one effort I read was that although she had had some trouble she had succeeded in straightening out the State Department. Maybe, she will do likewise to the Department of Justice, now that the professor has gone over there.

STARS BY THE TRILLION.

A universe of imagination staggering size, with 300 trillion stars already within range of the astronomer's largest telescopes and unknown numbers still unseen, was described by Prof. Harlow Shapley, of Harvard University, according to the Scientific Monthly.

In only a portion of the sky, 76,000 galaxies of stars, of which our milky way is a typical example, have been charted, said Prof. Shapley. He expects that eventually 300,000 galaxies will be mapped in the heavens, with an estimate of about a billion stars, of which our own sun is an average sample, in each galaxy.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits 1,500 Girl Scout Campers at Palisades Interstate Park

Vice President Garner Will Become I. O. O. F. Man Tonight.

MRS. ROOSEVELT VISITED about 1,500 Girl Scout campers on the annual Nature Play Day in Palisades Interstate Park yesterday afternoon. The girls, from New York and New Jersey, are camping on two of the lakes on Southern Lakes drive.

Vice President Garner will "ride the goat" tonight when he takes the initiatory degree in the Uvalde Lodge of Odd Fellows. It will be his first fraternal affiliation.

The Ambassador of Argentina and Senora de Espil arrived in the Capital yesterday from their wedding trip to New England resorts.

The Ambassador of Spain and Senora de Cardenas will entertain at dinner this evening in honor of the newly appointed military attache of the United States Embassy in Madrid, Col. Stephen O. Fuqua and Mrs. Fuqua, who will leave on September 5 for Spain.

Senora de Cardenas will sail on Friday aboard the Paris for Europe to spend several months at her home in Roumania.

The Military Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Planell will entertain at dinner on Thursday evening in honor of Col. and Mrs. Fuqua at the Shoreham Terrace.

Ambassador Ros to Remain A While in Europe.

The Ambassador of Mexico, Senor Dr. Don Fernando Gonzales Ros, who attended the World Economic Conference in London, will remain in Europe until late this month. He is at present in Germany and expects to go to Paris tomorrow for a visit before sailing for this country.

The Ambassador of Cuba and Senora Cintas will return to the Capital today from New York.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull have returned to their apartment at the Carlton, accompanied by their niece, Mrs. Paul Hays, of Staunton, Va. Mrs. Hays has been joined at the Carlton by Mr. Hays.

The United States Ambassador to Belgium, Mr. Dave Hennen Morris, and Mrs. Morris and their daughter, Miss Alice Vanderbilt Morris, will be joined shortly at the Embassy in Brussels by Ambassador and Mrs. Morris' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley H. Mills, and their family, who have left Millmor, their country place at Glen Head, Long Island, for Europe.

The newly appointed Ambassador to Poland, Mr. John A. Cudahy, will sail tomorrow on the President Harding for Antwerp, where he will board a Polish steamer to complete his trip to Warsaw. The newly appointed ambassador was in command of the Polish troops in the Archangel expedition during the World War. He was entertained at luncheon on Sunday by a group from the Polish colony in New York.

Mr. Justice Pierce Butler, and Mrs. Butler, who have been at their place at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., since early summer, are spending a few days with Mr. Paul Smith at his camp in the Adirondacks.

Nadine Szechenyi Wins Model Golf Prize.

Countess Szechenyi, wife of the Minister of Hungary to the Court of St. James, and her sister, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, entertained at luncheon on Sunday after attending the annual sand design contest at Bailey's Beach, Newport, R. I. Miss Nadine Szechenyi won second prize in the younger group competing in the contest, her model being a miniature golf course.

The Charge d'Affaires of Bulgaria, Mr. Vladimir S. Manoloff, has returned to the Capital from Atlantic City, where he spent the week-end.

Col. Shizzuichi Tanaka, Military Attache of the Japanese Embassy, entertained at dinner last evening in the garden of the Carlton Hotel, his guests numbering eight.

The Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy and Mrs. H. O. Chalkley have as their guest at their cottage at Rehoboth Beach, Del., Mrs. Crosby Miller, of Warrenton, Va.

The Secretary of the Netherlands Legation Jonkheer H. M. van der Wyck has returned to Washington after spending a week at Rehoboth Beach and Atlantic City.

The Fourth Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Silliman Evans are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Evans make their home at Woodley Park Towers. The infant is their third child, the other two also being boys.

The former Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. W. Irving Glover, left yesterday for New York and will sail today on the Excambion for Naples, Italy. He also will visit at Budapest and be accompanied by his son and daughter, Mr. Thomas Glover and Miss Frances Glover, and by Miss Eloise Hopkins.

The First Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Wiggin will take possession of their new apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue on October 1.

Dr. Taghi Khosh, of the Persian Legation, will leave today for New York, whence he will sail on Saturday on the Aquitania, of the Cunard Line, for Persia.

The new First Secretary of the Persian Legation and Mme. N. Atabki have arrived in Washington and are at the legation on Sixteenth street.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., Feted on 72d Birthday.

Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of the former President, passed the seventy-second anniversary of her birthday quietly at Sagamore Hill, her country place at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

A family luncheon, which was attended by Mrs. Richard Derby, the former Ethel Roosevelt, Dr. Derby and their three daughters, had for a feature a birthday cake with candles, which Mrs. Roosevelt cut. Other members of the family who are out of town sent messages of congratulation.

The former United States Ambassador to Chile and Mrs. William S. Culbertson will come next month to Washington, where they have leased an apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue.

Mr. Culbertson will resume the practice of law and a professorship at Georgetown University.

Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons, who motored to Narragansett last week, were honor guests at a dinner given Sunday evening by Mr. and Mrs. William Townsend Wright.

Judge and Mrs. Chauncey G. Parker have left Watch Hill, R. I., and are at Narragansett, where they have with them their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Redway, of Boston, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Parker, of New York.

Mrs. Davis Elkins has recovered from a recent illness and is in Atlantic City with former Senator Elkins and their three children, Kathryn, Davis, jr., and Maureen. Mrs. Elkins' mother, Mrs. Reagan, is visiting her in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls, of New York, who recently returned from Paris, has joined the summer colony at the Homestead, Hot Springs, Va.

Judge William E. Lee, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Mrs. Lee, left yesterday with their family for Boise, Idaho, to be gone during the month of August.

Baron Von Redlich Weds Fredericka A. Doll.

The marriage of Baron Marcellus Donald A. R. von Redlich, consular representative of Monaco in this country since May, 1925, and Miss Fredericka Adelaide Doll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Doll, of Shreveport, La., took place Saturday evening in the rectory of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Fredericksburg, Va. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Brennan. Mrs. Doll, mother of the bride, and Baroness Rita Evelyn von Redlich were present. Baron von Redlich is the son of the late Baron and Baroness Harold I. S. von Redlich, of Austria.

The baron has been in Washington for the past year, making his home at the Mayflower. His plans are to sail soon for Europe to spend several months in Monaco.

Capt. Hayne Ellis, U. S. N. and Mrs. Ellis, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Lucia Ellis, have left on a motor trip to Canada and they will be absent from the Capital for a month. They plan to visit in New England, and will stop at North Andover, Mass., where their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis Leland, make their home. Mrs. Leland was formerly Miss Martha Ellis. Mr. Robert A. Long Ellis and Mr. Hayne Ellis, jr., are touring Europe, where they have been for the past month. Mr. Long Ellis, their youngest son, is at Camp Wallula in New Hampshire.

Mrs. Hugh R. O'Donnell has joined Mr. O'Donnell at their home at 2336 California street after spending six months with her mother, Mrs. Charles Courtney, at her summer home, The Lilacs, at Sayville, Long Island.

Charles E. Cropley Will Visit in West.

Mr. Charles Elmore Cropley, clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States, has left Washington for Kansas City, Mo., to join Mrs. Cropley, who has been visiting her father, Mr. John B. Wornall, in his home there during the absence of Mrs. Cropley's mother and brothers on a world cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Cropley will go to Troutdale-in-the-Pines at Evergreen, Colo., and will return to Washington about the middle of September.

Mr. and Mrs. William N. De Wold, of Baltimore, are at the Carlton.

Mrs. Malcolm McConihe is at Narragansett, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delmar have arrived at Brookline, Me., where they are occupying the Clover Croft cottage at the Mountain Ash Inn for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Bertram Chesterman returned yesterday from a stay of several weeks in Atlantic City. Mrs. Chesterman had as her guest Miss Kathleen Creel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stokely, of Birmingham, Ala., are at the Carlton.

Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, Mr. and Mrs. Harrington Mills and Mrs. Frederick Altemus were among those from Washington who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Hackett, of New York, who entertained at a tea dance Saturday, at Saranac Inn Casino, at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Mrs. O'Neil Entertains On Daughter's Birthday.

Mrs. William J. O'Neil entertained at a luncheon followed by bridge in her Georgetown home, for her daughter, Miss Margaret Jane O'Neil, in celebration of her twenty-first birthday anniversary. Among the guests were Miss Dorothy Regis Harger, Mrs. Clyde Yoemans, Mrs. Sidney Ball, Miss Olive Copperthaite, Miss Peggy Crawford, Miss Margaret Mary Kuhn, Miss Helen Reilly, Miss Edith Rhodes, Mrs. Edwin Popkins, Miss Catherine O'Neil, and Miss Cecilia Collins.

Mrs. Carrie Louise Gray, of Los Angeles, Calif., is the guest of Mrs. Kate Hubart for a few days. Before coming to Washington Mrs. Gray visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Kimball in New York City, for four weeks. On her return to Los Angeles, she will stop at the Century of Progress Exposition for a week.

New Device Gives Patients Oxygen

Madison, Wis., Aug. 7 (AP).—The oxygen tent and oxygen room, costly accessories of the modern hospital, may be outmoded by a new method of supplying enriched atmosphere to patients.

Developed by Dr. Ralph M. Waters and Dr. E. A. Rovenstein at the University of Wisconsin General Hospital, the new procedure requires apparatus of little cost.

Drs. Rovenstein and Waters insert a small, flexible tube into a nostril of a patient. The tube is held in place by adhesive tape on the patient's lip. The free end of the tube is attached to a humidifier and a meter, which are attached to a tank of oxygen.

Lynchburg Couple Wed.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—Mrs. Ura C. Evans, of Concord, has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Josephine Evans, to Dewey S. Booth, of Leechburg, Pa. After a bridal trip they will live at Leechburg. The bride, a graduate of Farmville State Teachers College, has been teaching in Campbell County.

'World Not Just Ready' for London Session, Delegate Finds.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—James M. Cox, last American delegate to leave the scene of the World Economic Conference, returned from London on the Europa today and expressed the opinion that the conference "was salled too soon."

The task of the conference, he said, was hampered to some extent by Central European countries, which "are facing internal difficulties of an economic order and were not ready for the conference."

"It was called too soon," the former governor of Ohio added. "No one could have forseen the developments in it. Therefore, no one is to blame. The world just was not ready for it."

Florida Day Celebrated At Century of Progress

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Delegations from Florida shared the spotlight this week at the Century of Progress International Exposition.

A 40-piece student band from Fort Myers arrived today to play in a series of concerts tonight and tomorrow. The musicians have with them Miss Minnie Bell Murray, of Fort Myers, who won the title of "Miss Florida" in a contest.

Oralists Elect Dr. McLean.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Dr. R. Gordon McLean, of Toronto University, Toronto, Ontario, was elected president of the American Association for the advancement of oral diagnosis today at its second annual meeting. The convention chose Dr. Harold J. Leonard, Columbia University, New York, as president-elect. Dr. Daniel E. Ziskin, Columbia University, was named secretary treasurer.

Virginia Pair Wed In Historic Church

Orange, Va., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—A quiet wedding, beautiful in its simplicity, was celebrated in historic old Aquia Church, in Stafford County, when Miss Vandetta Massey, daughter of O. G. Massey, of Orange, became the bride of Richard Henry Lee Chichester, jr., son of Mrs. R. H. L. Chichester and the late Judge Chichester, of Glencairne, Stafford.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. R. Aubrey Willaims, of Richmond, assisted by the Rev. Henry Heaton.

Sentiment on Cards Dismays Husband-to-Be Traveling Iron Simplifies Problem of Women; New Salt Shaker Quaint.

By Ann Davis.

The shy young man was overawed in the presence of so many cards. The sweet and tender sentiments they expressed were so exactly his. She had accepted! Wedding bells would ring out soon. He must find just the right message to tell her how happy she had made him. But the ordeal of baring his heart to the salesgirl!

Seeing her approach he decided to choose hastily. Blindly he reached for a card, paid for it and hurried away. Outside the store he opened it and read:

"I send this pictured onion
And this limburger cheese along
To tell you that my friendship
Is always good and strong."

Whatever your feelings in any regards, whatever the occasion, there are appropriate cards in many different styles. One of the quaintest is the jigsaw cheer-up card, which necessitates putting the pieces together to decipher the message. Another is the "note a day" card, which includes seven small envelopes with a verse for every day in the week. Price 5 cents to 50 cents.

A silversmith stood at his door and watched the flowers of the field. A gentle breeze blew the pollen and strewed it upon the ground. He murmured to himself, "Silver in all its glory might be patterned after one of these." Setting to work with his tools he designed a set of daisies. Lovely, he thought, but useless. He hollowed out the flowers and pierced holes through their centers. The long slender stems served as handles. He had created a salt and pepper set. On sale in a downtown store, 59 cents.

Vacation time is fine for the kiddies, but not so fine for the housewife who has the burden of preparing the noon day meal.

"Why can't we have something different for lunch sometimes, mama?" a little girl complained.

"Why, dear, we can, but don't forget mother's budget plan. And different things are so expensive!"

That's an accepted opinion among many people, but it's erroneous. Take, for instance, beet green soup, a healthful, tasty and inexpensive dish for luncheon. Serve with thick slices of bread and butter, a glass of cold milk, and it's a feast fit for the teacher's pet, as the children say.

Beet Green Soup.

One pound beet greens, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 raw egg, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt.

Chop the greens very fine, put into kettle with five cups of hot water. Cook briskly for 20 minutes. Remove scum as it rises. Add lemon, salt, sugar, cook five minutes, remove from fire and cool slightly. Beat the egg in a bowl and when light add the soup slowly.

Chill and serve with a few tablespoons of sour cream in each cup. Sliced hard-boiled egg may be added as a garnish.

Big irons, or little irons, this store has them With the full-size electric ironer you can press any thing the tailor can. It's an ideal home equipment. Never requires any greasing, never gives any vibration, and is guarranteed for a year.

In charming contrast is the small traveling iron, weighing three pounds. "Rings on her fingers, bells on her toes, an iron in her suitcase whever she goes!" It's the guardian angel to the traveling wardrobe.

If you want to outfit your bedroom for fall, buy a bed-cover-curtain set: One of the prettiest is shiny black chintz with many colored flowers. The cover is wide and ruffled around the sides. The curtains hang in graceful folds against the windows. These come in many colors and designs, at very reasonable prices.

Turkish carpets have a delightful softness, but you should feel the sponge bath mats. Out of the tub to step on one of these, and your bath becomes a luxury. They absorb the water, and give you the feeling of standing on air. All designs, cubical, rectangular, spherical, everything that's modernistic, in red, blue, green, lavendar and yellow. Price 79 cents.

The beverage glasses and well-shaped pitcher set your head whirling. The reason lies not within, but without. Triple lines of red, yellow and black start at the base and wind upward to the top with a very "spinning" effect. Pitcher and eight glasses, $1.

If it's a room in Oriental style, or if it's a dull room that needs a little brightening up, you can do it very simply for a minute price. A downtown department store has little Chinese embroideries suitable to hang on the wall, or place on the table, with gaudy Eastern colors in myriads of designs. They are priced from 25 cents to 75 cents.

New Fall Colors Hark Back to Hues Considered Smart Thirty Years Ago

By Amos Parrish.

"To be or not to be"—might be the question about new fall costume colors. When you look at many of them you'll think, "Yes—brown. But not a real brown," or, "It's green but a little blue, too."

And there's the big difference between the smart colors of this fall and last fall.

If you can remember back to before 1900 you'll recognize some of these colors. And you'll say, "Mother had a broadcloth dress in just that shade of red and Grandma's Sunday coat was a brown just like that."

Off Shades.

For the "off-shades" of the '90's are with us again. Red is apt to have a bluish cast that makes it look like grape juice or wine. Or it may be slightly pinked and remind you of geraniums.

Greens may be blued or slightly grayed to an olive shade. And the browns, too, are so grayed as to be almost taupe.

Real taupe makes a big splash on the color palette, just as it did back in the '90's. Beige, too. And those rust and mahogany shades of which many a "best" dress was made.

Black? It will be the choice of many, many women. A smart choice, too. And a fine background, as are some of these grayed and neutral colorings, for brighter colored accents.

For dramatic color contrasts often "make" the costume this fall. And such sharp accents as coral on black or rust on green will be seen everywhere.

Oriental Colors.

Some of these accents are going to remind you of the colorings in Chinese embroideries. For they come direct from the Orient. Yellow, green and a yellowish red are favorites.

Which one of all these colors is going to look best on you? And what colors go best together? Those are things you want to know, of course, before you go fall costume shopping.

Tomorrow: Black satin day dresses shine in fashion.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"Leo."

If August 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11:15 a. m., from 1:50 to 3 p. m. and from 6:45 to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 9 a. m. and from 9:10 to 10:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will tend to emphasize the strength of family ties; people generally will be clannish, more so than usual. In matters of business, it will be difficult to accomplish much without first paving the way with "contacts." "Cold canvassing" will probably prove of little avail.

The child born on this August 8 may possibly have a rebellious nature. You will not be able to drive or force him to do certain things; much more will be accomplished by gently guiding him. These children probably will be fond of water sports and should prove to be good swimmers.

If August 8 is the date of your birth, you are often motivated by generous impulses and unless you curb this tendency, you will do too much for others and thus impoverish yourself. You are a sentimental person and you allow yourself to be tied by many human bonds. If you are a woman, you are quite likely a very romantic sweetheart, but as a wife, you will tend to be demanding and commanding. The men are inclined to be jealous of their wives. Both sexes enjoy mingling in social groups and spend a great deal of time and money in entertaining. They are not always as discreet as they might be in the choice of their friends.

Born on August 8, you probably will make a good many enemies as you follow your business career. You radiate a great deal of self-confidence and to say the least, you are daring in your methods of attacking certain problems. You are not one to be unduly bound by the opinions of others. As a matter of fact, criticism spurs you on to greater activity and makes of you a rival doubly to be feared. At times you find it difficult to express yourself in speech, but when it comes to putting your thoughts on paper in convincing style, you are quite adequate. You have a love for the beautiful which expresses itself in your home surroundings and in your dress. You will find included among these people many splendid business men, artists, authors, all of them people who thrive on competition.

Successful people born on August 8:

John Quincy Adams, clergyman.
Florence A. Merriam, author.
Henry F. Osborn, zoologist.
Nelson A. Dana, lieutenant general.
Charles A. Dana, journalist.
Benjamin Stillman, sr., scientist.

Maple Spanish Cream.

(Serving four.)

2 eggs
¼ cup sugar
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
4 tablespoons cold water
½ cup maple syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Beat egg and add sugar and milk. Cook in double boiler until mixture becomes very hot and thickens slightly. Stir frequently, add gelatin which has soaked 5 minutes in water. Stir until gelatine has dissolved, cool and add rest of ingredients. Pour into glass mold and chill until stiff. Serve plain or with cream.

Crozet Peaches on Sale in Local Stores; Price May Be Lower Before Long; Hot Weather Toughens Corn; Watermelons Cheap.

By Hoyt Barnett.

The celebrated Crozet, Va., peaches will be more plentiful before the end of the week. The harvest is reported in full swing. The best variety from that district is the Elberta.

The quality may not be better, but prices should be somewhat lower before the peak of production is reached.

The Crozet—pronounced Crow-zey—crop will be followed by the peach harvest in Augusta County. If it's too hot to can a few Elberta peaches late this week or early next week, wait a while and buy some of the Augusta County crop. Or wait later still and pick up some Hales from Maryland.

And while on the subject of Hale peaches—they look prettier in a jar than any of the others. They may cost a little more.

Good Spinach Scarce.

Good spinach is as hard to find as it is to eat. Failing to locate some that suits you, try a little kale. It should be cooked longer than spinach. From a vitamin and mineral standpoint, kale is about as good.

Don't forget the watermelons. Trucks are arriving daily from the Carolinas and even as far away as Florida. The round melons have more "heart."

While on the subject of Florida it is worth while to mention that some 'tween season grapefruit is available. Watch the weight of these. A light grapefruit is short on juice.

Most Corn is Tough.

Corn-on-the-cob is hard to buy right. The heat of last week toughened it. Unless one is careful, the results are disappointing. Small quantities of real Golden Bantam will be along later. Beware of imitations.

Egg plants and cantaloupes look like buys.

If you want to do a little economizing buy a lamb tongue. It shouldn't cost more than 15 cents. You can stew it, roast it or boil it and serve it sliced cold. A good tongue will weigh about two pounds.

Try and do your shopping before 10 a. m. You'll be surprised at the better service, and the walk will do you good after breakfast. Vegetables will keep in better shape in your own cooler than they do in the stores. Try it.

Butter may be higher before the end of the week.

Young baking chickens are scarce. A baking chicken is a frier that has put on another pound of weight. Many of the frying size will be baking chickens pretty soon. So eat friers now and baking chickens later and save money.

Retail Food Prices.

Eggs—Government inspected, 29 to 30c; extras, 24 to 26; loose mediums, 21 to 23.
Butters—Prints, 30 to 33; tub, 28 to 30.
Poultry—Broilers, 25 to 31; friers, 25 to 31 per lb.; young baking chickens, 28 to 33 per lb.; heavy hens, 23 to 25 per lb.; medium hens, 20 to 25 per lb; light hens, 20 to 25 per lb.
Potatoes, 3 to 4 per lb.
Carrots, 7½ per bunch.
Beets, 5 per bunch.

Fruit Sherbet.

1 cup orange juice
1-3 cup lemon juice
½ cup chopped pineapple
1½ cups sugar
3 cups milk
⅛ teaspoon salt

Mix fruit juices, pineapple and sugar. Mixing with a spoon, slowly add milk, add salt and pour into freezer and freeze until stiff.

This dessert can be frozen by pouring into tray in mechanical refrigerator. After 30 minutes remove tray from ice box and with spoon stir the partially frozen mixture, return to ice box and after another 30 minutes repeat process. Return tray and allow to freeze.

It will require about 4 hours for this sherbet to freeze in the mechanical refrigerator.

Champ Clark's Joke on Wife

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, is a woman of great originality and individuality of spirit and Washington still talks about her birthday teas that she gave while her husband was presiding over the lower house of Congress.

At her Wednesday teas, Mrs. Clark always selected some guest as the object of her birthday enthusiasm. It mattered little to her or not whether it was actually the person's birthday or not. It made just as good a story.

Champ Clark loved his little jokes. So one Wednesday he suggested to Mrs. Clark: "Why don't you have today's birthday party for Bill Stone"—then a senator in the upper house from Missouri.

"I will," said Mrs. Clark, accepting the suggestion eagerly. "Furthermore, I know how I will decorate his birthday cake."

When the guests arrived that afternoon they found a tempting birthday cake with a centerpiece of "gum shoes" as they call rubbers south of Mason and Dixon's line. The guests were hilarious when they were told it was in honor of "Gumshoe" Bill Stone, his nickname for years.

In came the handsome Speaker and with him was Senator Stone. Both the men were laguhing heartily especially when they saw the gum shoes. When Senator Stone could speak again he told Mrs. Clark that, by a happy coincidence, it actually was his birthday, and he was so complimented by her attention and her cake.

Off in a corner of the room sat the Speaker laughing quietly. It was not the long arm of coincidence that had made Mrs. Clark hit the right birthday number that time.

Mutability.

By Katherine Smith.

When you were heedless of my charms
I cried for your attentions,
And sought to capture you with all
My subtlest inventions.

But now that you have come to me,
You worship and adore me
And I, to my intense despair,
Discover that you bore me.

Cool Daintiness Is Called Chief Girlish Charm

'Fresh as a Daisy' Look May Be Acquired by Careful Attention to Details.

By Elsie Pierce.

So many things they said to her:

"Up at the crack of dawn, working all day, yet still fresh as a daisy at night."

"So sweet and dainty, so immaculate, always."

"Grandmother would have said she always looks as though she had stepped out of a bandbox."

"I wonder how in the world she does it?"

The last remark with a note of envy and pathos in it. So let us see how she does it, for she is a typically lovely woman, one you can meet every day in every walk of life.

First, cleanliness is a habit with her. It is natural routine for her to take a warm, soapy, sudsy, scrubbing bath every night.

Soap and Water Help.

During the summer she lingers a little longer in the tub, scrubs a little harder. For the perspiration and oil glands are more active in the warm weather and more soap and water is necessary to remove every bit of perspiration and oil from the pores.

Bath salts are delightful for their softening effect on the water, their scent to body and set-up to spirit. Or a little baking soda may be added to the water to help cut the oil. And she uses her dusting or talcum powder after the bath.

Again in the morning, after her setting-up exercises, she takes her cool shower. It is slightly cleansing and wonderfully stimulating.

She uses a deodorant regularly, in addition to her bathing routine.

Her hair is always brushed carefully and arranged neatly. It never appears mussed or out of place.

Accessories Shipshape.

Her accessories are as immaculate as her person. Underclothes and stockings are changed daily. They are easily laundered and she does them herself. Her gloves, handkerchiefs, powder puff, purse (inside and out) are always in shipshape.

Collars or scarfs or similar lingerie touches are cleaned or laundered frequently—never a sign of soil. Shoes, hats, clothes brushed regularly.

She is an important person, often referred to as "big," yet she realizes that the little details of good grooming take one a long way toward loveliness, even toward beauty. Do you wonder that she is popular? Do you wonder that she is admired and envied?

She observes the rules of health as much as she does the rules for personal daintiness. And she manages to be fresh as a daisy mentally as well as physically; never ruffled, always cool, composed, refreshing to look at and to be with.

My new personal daintiness bulletin will give you a lot of "inside information" on keeping immaculately dainty. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Alexia.

THIS is one of a series of articles dealing with different forms of mental deficiency. One related to an incapacity to figure, a lack of mathematical ability. In the instance cited this was an acquired quality, to put it one way, or a loss achieved as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, to put it another way.

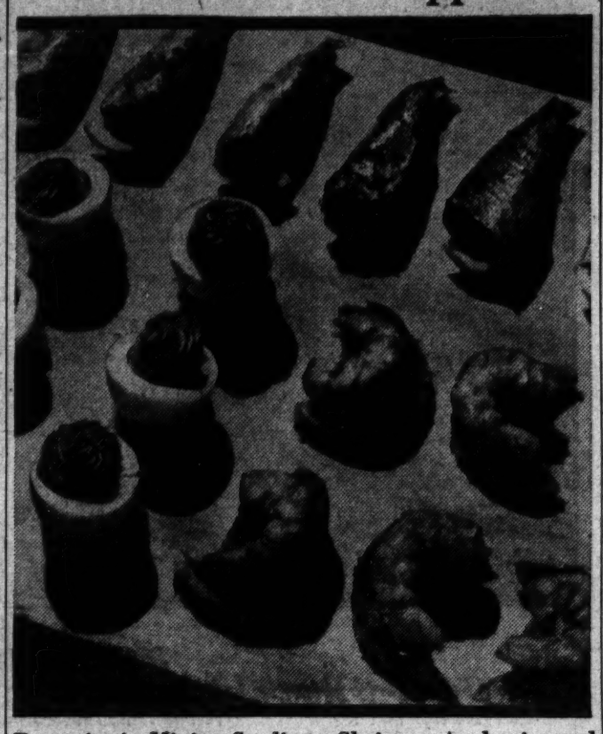
Of the several peculiarities to be discussed, alexia is very much the best known. It has been the subject of study for several years. In consequence we know that it is of several varieties. Alexia is an inability to read—a poor reading capacity. Reading is not as simple a mental process as we think it is. When we read understandingly the mind catches the meaning of a sentence some distance ahead of the utterance of the words that make up the sentence. The preview causes us to unconsciously arrange for enough air in the lungs to make the word sounds, to place the emphasis and the rises and falls of the voice in the right place.

The eye must see the printed words, flash them to the brain, which passes on the idea as well as the words and sends out the orders to the muscles, including those that work the vocal cords and the wind bellows. To be a good reader, all of these processes must work well individually and must fit properly into the time card for the combination.

Alexia has been known long enough and studied sufficiently well to permit splitting it up into several disorders. Some who appear to have alexia are feeble-minded and others are very near-sighted or almost blind from other eye troubles. These are not cases of true alexia. In some the alexia is due to an inability to recognize words when they are seen on the printed page. These people are word blind, in a sense. In some the difficulty is less with the individual word and more in the field of word combinations into sentences. In other cases the difficulty is less with the single sentence and more with the combination of sentences. In some the mind appears incapable of running ahead of the individual sentence and of sending the meaning of the next few sentences in relation to the one that is immediately in view.

Since there are several kinds of alexia the problem is to meet the need, which is to be varied according to the nature of the trouble. As a rule alexia is congenital, nothing is suspected to be wrong until school difficulties are encountered. Most of the cases are first suspected or proved by teachers in the schools.

Hors d'Oeuvres Under Any Name Still Are Appetizers



Dexterity in Mixing Sardines, Shrimps, Anchovies and Other Ingredients Is Secret of Success in Making Delightful Dish.

By Ann Barrett.

The French call them hors d'oeuvres. Italians call them antipasti. Swedes call them smorgasbord. In plain American they're appetizers. And by any name they taste so good, Actor Alfred Lunt isn't the only one who has wished he might have a whole week off, so as to eat his fill. From the kitchen point of view they're a happy habit, too. Once you've mastered the way of blending, mixing, chopping and spreading such various ingredients as sardines, shrimps, anchovies, smoked salmon and halibut, ham, bacon, dried beef, sausages, frankfurts, cheese, eggs, peanut butter, pickles, olives, tomatoes, onions and other vegetables—you'll know much more than just how to set a dinner off to a good start.

You'll also know just what to serve at your evening bridges. And you'll be complete mistress of the situation when there's an unexpected honk-honk at your door—say at 6 o'clock of a Sunday evening—and seven friends romp in from a long drive in the country.

Suit the Occasion.

Just one more point. You'll be a good ingredient mixer, but you'll never mix your occasions. You won't for example, attempt to appease the raging hunger of those seven friends fresh from a ride in the country, with dainty canapes 2 inches across and delicately decorated with this and that. You'll not even spread things for them. You'll just set the raw ingredients for your might-have-been appetizers right on the table on plates and in bowls. You'll put on plenty of bread sliced thin, and plates and plates of crackers, or Swedish crisp rye bread, or Melba toast. And you'll say, "Please spread your own." And they will. In fact, they'll spread so long and happily that if you give them a thing for dessert afterward but fresh fruit, you'll simply be wasting food.

But that evening bridge. Your friends (presumably) had a good dinner inside them when they arrived. Your cue is to give them appetizers quite as dainty and delicate as you wish. Don't try to serve too many kinds. It's better to have a few made just right than a dozen kinds badly made. The little canapes and appetizers that you can pick up in your fingers and consume in a glad bite or two are most popular for this occasion. Also for cocktail parties and firsst courses served before dinner in the living room with iced beverages.

Eaten-from-Fingers Appetizers.

Here are some suggestions for these tid-bits. First, potato chips. Always taste them ahead of time to make sure they don't need crisping in the oven or under the broiler. It's a fetching idea to spread them before serving with a dab of cream cheese or cream cheese with minced onion or chopped olive or anchovy paste. Have the spread soft enough so it won't break the chips when you put it on. But not too soft to soak in. And never spread a lot of chips ahead of time, or they'll go soft on you.

But here's an appetizer you can make up ahead—and believe me you'll need to! The men eat 'em alive. Say you have ten slices of thin, fresh-sliced dried beef. You mix up ½ cup cream cheese with 1 tablespoon cream and 2 teaspoons grated onion. You spread the dried beef with this mixture. Then roll up each slice nice and tight—to just about the length and thickness of a cigarette. Chill in the refrigerator.

Canapes Are Appealing.

For the kind of appetizer that's served on a foundation (they're called canapes) here's one that will get you talked about in a flattering way.

Take six rounds of bread cut about ¾-inch thick and 2 inches across. Brown these delicately in butter on one side only. On the other side spread the following mixture thickly: One package snappy cheese worked soft with 1 egg slightly beaten, 1 tablespoon milk and a few grains of cayenne pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon dry mustard. Then top each canape with a 2-inch square of bacon and broil until bacon is done. Serve hot.

French fried onions are slick as appetizers, too. And fried shrimps. And stuffed, baked mushrooms. As first courses, fruit cocktail (not too sweet), seafood cocktails and tomato juice cocktails are great favorites, also. My newest bulletin, "Smart Appetizers for First Course and Snacks," tells how to make all these good things and many more as well. I also have an earlier bulletin you might like to have. It's called "Tempting Appetizer-Salads." It tells especially how to stuff tomatoes and celery so as to make them slick eating, either for first courses, or to serve after meats. Send coupon below with 6 cents in loose stamps and self-addressed envelope for each bulletin—or 12 cents for both.

Confessing Her Minor Crimes Burdens Child

Overconscientious Complex Overcome When Onus Is on Teacher.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

Sarah was an over-conscientious child, the kind who is always confessing her crimes. It was not an eagerness for attention that made her do it, but an almost morbid desire to be strictly honest.

Now I have a tremendous respect for honesty, but the child who goes through qualms of conscience for such minor faults as eating candy on the sly or talking in study hour and then goes and tells on herself is really carrying a virtue too far. To be sure, once the confession was made the sin was off her mind and she was left with a free conscience to commit another peccadillo when opportunity offered.

The principal of the school watched her career of crime and penitence in silence for some months. Then she sent for Sarah and told her flatly that she wanted to hear no more of her confessions.

"It is my business," she added, "to make the rules and see that they are kept. If you can break them without being found out, well and good." Sarah was not a worse child for the freedom that she was given, and she was a happier one for the relief from responsibility.

With all children such counsel might not be wise, but for the over-sensitive, egocentric child I think it is undoubtedly the best. No one knows the agonies of self-searching to which they subject themselves, nor the wakeful hours when sleep refuses to come because of remorse over some petty fault that occurs to the tired little mind when the lights are out.

Often mothers, going for a last look at a supposedly sleeping child, are met with a tear-stained face and outspread arms to be told of some haunting offense not yet confessed. If this happens often the mother may be sure that the child needs a relief from her own self-searching which only someone in authority, a parent or a teacher, can give.

Vast Militaristic Organization Ready to Safeguard Recovery Act Success

Legion Meeting Gets Hundreds For Big Parade

Prizes Will Be Awarded By Veteran Group and Civilians.

Hundreds of business, civic and patriotic organizations will participate in a parade Wednesday night during the convention of the District Department, American Legion, at the Central High School Auditorium.

The parade will form at Fourteenth and K streets northwest moving north on Fourteenth to Clifton street and east to the school.

Legion prizes will be awarded for the best marching unit exclusive of regular military entries, best band in line of march, best drum corps among legion entries, largest number in line from any post and best decorated legion car or float.

Civilian prizes will be awarded for best decorated car of float, best decorated merchant car or float, best marching unit, most unique civilian entry and largest number in line from any civilian organization.

Col. Kenyon A. Joyce, commanding Fort Myer, will act as grand marshal of the parade, arrangements for which are in charge of W. A. Kehoe, general chairman for the American Legion.

Judges of the civilian entries will be Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Claude Owen, president of the Board of Trade; James Colliflower, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association; James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Four Enlisted Men Acquire Airplane

Bolling Field Group Tires of Fixing Craft for Others to Fly.

It gets a bit tiresome to be fixing up an airplane for somebody else to fly, so four enlisted men at Bolling Field have bought one for themselves and plan to become aviators.

They are Privates Preston Lee Miller, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and James W. Rinker, of Coplay, Pa., Technical Sergt. Tennyson M. Craft, of Great Cacapon, W. Va., and Corpl. James H. Dodge, of Deer Park, Md. Their "air force" consists of a low-wing, two-seater monoplane, which they bought in a state of some disrepair, but which is now ready for a commercial license from the Department of Commerce.

They will take instruction in flying and eventually hope to call the flying personnel of the Army Air Corps and the well-to-do private owners of aircraft their cloud brothers. The plane is in a hangar at Beaconfield, Va.

Reports of Sewage Plans Are Denied

Gordon Discounts Involving Piney Branch and Luzon.

Sanitary Engineer J. B. Gordon yesterday denied published reports that the District Engineer Department is considering urging the construction of new sanitary sewerage systems in the Piney Branch, Luzon and Klingle Valley watersheds at an estimated cost of $7,269,000.

Certain data relative to the Rock Creek pollution and actual and proposed sewer systems were forwarded to the Public Works Administration upon request recently. However, District officials believe the pollution is not exessive, except during rain storms, and that even the construction of new sanitary sewers would not remove the trouble entirely.

During dry weather, the Rock Creek pollution is no greater than can be expected from a suburban area, Gordon said. During rainy weather, the combined sewer systems are inadequate, he added, but the sewage is highly diluted by water when it overflows into the creek.

Army of Women Await Orders For Attack on NRA 'Chiselers'

Nation-Wide Organization Operates in 12,000 Cities and Towns.

Mary E. Hughes, promoter and organizer extraordinary, yesterday was in command of an army of 15,000 women who will promote the program of the NRA and ferret out the "drones and chiselers" who cheat on Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's famous "blue hawk."

This woman, selected to head the women's work of the NRA, comes to her present job with a reputation established by organizing, personally, 10,000 towns and cities for the Marine and Navy Band tours, 15 years as a child prodigy on the Chatauqua circuit, and the political sponsorship of Kentucky personages of parts.

This army of Amazons is well organized and ready to begin operations today.

Directly under Miss Hughes are 48 State chairmen.

Directly under each State chairman are the county chairmen, about 3,000 in all.

Directly under each county chairman are the city chairmen, about 12,000 in all.

This corps of 15,000 women is a duplicate of a planned men's organization and will work in harmony and cooperation with it, Miss Hughes declared.

"Aces—All Aces."

These 15,000-odd women workers of the NRA are militarized from top to bottom. But unlike any other known military organization, none holds a rank below that of colonel.

According to present plans, a further enlistment will be made under the rank of colonel in the 12,000 cities. The rank and title of these subordinate soliders of economic warfare will be decided later.

Miss Hughes insists that her army will not duplicate, in either form or manner, the notorious OGPU, the secret police of Soviet Russia which report violations of that administration's program in its economic war under the five-year plan.

The army of officer-women under Miss Hughes, ranging in title from lieutenant general to colonels, has been specifically instructed, however, to direct "a block-to-block canvas during the closing week of the drive, the date to be announced later, checking up in every city block on the compliance with the President's emergency reemployment agreement."

A second portion of these field orders instructs the colonels to lead a "survey of the unemployed, codifying the unemployed as to the adaptability by experience to trades and industries and act as liaison in the assimilation of the unemployed in expanding industries."

A third phase of these orders directs the group to "check up on the proper use of insignia by dealers and consumers."

Propaganda Mill Grinding.

Because it is impossible personally to lead her forces in the battle against "drones and chiselers" who double-cross the "blue hawk," Miss Hughes must depend upon her propaganda organization to instill the fighting spirit for which the American soldier has been known on all battlefields in all wars.

A manual sent direct from Miss Hughes to each of her 12,000 colonels contains six and a quarter pages of printed instructions on effective leadership.

Portions of these instructions hark back to the days of the Liberty Loan drive, when organizations were beseeched to be the first "over the top" in signing up to help the Government win the war.

In this instance the struggle is looked upon as an economic war. Thus, the slogans are "Every Woman a Consumer Signer." Women's organizations will be considered "over the top" when each member of the organization signs such a pledge.

But it is not only to women consumers to whom Miss Hughes' army is presenting slogans for signatures. Another pledge is, "Every Woman Employer a Signer of the Agreement with the President."

While some members of the local organizations are presenting slogans for signatures, other colonels will be delivering one, two, three, five or ten minute speeches prepared by Miss Hughes.

MARY E. HUGHES

Drawing upon the experience gained on the Chautauqua platform, Miss Hughes assembled a sample, which follows in part:

"You are here today to mobilize into a unit of a great army. Community by community our 130,000,000 people are forming themselves into an irresistible army to crush the evil forces of poverty that have been destroying us . . . The women of America have always rallied to our Nation's need and our Nation needs you now as never before."

Miss Hughes emphasized that she was not ready to announce that her force would take over the policing duties with which the administration is empowered by the national industrial recovery act.

Other spokesmen in Washington admitted, however, that with thousands of complaints coming in that the "blue hawk" is being double-crossed by drones and chiselers, some such police work must be announced shortly.

Miss Hughes' statement on police power was made in the face of printed instructions forwarded to her city "colonels" to conduct the block-to-block canvass to "check up on the compliance with the reemployment agreement."

Early Roosevelt Supporter.

No story on Miss Hughes, the commander in chief of the army of women, would be complete without a description of her enthusiasm for the present administration.

"More than a year before the Chicago convention," she said with a smile, "I started conducting an independent speaking campaign for President Roosevelt's nomination. That doesn't sound as though I jumped on the Roosevelt band wagon after the band started playing, does it?

"As for boycott against firms not 'playing ball' with the administration, or police work against those who break faith with their signed pledges, I must refer you to Gen. Johnson. I have been placed in charge of the woman's organization of the NRA, and like any good soldier, I will carry out instructions given me by my superiors."

With these words she signed off, and the interview was ended.

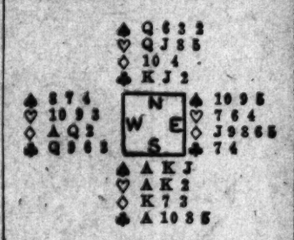
Lesson in Advanced Logic.

An end-play at a notrump contract is much more unusual than an end-play at a suit contract, principally because at a suit contract the Declarer can play for either a lead up to his tenace or a lead which will enable him to obtain a ruff and discard.

At notrump the ruff-and-discard feature is not present. Furthermore, it is often almost impossible for a Declarer to tell whether he should play for the end-play or try to make the hand in some very simple fashion. Generally speaking, the proper procedure can be determined only by close attention to the opponents' discards, and even then the psychology of the opponents has to be taken into consideration—particularly the question of whether they are players who are likely to tell the truth. The importance of this factor is illustrated by the fololwing hand:



The bidding is of no particular importance, the final contract being six notrump played by South. This is really not as reckless a contract as it might seem, as it is really dependent only on a finasse and a break. West's Opening lead was the Ten of hearts, and Declarer stopped to consider the hand immediately. He had four sure spade tricks, four sure heart tricks and three sure club tricks, even if the finesse lost. However, he could not afford to lose the club finasse as then the Ace of diamonds would be taken and he would be forced to give up all hope for the hand. If the club finesse was successful, his twelfth trick depended either on a club break or on the correct location of the Ace of diamonds.

He won the first trick with the Ace of hearts and then laid down three rounds of spades, remaining in his own hand. Realizing that there was no purpose in postponing the club play any longer, he next led a low club and finessed the Knave. The King followed, and Declarer again paused to consider the situation. It was apparent that if the clubs dropped, his contract was made. On the other hand, he had a possible forced lead play on West if this player still held two clubs and the Ace of diamonds—which would lose, however, if the Ace of diamonds lay in the East hand. Still not knowing what he was going to do, he returned to the King of hearts in his own hand and then led over to the Queen. The last heart forced East to discard, and this player, without a moment's hesitation, dropped the 9 of diamonds. Declarer also threw a diamond and then stopped to consider things for the third time.

If East was telling the truth, it was apparent to Declarer that he could lead the Queen of spades, throw the Ten of clubs and then follow with a diamond. However, was East telling the truth? He was a good player and perfectly capable of falsecarding for the purpose of keeping his partner out of an end-play. However, South was aware that East knew that these tactics were just what South would expect. Consequently, Declarer decided East had played the 9 of diamonds, not to make him think that he did not have the Ace, but to make him think that he did.

All this sounds extremely complicated and probably is. Actually, however, the Declarer decided that West had the Ace, and led the Queen of spades from Dummy, discarding another low diamond from his own hand. West, who had previously discarded the deuce of diamonds, was now forced to throw his Queen. This conclusively settled the matter as far as the Declarer was concerned and he proceeded to lead a diamond; West won with the Ace and was forced to lead up to Declarer's Ace-Ten of clubs.

I can not vouch for the fact that Declarer actually figured all this out, but at any rate he said that he did.

Dern Declares NRA to Brook No Selfishness

War Secretary, in Kansas City, Says Some Seek to Interfere.

Kansas City, Aug. 7 (AP).—In forceful language, Secretary of War Dern tonight told a Chamber of Commerce audience here that attempts to gain selfish advantage through the national industrial recovery act will not be tolerated.

While stressing the Government's intention to see no undue hardship is imposed upon smaller business men who "may not be able to sign President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement immediately," Secretary Dern voiced a warning to those who would interfere with the program.

"It is with regret that I state that there has been some opposition and some criticism of this act to rehabilitate industry and to restore millions of men to the pay roll, and that some are seeking selfish advantage," Secretary Dern said. "This will not be tolerated.

"My recent tour through the States, however, has convinced me that the vast majority of Americans are enthusiastic in their support of the new program. They are not in a mood to brook very much open interference with it, or to be hospitable to the suggestion that the recovery act is too radical."

Secretary Dern ridiculed the idea that the NRA was a resort to radical theories.

Lectures Given To Guardsmen On Maneuvers

Map Posting and Sketching Also Are Explained at Camp Ritchie.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—The District National Guard field training period began in earnest today with a number of lectures, map posting and sketching and extended order drill. Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan greeted the Twenty-ninth Division staff and headquarters detachment, then introduced Maj. L. McD. Silvester, U. S. Army instructor, who spoke.

At the suggestion of Gen. Stephan, a motion was adopted by the staff to draw up a resolution expressing regret at the sudden death of Maj. Gen. Charles G. Morrison, wartime commander of the division, who died recently at Las Gatos, Calif. Lieut. Col. George Henderson, Mayor of Cumberland, Md., and Lieut. Col. Edwin P. Conquest, of Richmond, both of whom served with the general during the war, will write the resolution.

Maj. Joseph J. Greenlaw, commanding the 121st Engineer Medical Detachment, spoke to the regiment on camp sanitation and personal hygiene, following which the men were ordered to the field for the study of maps. Maps of the camp were sketched, including company streets, roads and parade grounds. Later in the week the men will construct maps of the mountainous area near Gettysburg battlefield, where the division staff will fight a theoretical war. Lieut. Hugh Everett, of the Headquarters and Service Company, was in charge of the instruction.

This afternoon a formal guard mount was held by the regiment. Details from each company were chosen and commanded by Lieut. Pearson C. Sonlyn, adjutant of the First Battalion. The Engineer Band, led by Warrant Officer Meyer Goldman, well-known Washington musician, played during the ceremony for the regimental parade which followed.

Tomorrow Companies E, C and F will shoot for qualification records, while the division staff and their enlisted assistants will continue with the problem.

Hats About Town

By Mary Brook Lucas

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

"I like this eel-colored taffeta hat!" enthuses Mother Stylefinder. "It started out to be so high-hat and then was brought so intriguingly low in front with the silver arrow ornament. It goes well, too, with the silver Indian necklace I picked up in Arizona." The smart square cut of Mother's collar merits mention.

"Well," declares Judy, "even if I am going to wear this beret on the boat I'll feel like a high-flier, for it was inspired by a famous aviator!" The hat you see her in is brown suede to match her tweed dress and dashing, high-shouldered coat. Suede buttons decorate the waist.

Mother can never resist a black and white ensemble. When she purchased this smart black satin dress with the new folded shoulder effect, and father, in a fit of generosity, gave her an ermine scarf, she searched until she found this becoming white felt hat with the inevitable touch of black at the back.

"I am so glad they haven't given up the Hat-Bag-Glove ensemble!" exclaims Jeanne. This bag of briarrose kid goes so perfectly with this high tricorne, with its saucy little fluff of elderdown; and both hat and bag have white silk cord drawn through the eyelets. Jeanne's coat, in the latest mode, has but one lapel!

Radio Dial Flashes

AN attractive feature of the new Post baseball scoreboard is that local stations may be tuned in and heard over the loud speakers before the game and between the innings. All sorts of entertainment is furnished the fans while waiting.

During the game the same loud speakers are used to broadcast the bulletins received from Mr. Povich in New York, also for announcements of the operator of the board in the office of The Post. The radio broadcasts yesterday from stations WMAL, WRC and WJSV proved of such interest to the fans between games that many remained throughout the entire intermission.

The board will again be in action this afternoon for the game between Washington and New York. Drop by and see how you like it!

Gertrude Lyons, with her juveniles, 10 to 16 years old, will give a diversified program for "Shut-ins" over WMAL at 5:15 p. m.

Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant to Attorney General Cummings, will tell of the counter-attack against kidnapers and racketeers. (National Radio Forum, WRC, 9:30 p. m.)

O. K. for summer enjoyment excerpts from two Gilbert and Sullivan operas are on the bill tonight. The first will be "Trial by Jury" (WMAL, 7 p. m.), and the second, "H. M. S. Pinafore" (WJSV 9:45 p. m.).

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES A. FARLEY will speak on "Youth and the NRA" tonight (WJSV, 10:15).

Ring Lardner has picked out the 1932-33 All-America radio team. He chooses them, in the magazine New Yorker, in this order:

(1) Show Boat, (2) Rudy Vallee and his "U. S. Nasal Academy", (3) and 4) Cantor-Rubinoff-Doc Lee Hour "as it was about 12 months ago" and the Jack Pearl-Cliff Hall-Magic Carpet-Walter O'Keefe Hour of last fall, (5) Fred Allen and Roy Atwell, (6) Paul Whitman and the Revelers, (7) Burns and Allen and Guy Lombardo's orchestra, and (8) Ed Wynn, Graham McNamee and Don Voorhees' orchestra.

"Lum and Abner" strike us as furnishing first rate rural comedy (WRC, 6:30 p. m.). From their pictures, minus makeup, the boys taking these parts look as if they were only in their early twenties.

In real life Lum and Abner are "Chet" Lauck and "Tuffy" Goff. Their public appearances began with benefit performances for flood victims in Arkansas, their home State, in the winter of 1930-31.

The story of heroic 16-year-old Betty Zane, who saved Fort Henry from a combined Indian and British attack during the American Revolution, will be dramatized at 9 p. m., over WRC.

"ALEXANDRIA - ON - THE-AIR" will be a new offering today, sponsored by the merchants in George Washington's old home town. It will be an organ recital by Gene Stewart. (WJSV, 12:30 p. m.)

Vic: Oh, Sade, the instalment man's here.

Sade: I'll be there directly. Tell him to take a chair.

Vic: I did—but he said he'd start with the radio and vacuum cleaner.

Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the National Council of Women, will speak on the American Women Composers program at the Century of Progress Exposition (WRC, 2:30 p. m.).

THE famous seventh inning of the fourth game in the 1929 world series, which has been termed one of the "most sensational" in the diamond's history, will be dramatized by Ted Husing (WJSV, 9:30 p. m.).

Army Band to Play Old and New Music

A variety of selections will be featured by the Army Band in the festival concert 8 p. m., tomorrow night at the Sylvan Theater. The program is entitled "The Old and the New in Music."

Compositions by Beethoven will be the principal examples of the old in music and Gershwin and several popular waltzes will be played as "music of today" Marian Chase will present several dances and the Chesapeake and Potomac Glee Club will sing.

New Yorker Day by Day

By Mark Barron.

New York.—A limousine with motorcycle escort was waiting for Wiley Post outside a Madison avenue hotel. In the small crowd that gathered on the sidewalk were two well dressed men, one carrying a brief case.

They waited minute after minute, but Post was delaying his appearance. The man with the brief case became more and more fidgety, kept remarking to his companion that he should go on about his business instead of rubber necking at round-the-world aviators.

Finally, Post came hurrying out, smiled briefly at the crowd, leaped into the limousine and was off with a shriek of sirens.

"Well, I saw Post," commented Mr. Briefcase, "but I'll bet I missed the sale of 50 tons of coal waiting."

One result of the visit of Gen. Balbo and his air armada was to emphasize what a large number of Italians there are in New York. With its population of more than a million relatives of Mussolini's fellow countrymen, New York is the largest Italian city in the world. Rome itself has a population of only 687,000.

With the exception of the French, the Italians are assimilated in the metropolitan melting pot more thoroughly than any other stock. The Germans, Greeks, Spaniards, Syrians and other groups center, for the most part, in single neighborhoods around town. But the Italians are spread out into scores of scattered colonies stretching from the Brooklyn waterfront to the suburban streets of the upper Bronx.

Betting On Herself.

Eleanor Holm took a long gamble on her career and came through magnificently.

Not only a champion athlete, she is also an extremely pretty girl who is taking her stage and movie work as seriously as she does her swimming.

Wearing a low-cut blue evening gown, she halted beside my table in the casino of the Lido Beach Club. "I wasn't making as much progress as I thought I should in Hollywood," she said. "So I bought off my contract and came East for the swimming meets."

A few days later at Jones Beach she broke her own Olympic record for the backstroke. This new feat thrust her name into the Nation's headlines again, and the next day brought a deluge of contract offers from film studios. After a vaudeville tour, she returns to the West Coast as star material.

Trivia of the Town.

The Gumps — The Prospective Son-in-Law

WELL, MOTHER- IT WON'T BE LONG NOW TILL I'M YOUR DUTIFUL SON-IN-LAW - WHAT A GREAT TIME WE THREE ARE GOING TO HAVE ON THAT HONEYMOON TRIP - I'VE GOT IT ALL PLANNED OUT -
OH, COUNT- I CAN'T BEAR TO THINK OF BEING PARTED FROM MILLIE -
DON'T WORRY, MOTHER- THE WAY THINGS ARE GOING RIGHT NOW, WE'LL NEVER HAVE ANOTHER WORRY IN OUR LIVES - AND I INSIST ON TAKING CARE OF ALL THE BILLS FOR MILLIE'S TROUSSEAU AND HER WEDDING OUTFIT -
OH, I COULDN'T THINK OF THAT, COUNT- BUT YOU WILL TAKE GOOD CARE OF MY LITTLE GIRL ALWAYS, WON'T YOU? SHE'S SO YOUNG- SO HELPLESS -
SHE'LL MAKE THE MOST WONDERFUL WIFE ANY MAN EVER HAD -
AND YOU'LL MAKE THE MOST WONDERFUL MOTHER ANY COUPLE EVER HAD - HOW PROUD YOU AND I WILL BOTH BE WHEN WE TAKE HER ABROAD AND INTRODUCE HER AS THE BEAUTIFUL COUNTESS BESSFORD - I'M BOOKING THE ROYAL SUITE ON THE STEAMER NEXT WEEK - AND TELL ME, CONFIDENTIALLY, DO YOU THINK MILLIE WOULD PREFER A YACHT OR A FRENCH CHATEAU FOR A WEDDING PRESENT ?
HAW! HAW! WHAT A LOOK THAT OLD BATTLE-AXE HAD ON HER FACE WHEN I TALKED ABOUT THE TROUSSEAU AND THE YACHT - I'LL BET THEY HAVEN'T HAD A SQUARE MEAL IN A MONTH - IF I EVER GET HER ALONE ON A BOAT, I'LL TIE A CANNON BALL AROUND HER NECK AND PUSH HER OVERBOARD - SQUEEK!

I - I'M SORRY I LOST MY TEMPER -
BUT SAMSON! - HOW COULD YOU HAVE TOLD THEM THAT YOUR MACHINE WAS A FAKE? - IT GREW HAIR ON PA'S BALD HEAD, DIDN'T IT? - IT MADE MY OWN HAIR GROW BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS - DIDN'T IT?
YES - BUT IT WON'T DO IT NOW -
SAMSON! - YOU KNOW IT'S ONLY SOME LITTLE THING OUT OF ORDER SOMEWHERE! - YOU CAN FIX IT - OF COURSE YOU'LL FIX IT!
SURE YOU WILL, MY BOY! - AND WE'LL STILL MAKE MILLIONS WITH IT!
NO - I'M NOT SO SURE! I DON'T WANT TO RAISE ANY FALSE HOPES - THERE'S SOMETHING MORE THAN JUST A COG OUT OF ORDER - PLEASE, DIXIE, - PLEASE, MR. DUGAN - LEAVE ME TO MYSELF A WHILE TO WORK THIS OUT -

SO YOU WANT FIFTY GRAND TO TAKE ME IN AS A PARTNER IN THIS SMUGGLING RACKET, EH? MIKE, THAT'S A LOT OF DOUGH!
SURE IT'S A LOT OF DOUGH! THAT'S WHY I MADE THE FIGURE SO HIGH - I KNEW YOU WOULDN'T HAVE IT.. I DON'T WANT ANY PARTNERS! FURTHERMORE I'M GOING TO KICK YOU OFF THIS BOAT WHEN WE GET DOWN TO NEW YORK.
YEAH?
NOW, TAKE IT EASY, MIKE. LISTEN, SUPPOSE I TOLD YOU HOW WE BOTH COULD MAKE FIFTY GRAND APIECE WITHOUT YOUR HAVING TO SELL ANY INTEREST IN YOUR SMUGGLING BUSINESS EITHER?
GO AHEAD - SPILL IT.
HERE'S AN ARTICLE IN A NEW YORK PAPER, ONE OF YOUR MEN BROUGHT ABOARD LAST NIGHT - LISTEN TO THIS..... "ACCORDING TO THE WILL OF THE LATE HANK STEELE OF SILVER MOUNTAIN, COLORADO - THE OLD MINER'S ENTIRE ESTATE OF SOME TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS WILL GO TO HIS YOUNG SON, JUNIOR, AND DICK TRACY OF THE LOCAL POLICE DEPARTMENT, THE BOY'S GUARDIAN." DOES THAT GIVE YOU AN IDEA?

Farming.

THE farmer's lot is hard; he stands in his front yard and sees his wheat devoured by heat, and he is badly jarred. And while his crop is burned, he finds the marts have turned, and prices rise to hit the skies, for grain but lately spurned. Last year he had some grain, grown in the heat and rain; he'd swap some oats for dollar notes, but values all were slain. The market sagged and dipped, the market slumped and slipped; he couldn't get enough to bet on anything he shipped. And now that market speeds; of dollars wheat he reads, and as he views the market news his toil-worn bosom bleeds. It's just the farmer's luck; he's always being stuck; when he has any hay there is no way to trade it for a buck. But when he has no hay the prices, in a day, climb up a league, to his fatigue, and make him old and gray. The farming game is tough; one year should be enough to make a guy sell out and try some job that's not so rough. Yet farmers seldom quit, although they will admit that they are fools to ply their tools in work that makes no hit. Though tired, they still remain, upon the fertile plain; and when the price is on the ice, they all have heaps of grain.

Mathewson's Son Hunts Help for Broken Body

San Francisco, Aug. 7 (AP).—Christy Mathewson, jr., aviator-son of the late famous baseball pitcher, returned to the United States today on the liner President Hoover, en route to New York to consult specialists he hopes will help mend his broken body.

He was accompanied by his mother, who less than a year ago accompanied her son's fiancee to China and attended their wedding. The younger Mrs. Mathewson was killed less than a fortnight later in the airplane crash which robbed young Mathewson of an arm and a leg and nearly cost him his life.

G. M. Declares Usual Return For Common

Aviation Corporation Nets $321,057 for First Six Months.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—A regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock was declared today by the General Motors Corporation.

Common dividends have been paid by the corporation at the rate of $1 annually since June 1, 1932, when the disbursement was reduced to 25 cents quarterly from 50 cents.

The dividend is payable September 12 to stock of record August 17.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Aviation Corporation and subsidiaries today reported consolidated net profit of $321,057 for the first six months of 1933, contrasted with loss of $2,565,371 for the same part of last year.

L. B. Manning, president, said American Airways experienced a "very gratifying increase" in traffic. The company was unable to handle the volume of traffic available because of shortage of equipment. The net profit reported was the first in the company's history.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The United Aircraft & Transport Corporation, one of the country's largest air transportation companies, doubled its net income in the June quarter over the first three months period of 1933.

Its quarterly report today showed net income of $848,258 equal, after dividend requirements on 6 per cent preferred, to 35 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $432,171, or 15 cents a share on the common in the preceding quarter, and $502,861 in the 1932 June quarter.

The National Aviation Corporation, a holding company, reports that on June 30, the liquidating value of its 410,378 shares of stock was $13.35 a share. This compared with $10.49 a share on 380,628 shares December 31, 1932, and $6.22 a share on 333,462 shares as of June 30, 1932.

The quarterly report of the Houston Oil Co. of Texas and its wholly owned subsidiary, the Houston Pipe Line Co., shows a consolidated net loss of $379,379 for the three months ended June 30, against loss of $355,294 in the preceding quarter, and loss of $141,680 in the 1932 June quarter.

Dividend Shares, Inc., reports net unrealized appreciation for the six months ended June 30 of $5,222,494. As of this date total assets amounted to $23,182,262 against $10,122,643 on December 31, 1932.

Dominion Stores, Ltd., reports a net profit of $156,774 for the six months ended June 30, equivalent to 55 cents a share on the capital stock, compared with $223,235, or 79 cents a share in the first half of 1932.

White Sewing Machine Corporation for the three months ended June 30, 1933, reports a loss of $169-196, after depreciation and interest but before income taxes, as against a loss of $448,519 reported in the same period last year. Loss on branch office repossessions and collections is charged directly to reserve established for that purpose.

For the six months ended June 30, 1933, on a similar basis, the loss reported was $329,347, against a loss of $904,515 in the same period of 1932.

Directors of Drug, Inc., today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents per share on the capital stock, payable September 1, to stockholders of record August 15.

World's Cotton Use Sets High Record

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—World consumption of cotton, all growths, for the season just ended was the largest since the 1929-30 season, the New York Cotton Exchange reported today. During the 12 months ended July 31, world spinners used approximately 24,725,000 bales compared with 23,007,000 in the previous season.

The increase of 1,718,000 bales in consumption of all growths from 1931-32 to 1932-33 was almost entirely due, said the exchange service, to the large increase in the use of American staple, which rose from 12,506,000 bales to 14,132,000. Consumption of foreign cottons rose but slightly, from 10,501,000 bales to 10,593,000.

The service reported the world's carry-over of all kinds of cotton on July 31 at approximately 15,530,000 bales on the basis of preliminary returns against 17,412,000 a year ago.

2,000 Return To Factory in North Carolina

High Point, N. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—The wheels of one of North Carolina's greatest industries began to turn again today after three weeks' idleness as approximately 2,000 seamless hosiery workers returned to their posts in 21 mills here and one at Thomasville after a strike for higher wages.

Approximately 3,000 others are expected to return to work within a few days. The mills can start work only in certain departments after the long shutdown. As goods are made up, other departments will reopen.

Denied their request for 25 per cent wage increase, the workers will, instead, receive the same pay for 40 hours work a week which was formerly given them for 55 hours.

The agreement left but 600 strikers here as compared with 6,000 who were out of textile, furniture and hosiery plants during the last weeks of July.

Workers at the High Overall Co. remained away from the plant after demanding adoption of the blanket code by the management. No answer has been made to the demand.

Bond Market Drifts Lower In Dull Session

Some Rail Loans Firm; Sales Volume Drops to $8,533,000.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Bond prices drifted to moderately lower levels today in quiet and generally featureless trading.

Sales totaled only $8,533,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off two-tenths of a point.

Rail issues were somewhat uncertain despite the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a reduction of freight rates at this time. A few car loadings reports showed moderate recessions.

Among the few firm carrier bonds were some of Santa Fe, Chesapeake Corporation, Chesapeake & Ohio, Colorado Southern, Kansas City Southern, New Haven and St. Louis Southwestern.

Losers of Fractions.

Losers of fractions to around a point or more included liens of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. Central, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Southern and Wabash.

Improvement was shown in bonds of Bethlehem Steel, Colon Oil, Consolidated Gas, Dodge Bros, National Dairy and Public Service.

The easier utilities and industrials included loans of American & Foreign Power, Colorado Industrial, Goodrich, Houston Oil, Hudson Coal, International Hydro-Electric, International Telephone, United Drug and U. S. Rubber.

Foreign Loans Mixed.

Foreign obligations generally showed an indefinite trend. Dutch East Indies 6s of 1962 gained 2¾ points on announcement that the government would purchase at the rate of 2.46 guilders to the dollar coupons due September 1.

With guilders at the recent rate of about 54.90 cents, this would be equivalent to $40.15 for the $30 coupon on the 6s. Issues of Australia, Canada, France, Germany and Switzerland were fractionally to more than a point higher.

United States Government securities were dull and fairly firm.

Stocks Forced Down Under Quiet Trading

Dealing Mulls Lazily During Session, Recording Seven-Tenths Loss; Sales Volume Dwindles to Total of 770,160 Shares.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The stock market chose today to indulge in nothing more strenuous than a mere round of aimless and insignificant shadow boxing.

Stocks mulled about lazily during the entire trading session. The close was narrowly irregular, with changes more or less evenly divided between the winners and losers. Volume was only 770,160 shares, the smallest since April 4. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics composite of 90 selected issues showed a net decline for the day of seven-tenths of a point.

Commodity markets were colorless and quiet, too, almost as if the midsummer lethargy surrounding stocks had been contagious. Trading in grains, proceeding in a listless manner, resulted mostly in fractional declines. Cotton lost 70 to 85 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges trailed along in the same spirit, with final quotations for the dollar generally limited to small advances. The market for metals showed a generally steady tone.

In the stock list the utilities seemed to be singled out for selling more than any other group. Wall street attributes this, for the most part, to rate uncertainties and the fear that there may be no method of compensation for the higher operating costs expected under the national recovery campaign.

Among the utilities, Consolidated Gas, North American and Public Service of New Jersey lost from fractions to more than a point.

Rails were soft despite an Interstate Commerce Commission decision refusing to sanction lower freight rates. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe and Great Northern preferred all closed fractionally to around a point lower.

The steel group remained steady throughout the day. United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic were slightly higher at the final gong. A more robust showing was made by Chrysler, Hercules Powder, Great Western Sugar preferred, Endicott Johnson, Dunhill International, and Reynolds Tobacco "B," all of which advanced from 1 to around 2 points.

The business picture was generally viewed with satisfaction in financial quarters. Wall street was keenly interested in the forthright statements of the Interstate Commerce Commission—made in conjunction with its rate decision—urging equal regulation for competing forms of transport. Formation of the National Board of Arbitration, it is felt, completes all the essential machinery needed to put over the recovery campaign. This was regarded as the one remaining tool needed, but with a designated body ready to adjust disputes, most observers feel that the drive should move steadily forward from this point on.

Value of Listed Shares Drops $3,500,000,000

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The aggregate value of shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell more than $3,500,000,000 in July, according to figures reported by the exchange today.

Listed shares on August 1 had a total value of $32,762,207,992, compared with $36,348,747,926 on July 1. The average market value declined to $25.57 per share compared with $28.29 on July 1.

Stocks.

Dealing lagged throughout the session and resulted in a loss of seven-tenths of a point. The trading volume, 770,160 shares, was the smallest since April 4. Utilities fell under selling.

Bonds.

Prices drifted two-tenths of a point lower. Some rail issues firmed and an improvement was shown in industrials. Sales dwindled to $8,533,000.

Curb.

Idle dealing marked curb transactions as prices declined again. General tire issues advanced three points. The sales turnover was 188,000 shares.

Wheat.

Values averaged slightly lower on recovery act developments and an increase in the visible supply of grain. There was some encouragement for prices in further reports of crop damages. All grains joined the decline. September wheat sold at 98 to 98⅛ cents; May, at $1.05 to $105⅛.

Cotton.

Prices sank 14 to 17 points, about 70 cents per bale, on further evening up of accounts for the United States crop report, due today. December sold at 10.21; October at 9.99. Liverpool was closed for the English bank holiday.

Rubber.

Crude futures closed quiet. September sold at 7.49; December, at 8.09 to 8.10.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was unchanged at 3.45. Refined sold at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was quiet. Rio No. 7 sold at 7½; Santos No. 4, at 8@8¾.

Silver.

Bar silver in New York was unchanged at 35⅞ cents per ounce.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London, at 124 shillings and 9 pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar rallied on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York with reference to other currencies, $4.48 to the English pound; 5.31 cents to the French franc, and 32.37 cents to the German mark.

Wheat Values Drop Slightly On Supply Gain

Early Advances Overcome by Losses; All Grains Join Declines.

Chicago, Aug. 7 (AP).—Awaiting developments in the national recovery plan, wheat prices averaged a little lower today, affected somewhat by liberal enlargement of the domestic wheat visible supply.

The country's stock of wheat in sight showed 3,057,000 bushels increase during the past week, compared with 992,000 increase a year ago. With holidays at Winnipeg and Liverpool, speculative interest was restricted, and the market responsive to any good buying or selling, but displaying no pronounced trend.

Wheat closed easy, ¼ to ¾ under Saturday's finish; corn, ½ to 1 cent down; oats, ¼ to ⅝ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15 cents.

Early Advance Made.

Wheat made a hesitating start, and then advanced moderately on account of apparent likelihood of unwelcome higher temperatures in Canada, where crops had suffered severe losses. Buying was also promoted temporarily by attention given to the fact that of late the September delivery of wheat had gained relative to December.

Friends of higher prices said this circumstance pointed to inherent market strength as generally shown in past experience whenever a nearby contract was notably firmer than deferred futures.

Selling augmented on wheat price advances, however, especially after rains at various points dispelled uneasiness regarding possibilities of a new heat wave.

Reports of Losses.

On the other hand, a sustaining influence came from reports that throughout Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana, conditions were such that the Northwest this season would not raise more than 150,000,000 bushels of bread wheat and 15,000,000 bushels of durum.

The same reports indicated, nevertheless, that wheat heads were well developed, and that there would not be much light-test wheat.

Corn and oats largely followed wheat. Sunday rains, especially in Iowa, were a bearish factor as to corn.

Provisions inclined downward, paralleling the action of hog values.

U. S. Dollar Rises On Foreign Marts

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The dollar moved moderately higher today in foreign exchange transactions.

The British pound sterling was off 1¾ cents, at $4.48 for cables; French francs eased .02 of a cent, to 5.31 cents, and Dutch guilders lost ¼ of a cent, at 54¾ cents.

Belgian belgas, Swiss francs, German marks and the Scandinavians declined around 1-10 of a cent each. Canadian dollars sagged ⅜ of a cent, at 93.37½ cents. Japanese yen were slightly lower.

New York Bank Stocks React in Past Week

New York, Aug. 7.—The New York City bank stock market reacted slightly during the past week. The aggregate value of the 16 leading issues, as compiled by Hoit, Rose & Troster, ended the week at $1,542,446,000, compared with $1,552,462,000 at the close of the previous week, a decrease of $10,016,000, or 0.64 per cent. The low point for the year to date, namely $1,065,746,000, was recorded on April 5.

The average yield of the 16 stocks is now 5.08 per cent, compared with a yield of 5.05 per cent reported on July 28. The current market value of the 16 stocks is now 1.18 times their known book value, against 1.19 on July 28. Based upon current figures the 16 stocks are now quoted at an average of 11.3 times their known earnings against 11.4 on July 28.

Zinc and Lead Cargoes Increase During 1933

Joplin, Mo., Aug. 7 (AP).—The combined value of zinc and lead ore shipped from the Joplin district in 31 weeks of 1933, ending today, has exceeded the total for the entire year of 1932.

A year ago the total was $4,058,921. This year, with 21 weeks to go, it has reached $4,214,313.

Santa Fe Carloadings Decline During Week

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—Freight car loadings on the Santa Fe Railway last week totaled 21,033 cars compared with 21,436 in the preceding week and 22,737 in the corresponding week last year.

The Chesapeake & Ohio system for the same period loaded a total of 32,530 cars against 33,807 in the previous week and 22,804 in the like 1932 period.

Drought Still Hits Parts of Canada

Montreal, Aug. 7 (Spl.).—"While the outlook in Alberta is slightly improved by recent rains, heat and continued drought have caused further deterioration in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where crops are maturing too rapidly," says the Bank of Montreal in its current crop report.

"Fair to good yields are indicated in northern areas of Alberta and Manitoba, and in northeastern Saskatchewan. Other areas, generally, are poor, with total failure and feed shortage indicated in many districts. Ravage by grasshoppers continues over southern areas. In Quebec, rain, which has been so badly needed of late, fell during the past week, with beneficial effects in many parts of the province.

"In Ontario, the continued drought is taking a serious toll of crops, generally, and it is causing some concern in many parts of the province. Recent rains have been beneficial in the Ottawa Valley and in certain northern sections. In the Maritime Provinces, with growing conditions good, crops continue to progress satisfactorily, although rain is now needed. In British Columbia, weather conditions have been favorable, but rain would now be beneficial in some districts."

Western Electric Co. Announces Wage Raise

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Western Electric Co. announced today an 11 per cent increase in wages and salaries of 15,000 employees, effective as of August 1.

The announcement said the company had signed the President's reemployment agreement under the Industrial Recovery Act and had granted the pay raise to all hourly rated employes and to salaried employes receiving up to $3,240 annually. The increase affects both men and women employes, and will increase the company's annual payroll $2,250,000.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

The position of the Treasury on August 4 was: Receipts for August 4, $13,238,284.83; expenditures, $23,704,371.70; balance, $796,545,196.14; custom duties for months, $4,280,704.56.

Receipts for fiscal year since July 1, $204,856,891.96; expenditures, $339,786,592.12 (including $103,673,068.87 for emergency relief); excess of expenditures was $137,929,700.16.

Two Insurance Companies to Be Revamped

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—The State Insurance Department today took possession of Lloyds Insurance Co. of America and the General Indemnity Corporation of America for rehabilitation.

Insurance Superintendent George S. Van Schaick said the boards of directors of the two companies consented to the action and orders authorizing the department to take them over were signed by Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler.

"The present difficulties of the two companies," Van Schaick said in a statement, "are attributable to a falling off of premium income and an unliquid condition."

Lloyds Insurance Co. of America, which has no connection with the Lloyds of Great Britain, was formed by a merger of Lloyds Casualty Co., the Constitution Indemnity Co. of Philadelphia and the Detroit Fidelity & Surety Co., and it recently acquired stock control of the General Indemnity Corporation of America.

An unaudited report as of last December 31 listed liabilities of $3,778,937, capital of $1,000,000 and net surplus of $1.000,000, with total assets of $8,951,253.

The General Indemnity Corporation reported at the same time listed assets of $2,028,884, liabilities of $809,852, capital of $750,000 and net surplus of $469,031.

Van Schaick also took over today two more mortgage companies in New York City, the New York Title & Mortgage Co. and the Home Title Insurance Co. Earlier this week he took over six other companies.

Reorganization plans for the mortgage companies are well under way, the superintendent said, but no plans have been made so far for the insurance companies.

R. F. C. Purchases Stock In New Kentucky Bank

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation today announced the purchase of $50,000 worth of preferred stock of the Murray National Bank of Murray, Ky., a successor to the First National Bank of that city.

The purchase was made contingent on subscriptions of an equal amount of common stock by those interested in the new bank.

U. S. Economic Doctors Report Trade Responding to Tonics

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—His nieces and nephews have been watching Uncle Sam swallow doses of NRA tonic this week and recording his pulse on economists' fever charts.

Bulletins on the old gentleman's progress have been the big news of the week. They have reported that the patient was beginning to feel a glowing sensation from the tonic, but with occasional twinges in some of his joints.

Administration doctors were able to report by Friday that they believed half the business and industrial workers of the United States were now working under codes designed to make short hours and higher purchasing power.

Sporadic strikes and wrangling over some codes were symptoms which still gave the doctors some concern.

Despite the twinges the front pages this week showed recovery making progress. The steel industry voluntarily withdrew the clause in its code insisting upon "company unions." Retailers were granted a 48-hour week and began drafting a code on that basis. The 14,000 banks signed a code granting short hours and a wage guarantee affecting 750,000 employes. The Government approved public works jobs amounting to $100,000,000.

Meanwhile the NRA drive to increase purchasing power was carried to local fronts. Gen. Hugh Johnson announced that it would be followed by a drive to induce purchases.

Investors proved their faith in Uncle Sam. The Treasury asked to borrow $850,000,000. Investors offered $4,500,000,000, more than five times the amount asked.

President Roosevelt topped his week by announcing an armistice in the most serious of the strikes—that in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, involving some 70,000 workers.

The New York Stock Exchange was "bombed" with tear gar Friday and had to suspend for the day. The exchange already had made news by demanding "the lowdown" on all pool operations and by tightening margin requirements to end irresponsible speculation.

The Chicago Grain Exchange contributed big news to farmers by setting minimum prices. Slumping grains at once turned upward.

The war on kidnaping speeded up. President Roosevelt named Raymond Moley to look into the racket.

The United States awarded contracts for 37 new warships. Japan announced the largest naval budget in its history, about $190,400,000, much of it for building ships.

The muse of history jotted down some other notes this week:

Mahatma Gandhi went back to jail for a year . . . Fiorello Laguardia won the assignment of trying to defeat Tammany's candidate for mayor . . . Denver counted 5,000 homeless after a dam break.

10,000 to Benefit By Wage Increase

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 7 (AP).—Approximately 10,000 Haverhill shoe workers will benefit by pay increases averaging more than 25 per cent as a result of an arbitration award announced today.

The new scale will become effective the first pay roll week after August 12, and, in the meantime, a flat increase of 10 per cent will be effective as of August 1.

The differences over wages arose near the expiration of the old agreement August 1. The workers demanded that the prices paid in 1928 be the basis of any new agreement. The manufacturers demurred, offering, instead, a 10 per cent increase. Both sides finally agreed to arbitrate their differences.

Approximately 150 factories, embracing the entire shoe industry of Haverhill, are involved. The new scale is based on a 40-hour, five-day week, which became uniformly effective in the industry today.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 7 (A.P.).—Interest in cotton goods is increasing slowly, but new business at higher prices is difficult to work through.

Manufacturers are beginning to watch their production more closely and are not disposed to accumulate stocks at this time. Rayon manufacturers are working on their code as submitted to Washington and are doing a fair amount of new business.

Silk goods are moving slowly. The wool industry entered on its NRA code program today and agents are making many new and higher prices. Burlaps opened quiet and unchanged. Carpets and rugs for fall were opened this morning at price advances ranging from 5 to 15 per cent. Many buyers are in the market.

More Stocks Registered in Federal Office

(Associated Press.)

Another batch of stock registration statements were filed with the Federal Trade Commission's securities division yesterday, bringing to approximately $150,800,000 the total issues since the securities publicity act became effective.

The largest registration yesterday was $18,000,000 of common stock by the Spencer Trask Fund, Inc., New York investment company, covering 600,000 shares at $30 a share, of which 212,500 shares represented new stock.

Other registrations included Arizona Comstock Corporation, Virginia City, Nev., and Los Angeles, not more than $250,000 of common stock; Black's Gold Mining Co., Inc., Tacoma, Wash., not more than $250,000 of nonassessable stock; Itep Corporation, New York investment trust, 251,005 shares of preferred stock; Le Roi Cinnabar Mines, Inc., Minneapolis, 100,000 shares class A and 250,000 shares class B stock; Mount Kelso Consolidated Mining Co., Georgetown, Colo., 1,500,000 shares of common stock, and Redemption Gold Corporation, Denver, not more than $250,000 of common capital class B stock.

General Motors Men Receive Pay Increase

New York, Aug., 7 (AP).—The General Motors Corporation today announced a 10 per cent pay increase to salaried employes, effective August 1. The increase, said the company's statement, affects "all salaries as of July 31 effective August 1, of General Motors Corporation employes."

Directors at the same time ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly payment of $1.25 on the $5 preferred stock.

Commodity Index Shows Slight Gain

New York, Aug. 7 (Spl.).—The Daily Weighted Price Index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., from quotations furnished by the United Press, stood at 105.18 on August 3, a very slight increase over the previous day's figure of 105.17, but was 2.3 per cent below one week ago. The latest index, however, is 5.4 per cent above a month ago and 36.9 per cent over the corresponding date a year ago. The decline from the high point of July 18 is 7.3 per cent, while the increase over the low of January 20 last amounts to 54.0 per cent.

Comparing the individual commodities with those of a week ago it is found that 16 were lower, 1 higher and 13 remained unchanged.

Cotton Slumps On Evening Up For Crop Data

December Sells at 10.21 as General Market Drops 14 to 17 Points.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—A further evening up of accounts in preparation for the Government crop report tomorrow was accompanied by sharp fluctuations in cotton here today. Closing prices were off about 70 cents a bale.

After selling off to 10.20 for December, at midday under liquidation, the price rallied to 10.47 on covering and scattered buying, but eased off again under renewed liquidation with that delivery closing at 10.21. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 14 to 17 points.

Initial prices 8 to 13 points lower on additional liquidation and some scattered Southern selling.

First Offerings Absorbed.

Initial offerings were absorbed by covering and some commission house buying, but the demand was supplied on bulges of a few points, and the market worked lower later in the day.

Some of the later months made new lows for the day on the late decline and the close was at, or within, a point of the lowest prices for the day.

Additional private crop reports published here during the day gave indicated yield figures ranging from 10,930,000 up to 11,735,000 bales with allowances for reduction in acreage. According to a canvass New York Cotton Exchange members on the average are expecting a crop of about 10,998,000 bales.

The Liverpool market was closed again today but will reopen for business tomorrow morning.

Port receipts, 13,620. U. S. port stocks, 2,983,333. Exports, 17,713, making 128,339 so far this season.

Private Crop Reports.

During the past few days eight or nine private end-July crop reports have been issued, giving figures on indicated yields with allowances for acreage removal ranging from 10,500,000 up to 11,735,000 bales and averaging slightly above 11,100,000.

The private condition reports have ranged from about 65.2 up to 72.6 per cent, compared with an average official August 1 condition of 67.9 for the ten years, 1922-31, and last year's condition of 65.6. Tomorrow's official crop indication will compare with last year's yield of 13,002,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

According to the New York Cotton Exchange Service, world's consumption of cotton of all growths for the season ended with last month amounted to 24,725,000 bales, or the largest since 1929-30. The world's carryover of all kinds, according to this authority was 15,530,000 bales, against 17,412,000 last year.

Canada Keeps Trade Moving To High Levels

Coming Harvests Expected to Increase Buying in Rural Districts.

New York, Aug. 7 (Spl.).—The principal indices of Canadian trade reached toward higher points this week, and ideal summer weather forced retail merchants to replace many lines of seasonal merchandise, which had been stocked circumspectly during the regular buying period.

This threw more orders on manufacturers and wholesalers who thus have been able to overcome the usual summer lull in their activities. Country districts have been behind the cities in sales developments, but as harvests become marketable the force of the farmers' buying power will become more evident. The improvement in some rural trade areas, however, has been checked by the widespread damage to crops, according to dispatches to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., from branch offices located in the chief commercial and industrial centers of the Dominion.

Rural Retail Buying.

Retail buying has centered mainly around light apparel for men and women, traveling accessories, sport footwear, hosiery, veranda furniture, stationery, groceries and beverages. Wholesale buying has been of fairly generous proportions, and commitments indicate that a shortage of certain merchandise is in prospect and that values now available will not be procurable later.

There has been a marked expansion in nearly all lines of industrial activity, with the largest increase in employment that has taken place in three years. Newsprint mills are shipping more paper, and pulpwood is moving more freely. Furniture manufacturers, with few exceptions, are fairly busy, and the lumber market has been stimulated by an increased demand from Great Britain and the United States.

Silk Yield Maintained.

In many cases mills and logging camps are working two shifts. The production of real and artificial silk has been fully maintained, and manufacturers of other textiles are generally well employed. Shoe factories and tanneries are working close to capacity. Iron and steel mills are operating at a slightly higher rate.

Crop prospects are not encouraging in the Prairie Provinces, as damage from drought has been extensive, particularly in the southern and central areas, while grasshoppers have worked much havoc. Even with good rains, which are needed badly, and favorable weather until harvest, Western Canada is unlikely to produce an average crop.

Private estimates of the Canadian wheat crop now range around 300,000,000 bushels, as compared with a yield of 408,000,000 bushels last year. Butter production in Canada in June increased 3.4 per cent over the total for the same month a year ago, while cumulative production for the six months ended June 30 showed a gain of 1.5 per cent over that for the same period in 1932.

Montreal Area Busy.

A further expansion of the principal business indices took place during the past week. Montreal bank clearings for the week ended July 20 showed an increase of $35,839,672, or 42.07 per cent over figures of the corresponding week last year. Gross traffic receipts of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ended July 21 amounted to $2,293,000, as compared with $2,277,000 in the same week of 1932, an increase of $16,000.

For the Canadian National Railways they were $3,091,591, as compared with $3,049,568, an increase of $42,023. The security price index advanced from 79.0 to 81.1. Revenue freight handled during the week ended July 15 amounted to 39,843 cars, as against 40,469, the week previous, a decrease of 626 cars; as compared with the corresponding week in 1932, however, there was an increase of 2,108 cars.

The federal national revenue department in the district of Montreal reports July receipts to date to being approximately $31,600 ahead of the corresponding period of 1932. This compares with a decrease of $1,844,892 in April, $999,018 in May and $937,445 in June. The value of building permits issued in 61 cities during June was $3,536,000, as against $2,003,000 in May, an increase of $1,533,000, or 76.5 per cent. The largest increase of $1,250,691, or 235 per cent, occurred in the Province of Quebec.

Building Materials Rise.

Building and construction materials, which reached their low price in February, have advanced 5.6 per cent. Life insurance sales in the Province of Quebec for the first six months of 1933 amounted to $54,607,000. For the month of June they totaled $9,579,000.

A prominent silk manufacturing concern reports having made an addition to its plant, which went into operation on August 1. The addition increases productive capacity by 35 per cent. Due to the continued advance in the price of crude oil, it is said by those in a position to know that an increase in the price of gasoline is inevitable. Two full cargoes of grain, approximating 500,000 bushels, left the port of Montreal last week, terminating a period of three weeks during which Montreal lacked a single full grain shipment.

Deliveries by the Montreal Harbor Commission this year now are 23,569,785 bushels lower than at this time last season, the respective figures being 25,110,580 bushels and 48,680,365 bushels, which tends to confirm the views of those in the export shipping trade that the rise in the price of wheat was due to speculation and not to export demand.

Conditions in the fish trade show no improvement. There is virtually no demand for cod, which ranks as the most important in the fishing industry. Sugar, which was recently advanced 10 cents a hundred pounds, holds firm at $6.70. The provincial government's crop report of July 19 estimates the area under vegetable cultivation as 38,599 acres, as compared with 36,905 in 1932, an increase of 4.3 per cent.

Transactions on N. Y. Curb Market

Walter Hampden to Revive Hugo Play—Winning Revue Title Selected

Montreal Gets Classic Drama Before Gotham

"Ruy Blas" to Go on Tour; Judith Anderson Signs for the Movies.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Walter Hampden, who must be ranked with Otis Skinner as one of the American theater's foremost exponents of the finer and more serious forms of drama, has chosen Montreal as the city and Monday, October 2, as the date for the restoration to the stage in this country of one of the most fascinating characters in romantic drama, Ruy Blas, the hero of Victor Hugo's famous play of that name.

This Canadian city with its large percentage of French population, is an especially appropriate place for the premier of this new English version of the masterpiece by France's greatest author.

Short engagements in Toronto, Rochester, Syracuse, Ithaca, Utica and Albany will follow the four performances scheduled for Montreal. "Ruy Blas" then will open in New York City for a strictly limited run on Monday, October 16, and then will be taken by the actor-manager on a general tour of the country.

"Ruy Blas" is the play which brought Edwin Booth and Alexander Salvini into keen rivalry during the early nineties.

The great American actor, although nearing the end of his unparalleled career, met the challenge of the fiery young Italian and despite the difference in their ages and methods, the chronicles of that day declare there was little to choose between their performances as far as theatrical effectiveness is concerned.

To Play Dual Role.

Walter Hampden's portrayal will be another thing again, as styles in acting have changed in the last forty years. In one respect it will be completely different, because Mr. Hampden will play a dual role, impersonating the ribald Don Cesar de Bazan as well as the more decorous and dominant Ruy Blas, something which neither Booth nor Salvini ever did.

This is made possible by the reconstruction and modernization of Hugo's play by Brian Hooker, who is renowned as the adaptor of "Cyrano de Bergerac" for Mr. Hampden.

Having favored the Capital with performances of "The Admirable Crichton," "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Caponsacchi," it is to be hoped that Mr. Hampden will not deem Washington satiated with his art and omit it from his itinerary planned for "Ruy Blas."

Consultant.

Sam H. Harris, noted producer of both dramatic and musical works, has been appointed adviser to the National Recovery Administration during its consideration of the code of fair competition submitted by the legitimate theater industry, it has been announced by E. R. Stettinius, jr., liaison officer between the industrial advisory board and the administration.

Mr. Harris, originally a laundryman and then manager of Terry McGovern, the celebrated fisticuffer, has had a long and intimate association with the New York stage, having produced many of the most successful plays, musical comedies and revues Broadway has ever been privileged to boast.

Mr. Harris, furthermore, has been president of the Producing Managers Association for the past seven years.

Hearings on the legitimate theater code are scheduled to begin August 10 in the caucus room of the old House Office Building.

When this desk was solicited some weeks ago for suggestions as to competent advisers on the code governing the operation of the traditional stage of flesh and blood, Daniel Frohman, dean of American producers and father of the American theater, as at present constituted, and George M. Cohan, best-loved figure in the American theater, were nominated for advisory service. At any rate they selected a former partner of George M. Cohan's, which, perhaps, is close enough!

With Roars of Approval.

Leo, the Lion, famous Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer trade-mark, is now a full-fledged member of the Lions International.

He was formally inducted into membership in that world-wide organization, with due ceremony, during Lions' Day at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. The president of the Lions personally conducted the initiation, exercising every precaution in performing the rites not to get within nipping distance of the candidate for membership.

It is by no means a certainty that Leo differentiates between members of his lodge and anybody else when it comes to eating out of, or off, the hand.

Now that "A Study in Scarlet" has opened at the Columbia, it is possible to go a step farther in our remarks concerning the manner in which some of the boys and girls are doubling on the local screens. Both Alan Mowbray and Reginald Owen, who appear to advantage with George Arliss in "Voltaire," at the Earle, are cast with equal prominence in the Conan Doyle tale of Sherlock Holmes and his adventures with the criminal band occupying the Columbia screen. This makes three concurrent performances by Mr. Mowbray and two for Mr. Owen.

Where's the Pumpkin Coach?

The considerable leap from movie cashier to glorified motion picture beauty was the span negotiated in one jump by a demure and unknown young woman by the name of Iris Shunn.

Miss Shunn relinquished her post at the ticket wicket of Loew's State Theater in Los Angeles, and took her place in Eddie Cantor's chariot in "Roman Scandals," his 1933 musical, being made under the trade-mark of Sam Goldwyn for United Artists release.

Troy Orr, press agent for the theater, was responsible for Miss Shunn's sudden rise to eminence. He sent her to see Mr. Goldwyn. The producer already had the new Cantor picture completely cast and in rehearsal, with the entire enrollment of 100 beauties filled—and then he took one look at Iris. Iris, without argument or palaver, became the 101st Goldwyn girl.

All of which would seem to indicate that when an idea strikes Orr it is not to be Shunned!

Speaking of complete casting, they are rapidly reaching that stage in the preparation of the "All-Washington Revue," to be presented at Loew's Fox Theater the week of August 18.

With Brook Johns decided upon as master of ceremonies and general factotum of the stage revue to be peopled wholly by local artists, and Evelyn Tyler selected as a featured feminine member of the cast, announcement was made last night that Gene Ford has definitely chosen the complete roster of his feminine ensemble.

Those selected for ensemble numbers include Jerry Yates, Lynn Yates, Carol Yates, Frances Kain, Marjorie Mitchell, Betty Johnston, Juliette Johnston, Betty Lou Perron, Louise Robey, Georgia Grisso, Mary Eller, Dorothy Vine Arman Bakshian, Lorraine Flammer, Betty Dyer and Ann Greenberg. These girls are rehearsing every day.

Announcement was also made by Mr. Ford that future rehearsals will be held in the studio of the Joe Brown Theatrical Enterprises at 1210 G street, instead of the Willard Hotel. This change was necessitated by the fact that the dancers must have more room for entrances and exits and for polishing up their numbers.

Virtually the entire cast has been selected by Mr. Ford and Ned McGurn, who is staging the dance numbers. The entire membership of the show will be announced within the next day or so.

The Prize-Winning Name.

"Going Native" has been selected as the official prize-winning title of the Washington production, which heretofore has been known simply as the "All-Washington Revue."

This name, one of hundreds submitted in the prize contest, was suggested by Mrs. Mary E. Schwarz, 1205 Fifteenth street northwest. Mrs. Schwarz will receive the cash award of $10.

Out of the hundreds of titles suggested, "Capital Capers" seemed to have the call, more than 50 contestants submitting this particular name. Mrs. Schwarz was the only one who submitted "Going Native."

The judges were unanimous in their choice of Mrs. Schwarz' title. To them it conveyed not only a sense of gayety, but also the thought that the revue to which it is to be applied will be made up exclusively of Washington talent.

A Proselyte.

Judith Anderson, one of the reigning stars of the New York stage, has been signed to play the leading feminine role opposite George Bancroft in "Blood Money," his first starring picture for the Joseph M. Schenck-Darryl Zanuck Company, Twentieth Century Pictures, released through United Artists.

In obtaining Miss Anderson's signature, Darryl Zanuck disclosed his intention of removing her indefinitely from Broadway, since the contract calls for her exclusive services to Twentieth Century Pictures for an extended term.

Judith Anderson rose to fame as an actress in the New York stage production of "The Dove." She last starred on Broadway in "As You Desire Me," and scored a sensational success.

In signing the actress, Zanuck expressed confidence that she has both the personality and ability to become one of the screen's most striking box office magnets.

Some are born lucky, some achieve luck and some have luck thrust upon them. It is just barely possible that Don Alfonso Zelaya is all three of these. Senor Zelaya, who used to beguile many a vagrant hour for this typewriter 'way back yonder when Stonestreet's had a back room, just happened to be in town this week and so tumbled into a nice engagement at the Earle. One of the acts originally booked into the house for the current seven-day period fell something short of a complete riot at the first show and was suddenly "cancelled on account of illness." Senor Zelaya loafing in the offing was appealed to in a hurry and accepted the nomination the same way!

Yes, thank you, I got that scoreboard out of my hair with practically no trouble at all.

Too bad Mr. Cronin didn't have the same luck with those Yankees.

What So Rare as a Play With June!

The play in this instance happens to be "A Study in Scarlet," which opened at Loew's Columbia yesterday for a week's run, and the June is June Clyde, one of the more sirenic of the cinema's blondes. Miss Clyde is surrounded by a cast of notables in this excellent picturization of one of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's best-known Sherlock Holmes stories.

Columbia.

"A STUDY IN SCARLET." World Wide picturization, based on the story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, featuring Reginald Owen, June Clyde, Anna May Wong and John Warburton. Directed by Edwin L. Marin. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

With the appearance of "A Study in Scarlet" a waiting world was first introduced to a new brand of detective fiction and to Sherlock Holmes. Since then much water has rolled over the literary dam, but Sherlock stands supreme among radiocinators, ever to test not only the mettle of later authors, but also to offer the almost impossible to actors in the delineation of deductive reasoning.

The cinematized version of Sir Arthur's first detective story brings a new Sherlock to the screen in the person of Reginald Owen (who also wrote the dialogue and continuity), a Sherlock who is not sufficiently angular and peaked to fulfill the general requirements of the man William Gillette and Clive Brook have flawlessly portrayed.

Like most of the picturized Sherlock Holmes stories, with the exception of "The Speckled Band," "A Study in Scarlet" is more an association of various Doyle episodes inspired by the novel in question than a strict picturization of that work. Accordingly, then, this picture—a fairly well-spun yarn—suffers more from being "unauthentic" than from any lack of action or interest.

"A Study in Scarlet" originally dealt with crimes associated with a Mormon secret society, but committed in England. A greater portion of the book dealt with the "historical" aspects of the several crimes after the great detective had solved them. The picture, on the other hand, whether wisly or not does not matter much, deals solely with the London aspects, attributing the motivation to stolen Chinese gems and the annihilation of those who might benefit from the booty.

Supporting Mr. Owen are Warburton Gamble, as the ever-present Dr. Watson; Alan Mowbray, as Inspector Lestrade; Anna May Wong, as a Chinese particeps criminis, and June Clyde and John Warburton, for not much more reason than to furnish love interest.

Among the others operating in various capacities, as killers or killed, are Alan Dinehart, Wyndham Standing, Halliwell Hobbes and Cecil Reynolds; with Leila Bennett, Doris Lloyd and Billy Bevan adding what lighter moments there are.

In "Hot Hoofs," Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows," strut their stuff in a horse-racing comedy that has been used many times. But it is still funny to see the black paint washed off the horse as they sell it back to its owner. "Hypnotic Eyes," a TerryToon, continues the exploits of Fanny Zilch and J. Leffingwell Strongheart in endeavoring to evade the ever-pursuing villain. A release of the Paramount News rounds out the bill.

Suspect in Counterfeit Case Ordered to Coast

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—U. S. Commissioner O'Neill today ordered the removal to San Francisco of Zangwill Engelsher, 40, who, authorities said, was indicted there by a Federal grand jury for the alleged possession and passing of 140 $20 counterfeit notes.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley

MEMBERS of the Department of Commerce Credit Union of the District of Columbia find their organization of real worth particularly at present, we learn from officers of the Union.

The Commerce Credit Union was organized under auspices of the National Federation of Federal Employes by the following members of Local No. 2: Edward J. Jutz, Harold E. Keenan, Cyrus T. Bright, Emil E. Schnellbacher, John W. Barrett, Rexford N. Saxton and William P. Wright.

The credit union idea was first brought to attention of the employes organization by Roy F. Bergengren, executive secretary of the Credit Union National Extension Bureau, a bureau endowed and founded by Edward A. Filene, Boston capitalist and philanthropist.

Under date of November 14, 1932, a license was granted to the Commerce Credit Union to operate as such in accordance with the act of June 23, 1932. It is the hope of the officers of the Union that other bodies will be organized by groups within the District of Columbia so that a District Credit Union League may be started within a short time. At the annual meeting January 16, 1933, the following officers and committees were elected for one year:

Exeutive officers—President, Edward J. Jutz; vice president, William P. Wright; treasurer, Harold E. Keenan; clerk, Rexford N. Saxton.

Board of directors—Edward J. Jutz, William P. Wright, John D. Secrest, John W. Barrett, William W. Adams, Harold E. Keenan, Rexford N. Saxton, Emil E. Schnellbacher, R. G. Matthews, Cyrus T. Bright and F. N. Davis.

Credit committee — Wharton Moore, Harry E. Riesberg, William Sanger, S. D. Grove and Thomas J. Lewellyn.

Supervisory committee—Thomas W. Delahanty, Clarence O. Luhn and J. S. Fehr.

The Heartless Wretch.

DURING a session of the "I'm-Going-to-Raise-It" Club (composed of clerks from the Post-office Department, Interior Department and the Department of Justice) even with several electric fans going in the room, still the temperature appeared as if the breeze, if any, came off of the hottest part of the Gulf Stream.

Six members of the club were engaged in a game played with cards where for the pleasure of holding five cards and the privilege of drawing up to five in their place, if you don't like the first lot, and where you pay the price of backing your judgment against that of the other players as to the value of your hand.

Around the table were six people, two of whom were women, and the other four were men and the period of the game was during the reign of Jack Pot. The draw had been made and a sizable pot was being betted for. Bill Hall, who was dealing, was humming that familiar ditty: "I Did Not Raise My Hand to Drop the Pot."

One of the girls known as "Tugboat Annie," because her father at one time was connected with the Shipping Board, inquired if she might be permitted to ask a question.

UPON being assured that it would be o. k., provided she did not ask what cards were being held by the other players, she replied.

Oh, no, she wanted to know if five hearts in a row beat four aces. Well, can you imagine the feeling of three of the other players, one of whom set with royalty in the shape of three kings, attended by a pair of treys, which he had backed heavily; another had the price of four street tokens in the form of three 10s in his talons, and the third held two pair, with aces up.

No reply was made to the question advanced by Annie. Then she said that she just remembered that five hearts held in sequence were considered a complete hand and she raised the other players' bets on the strength of her memory.

There are some cats among women. The other females playing in the game surreptitiously got a look at the cards held by Annie and reported them to be, two spades, two clubs and one diamond, without a pair, and not one heart in the lot.—Willie Homer.

Schenck Sees Quick Adoption Of Films Code

Newark, N. J., Aug. 7 (AP).—Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists and husband of Norma Talmadge, screen and stage actress, arrived here by airplane from Chicago tonight en route to a conference of motion picture executives in New York to draft a code for the film industry.

"We are anticipating no difficulty in compiling the motion picture code," Schenck said. "All of the principal producers and distributors already are agreed upon the maximum hours and minimum wage requirements and the only thing remaining is the adoption of the regulatory standards of ethics for the conduct of the industry. That, however, is highly necessary and of great potential benefit."

Schenck saw also a need for further clarifying the relationship between the major and minor producers for better control of film production.

In answer to a question, he said the Hollywood strike of sound engineers has "virtually run its course and we expect them all to be ready for work by the end of the week."

Post, Theaters Picking Girls For Film Role

Beauties on River Steamer Being Chosen for Trip; Four Selected.

The search for a Washington girl for a featured role in Paramount's "Eight Girls in a Boat" has started.

Yesterday a representative of The Post, Paramount and Loew's Fox Theater selected four Washington girls from Wilson Line boats, that will compete next Monday on the stage of the theater for the honor of going to Hollywood with all expenses paid and a salary of $50 a week.

Here are the four girls: Bettie O'Brien, 1845 Calvert street northwest; Ruth Nash, 609 G street southwest; Doris Wise, 108 Fourth street southeast, and Lillian Herring, 1618 P street northwest.

Each day, four girls will be chosen from the decks of Wilson Line boats. At the end of the contest, which closes next Sunday, all of the contestants will be arranged on the theater stage and one chosen to go to California.

Here is a beauty hunt with no rules, no entrance blanks, and one which will eventually send a local girl to Hollywood. Eight American cities are now conducting similar searches. Each will send a girl for a part in "Eight Girls in a Boat."

The hunt continues today. All you have to do is ride on one of the boats. The talent scouts will be on board, and before the end of the cruise, the lucky girls will be notified.

Tomorrow The Post will publish the pictures of the four girls chosen yesterday. Each day the paper will print details and results of the quest for talent and beauty.

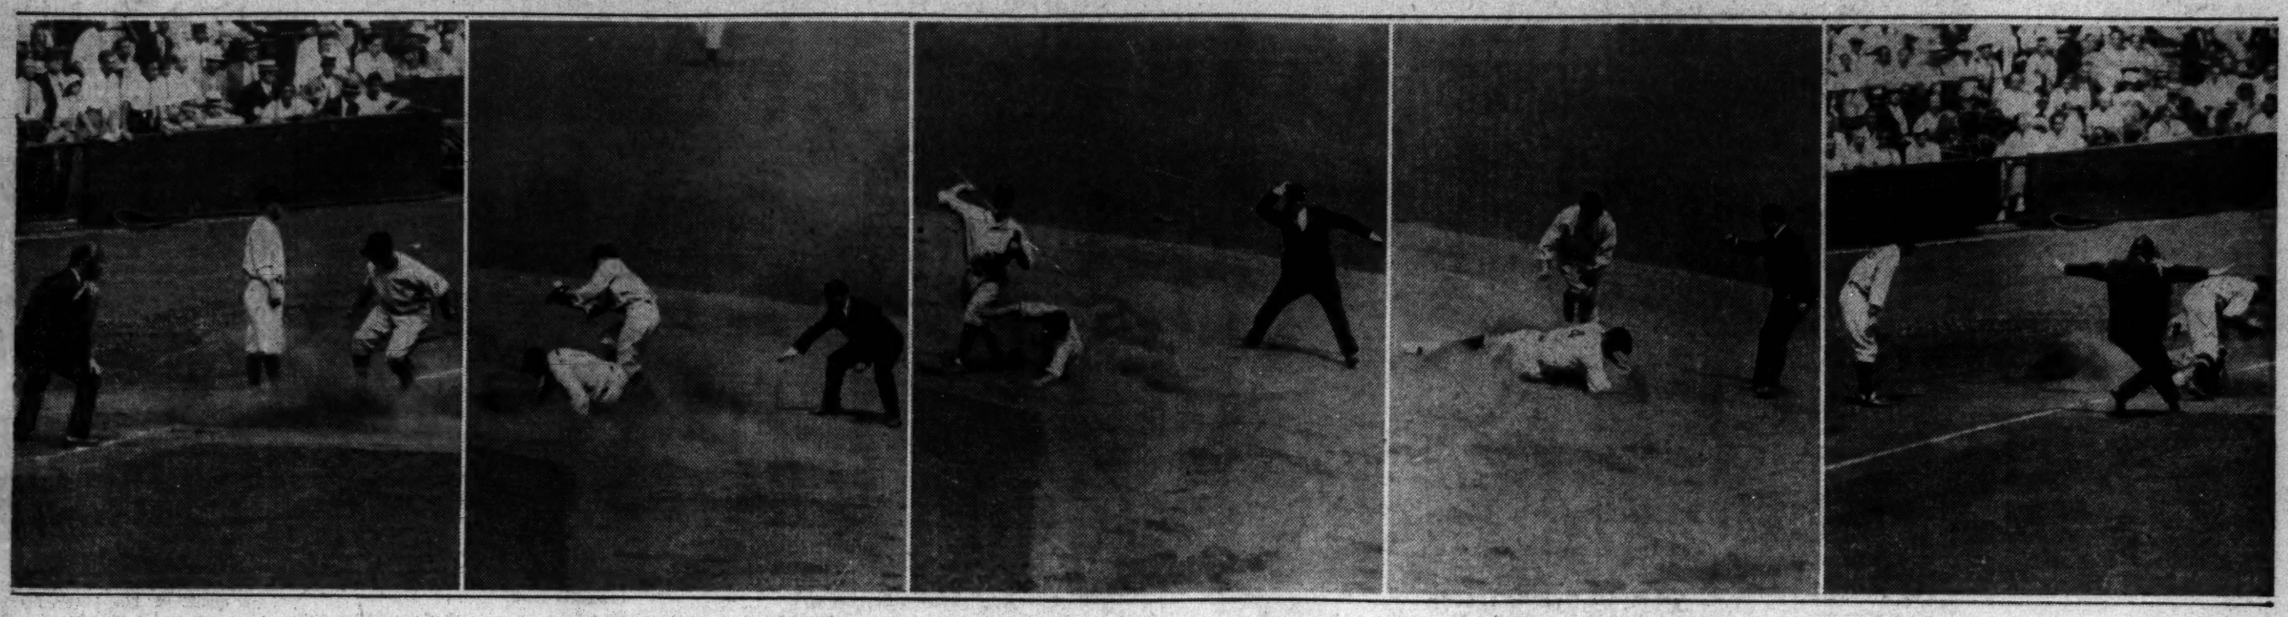
Base Action Aplenty Was Shown in the Yankee Stadium Yesterday as the Nats Took Two Blows on the Chin



Wide World Photos.

With both games ending in the ninth and decided by a single run, and the American League pennant possibly hinging on the results, the players of both clubs were battling for base advances from the start of the first game until the end of the finale, giving the umpires many hair-line decisions to make. Five views of base-runners hitting the dirt are pictured above. In the order named, starting from the left, Buddy Myer is shown sliding safely into third base following a double by Heinie Manush; Earl Combs retains base-life at second, thanks to a high throw by the Nats' first-sacker, Joe Kuhel; Kuhel is nipped at the middle sack as the first victim of a Yankee double play; Lou Gehrig is forced at second on Chapman's infield tap, and Earl Combs is called safe at third following a slide with his spikes flashing.

Nats' League Lead Cut to Single Game as Yankees Capture Pair

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Yankee Stadium, Aug. 7.

AS this is being written the house that Ruth built has disgorged its 45,000 customers, the wreckage of the Nats is being cleared away and there is evidence that I might have been a bit hasty the other day when I all but embalmed the Yankees' pennant hopes.

But I doubt it. Despite their double-barreled delineation at the expense of the Nats today, the Yanks by no means looked unbeatable. Their escape from defeat in that first game was heavily tainted with the essence of horse shoes that guided Chapman's hit safely through Cronin's legs out into center field.

There was shining contrast in the hustle of the Nats and the Yanks today, only Crosetti and Joe Sewell, of the New York cast, were running out infield balls when they weren't hard hit. Ruth, Gehrig, Dickey, Lazzeri and Chapman don't bother about it any more, unless they hit the ball solidly.

Animosity in Evidence.

There were distinct traces of the bitter hatred between the two clubs during that first game, when one really belligerent gesture would have touched off the highly combustible feelings of the players. Sliding into second base on a force play, Gehrig was tagged so emphatically by Cronin that he had several words with the Nats' manager after picking himself up off the ground in the third inning of the first game, and both Cronin and Gehrig are known as peaceable fellows.

The presence of Judge Landis in a field box didn't make any difference to Buddy Myer, either, in the seventh inning, when Lazzeri tagged him on a run-down so forcibly that Myer fell flat on his face into third base. The little second baseman strode over to Lazzeri as if to swing, only to remember it costs $100 per punch in this league.

Cronin Baiting Umpires.

Joe Cronin was baiting the umpires all afternoon and was drawing loud salvos of boos from the New York public. The difference between Cronin in Washington with his vigorous tactics and the Cronin on foreign fields with the same tactics is that at home Cronin is applauded as a fiery, fighting and inspiring leader, while on out-of-town parks he is regarded as a consummate crab.

Luke Sewell protested on a called strike in the first game, and Cronin came all the way to the plate from the dugout to help him protest with the odds 10,000 to 1 that the Nats would never persuade Ormsby to reverse his decision.

The truth of the matter is that Cronin kicks so vigorously not in the hope that hizzoner the umps will reverse his decision but in the hope that the Nats will get the break from the umpire the next time a close decision comes up.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The other day, Cronin censured Coach Al Schacht severely for failing to protest a decision at third base . . . "I didn't want to Leads Entrants Tuning Up for Sectional Trials Today.

Columbia Greens Tricky for Today's Fight for U. S. Amateur Place.

By Dave Herman.

A FIELD of 47 golfers from five States and the District of Columbia will face quite a task in the 36-hole sectional qualifying round for the National amateur championship today at the Columbia Country Club course.

The task ahead of them is the mastering of treacherous greens that have been so singed by the scorching sun of late that the experts are predicting no end of trouble for the sharpshooters who entertain high hopes of landing the 12 places allotted the Middle Atlantic sector by the U. S. G. A.

It all boils down to the fact that the greens are in terrible shape, and in the words of Professional Fred McLeod, "not even a good, stiff rain could put them in condition to warrant true putting."

Columbia Fairways Fast.

The Columbia fairways, some of the finest in the East, are unusually fast, and long-distance swatters will find themselves very much at home.

Several dozen visiting and local golfers applied the finishing touches to their pretournament play yesterday morning, and virtually all were victimized by the wicked greens.

Out of the pack only one man, Roger Peacock, hot favorite from Indian Spring, was able to come anywhere near licking par. The former Duke University captain and present holder of the District, Congressional invitation and Maryland State amateur championships, blazed around in 71, one above par. It was Peacock's second 71 in a practice round. Out in 36, he rallied after taking 3 fives in a row, and played the last 6 holes in two under par for an even par 35.

Harper, McCarthy Card 75s.

Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, Va., the 1932 medalist, could do no better than 75, the same reported by Morton McCarthy, the Norfolk heavyweight, and Maury Nee, the young Columbia star. Harry Pitt, the Manor Moose, took around 79 blows. The two Virginians won a hot match from Nee and Pitt, 2 up.

Billy Howell, Richmond, Va., star and 1931 National Amateur semi-finalist, abstained from any practice yesterday. He spent the afternoon watching others play. Howell is paired with Billy Dettweiler, 15-year-old Manor golfer.

Only one man thus far has withdrawn. He is Tom Somerville, registered out of Wilmington, Del.

Baltimore is sending 11 entries, Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina; five each, and South Carolina, one. Twenty are entered from Washington.

No hot scoring is looked for today. A total of 144 would appear good enough to land the medal. It looks like 154 will win a place.

The first twosome will tee off at 9 o'clock, repeating again at 1 p. m.

579 in All to Tee Off.

New York, Aug. 7 (AP).—A total of 579 amateur golfers, cream of the American crop, will tee off tomorrow on 22 courses from New York to Honolulu in battle for the 165 qualifying places for the national amateur championship at Cincinnati, September 11-16.

Only C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the American title, is exempt from the sectional qualifying play, which is at 36 holes, with qualifying places allotted districts on the basis of entries.

The metropolitan district, with 84

Ace Hudkins Near Death After Row

Los Angeles, Aug. 7 (AP).—X-ray examination late today revealed Ace Hudkins, former pugilist known as "the Nebraska Wildcat," was in a grave condition from two bullet wounds in the chest which he received in a cafe brawl early yesterday.

Dr. P. S. O'Reilly said the injuries had proved to be "much more serious than we thought."

"His life is definitely in danger," the surgeon said.

An operation which was to have been performed to remove a bullet from the pelvis was postponed. The surgeon said the boxer had suffered a relapse. A blood transfusion was ordered.

One of the bullets worked itself free and was removed. The other was deflected downward by a rib into the pelvis.

P. G. A. Golf Under Way Today

Field of 100 Is Out to Take Crown Away From Dutra.

BLUE MOUNT COUNTRY CLUB, Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7 (AP).—Rocked by a revolt that caused withdrawal of several Ryder Cup stars, the 1933 National Professional Golfers Association championship opens over the water-soaked Blue Mont Country Club tomorrow with a field of 100 out to topple Olin Dutra, the towering senor from California, off his throne.

Repercussions of the revolt were evident today as the professional marksmen from all sections of the Nation finished drills midst rain and later under a hot sun.

Three Ryder cup players—Walter Hagen, Craig Wood, and Denny Shute—were definitely out of the tournament. However, after it had been predicted that Gene Sarazen and Paul Runyon would pass up the event, they showed up late in the day for practice rounds. The appearance of the pair stirred up a lot of interest. Tournament officials were tickled at the arrival of Runyon, who had said he would not compete.

Dutra, back on the game that enabled him to spread-eagle a greater starting field last year at St. Paul, and four other Ryder Cup players were ready for action, however, to insure a week of heavy, exciting golf. The other Ryder Cup players, at peace with the P. G. A., were Billie Burke, Ed Dudley, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel, two-time winner of the title. There were other star members of the "old guard" and "freshmen," too, to give Dutra a rousing battle for his crown.

Veterans Are Entered.

Among the veterans were Bobby Cruickshank, Johnny Farrell, Willie Klein, John Golden, Harry Cooper and Abe Espinosa, while the "freshmen" packing a wallop in the pretournament picking, included Johnny Revolta, rising young star from Menominee, Mich.; Jimmy Foulis, of Chicago, winner of the recent St. Paul open, and Ralph Guldahl, of St. Louis, runner-up to Johnny Goodman in the national open at Glenview. The home-town brigade boasted some threats, among them Francis Gallett, who promised to be a keen factor because of his game and his thorough knowledge of one of golf's trickiest courses.

As the field winds up practice today, it was an almost unanimous opinion that blue mound—an expanse of 6,270 yards—would be "taken apart" by the par-shelling field tomorrow.

Although the course is protected by tricky, rolling greens it is one of the shortest championship layouts for the P. G. A. championship and practice rounds, ranging from 67 and upward, indicated low scoring. Par is 35—35—70, and the course record, a 65, shot by Gallett.

Beverly Mason Cards 82 in Asheville Golf

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 7 (AP).—Beverly Mason, jr., of the Chevy Chase Golf Club, Washington, D. C., shot an 82 today in the first 18 holes of the qualifying round of the Biltmore Forest invitation golf tournament.

He was 11 strokes back of the pace-setter, W. D. ("Dub") Fondren, of Augusta, Ga. Alan Smith, of Asheville, defending champion, who is slated to participate in the National Amateur sectional rounds in Washington, D. C., tomorrow, scored a 74.

117.7 M. P. H. Average Recorded by Jenkins

Wendover, Utah, Aug. 7 (AP).—Ab Jenkins, Stalt Lake City racing driver, completed a 24-hour speed trial at 2:29 p. m. (Mountain standard time) today with an official total of 2,825 miles, or an average of 117.7 miles per hour. This is 115 miles farther than Jenkins drove in a similar test a year ago.

He continued his grind around a 10-mile circular track on the Salt Lake beds near here, planning to try for new records for 3,000 miles and 3,100 miles.

Jenkins was driving a 12-cylinder stock car.

Four District Racqueters Advance

Welsh, Shore, Latona and Mrs. Stone Win in U. S. Tourney.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (Spl.).—Bernard "Barney" Welsh, seeded number 5, led the Washington contingent into the third round as play in the eleventh annual National Public Parks Tennis opened at Central Park here today. Welsh scored an easy victory over Franz Bing, of Pelham, N. Y., vanquishing him in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—2.

Frank Shore, another favored District entrant, conquered Arthur Favreau, veteran Springfield, Mass., champion, after four gruelling sets, by the scores of 6—4, 7—5, 3—6, 6—4. Shore, national junior indoor champion in 1929, took the first set easily enough but the 36-year-old Springfield netman staged a sharp rally and it was only after a prolonged duel that Shore prevailed in the second. Favreau captured the next, but Shore's accurate placements decided the issue in the final set.

Anthony Latona was another Washington player to reach the third round. Latona found easy pickings in Richard Lacey, of Rye, N. Y., setting back the latter by the score of 6—0, 6—1, 6—2.

Mrs. Charles P. Stone, of Washington, seeded No. 3, outsteadied Miss Vera Howell, Brooklyn champion, allowing her to take but a single game. Miss Howell displayed a strong drive but her frequent netting of the ball cost her the match, 6—1, 6—0.

The lone Washington casualty occurred when Miss Frances Walker, ranked No. 6, was eliminated by Miss Connie O'Donovan, Detroit, municipal titleholder and unseeded for some unknown reason, by the score of 9—7, 6—4. Miss Walker's chops to the corners were erratic, and the Detroit titleholder, quick to sense her weakness, played a high, steady game, which Miss Walker was unable to match.

Doubles Play Slated.

The doubles play will get under way tomorrow, with the team of Miss Walker and Mrs. Stone entered in the women's division and Shore and Latona and Welsh and O'Neil representing Washington in the doubles.

In the third round singles matches Latona will play Daniel Freedman of New York, Shore will match strokes with William Lurie, of New York, and Welsh will face Leo Gould, of Detroit. Mrs. Stone will cross racquets with Edna Smith, of Cleveland.

Winfree Johnson, of Washington, acting as manager of the team, accompanied the District players on a sightseeing trip through New York tonight.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Aug. 7.—The Old Men of Manhattan, reared on the nourishment of world series spoils, recognized the same pungent aroma of riches that was wafted beneath their nostrils by the gentle ninth-inning breezes this afternoon and they reared up and laid waste the Nats in two ball games.

The poor ol' Yanks, with 45,000 customers urging them on, sent the Nats limping out of Yankee Stadium at twilight with two full games of their once-flourishing three-game lead lopped cleanly away, victims of two ninth-inning surges by the New York club that left the imprints of a 6-5 and a 5-4 defeat on the bold usurpers from Washington. Thus the Yanks, who were given a decent interment only a few days ago by Washington fans and sports scriveners when the Nats were four games in front, are again within whispering distance of the lead, only a game behind.

Two Runs in Ninth.

There is no joy in Washington tonight. The Nats' lead shrunk to two games in the ninth inning of that first battle just as it seemed that Washington would expand its margin to four games again, but the Yanks engulfed the Nats with a two-run rally that transformed a one-run defeat into a one-run victory. Public enemy No. 1 of Washington fans, Ben Chapman, was the perpetrator of that Yankee victory in the first game, assisted (no kidding) by Joe Cronin. It was the ninth, two runners were on base, two were out, the Yankees needed a run to tie and two to win.

Chapman smashed a hot grounder toward Cronin. The ball skipped through a narrow strip of territory bounded on the north by Cronin's glove, on the east by Cronin's left shin, and on the west by Cronin's right shin. It was called a hit, but it might have been called an error. Anyway, it won the ball game for the Yanks when two runners scored.

Myer Comes Through.

The shrinking prices in the Nats' lead was completed for the afternoon by the Yanks in the ninth inning of the second game when the Nats had done nobly to come from behind and tie the score in the ninth on a hit by Buddy Myer. Cronin sent Crowder back to the mound to hold the Yanks at bay in the New York ninth, and they started baying immediately when Dickey rapped a single to center with none out. Kuhel averted further immediate danger when he turned Crosetti's bunt into a force play at second base and Crowder seemed to have escaped when he struck out Pinch Hitter Ruffing. But danger was lurking in the bats of Carl Combs and Joe Sewell. Combs whacked a single over second base to put Crosetti on third, and then the diminutive Sewell pulled a single to right field that scored Crosetti and made matters unanimous for New York for the day.

The pity of the thing is that the Nats couldn't make a 5-1 lead stand up in that first game, despite some excellent relief work by Russell who relieved Crowder in the fourth inning, pulled out of a bad hole in that frame, and then shut the Yanks out for five innings before he was victimized by Chapman's fluke hit in the ninth.

I should have mentioned before, no doubt, but Washington fans can blame the Yankees' victory in that second game on Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth, who unsheathed their home run bats and pounded a ball

Balaski Rides Miss Tulsa in Hawthorne Feature to 6th Win in Seven Starts

Miss Melody Drops Back And Is 2d

Walter D. Pays $7.60 in Handy Victory at Coney Island.

Speedboat, 50-1, Ridden by Gilbert, Scores at Saratoga.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7 (AP).—Miss Tulsa, a 4-year-old daughter of Triuster—Tuscola, running in the colors of Jack Howard, of Lexington, Ky., scored her sixth victory in seven starts today in the fifth event at Hawthorne.

Miss Tulsa jumped into the lead at the start of the 6½ furlongs, but Jockey L. Labaski had to use the whip and boot to withstand the challenge of Stuyvesant Peabody's Miss Melody, which was ridden by Jack Westrope.

Mountain Elk was third. Miss Tulsa's time was 1:18 3-5, and, as the favorite, paid $3.68 in the $2 mutuels.

Walter D. Easy Victor.

Coney Island, Ohio, Aug. 7 (AP).—Opening up a comfortable lead in the early stages, W. Diebold's Walter D. maintained his advantage throughout the three-quarter-mile spin to score a handy victory in the Mount Healthy Purse, feature of this afternoon's off-day card. Six made the issue with Walter D., the lukewarm favorite.

The son of Dress Parade never left the issue in doubt, jumping into a clear lead and making every post a winning one to win by a length over C. C. Van Meter's After Dark. The latter, always closest in pursuit, made a determined bid in the run for home, but Walter D. had enough left to draw clear. Chuck B. was far back in the early running, but closed fast to beat out the tiring Kai-Finn for the show money.

Speedboat Is Winner.

Saratoga Race Track, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 7 (AP).—Several feminine shrieks of joy were heard all over the Spa course this afternoon when the number of the Glen Riddle Farms' Speedboat went up on the placing board as the winner of the test, 7 furlongs feature for 3-year-old fillies, and no wonder, Speedboat was held at 50 to 1 and served as another example that Saratoga is the place for longshots and the progeny of the immortal Man o' War.

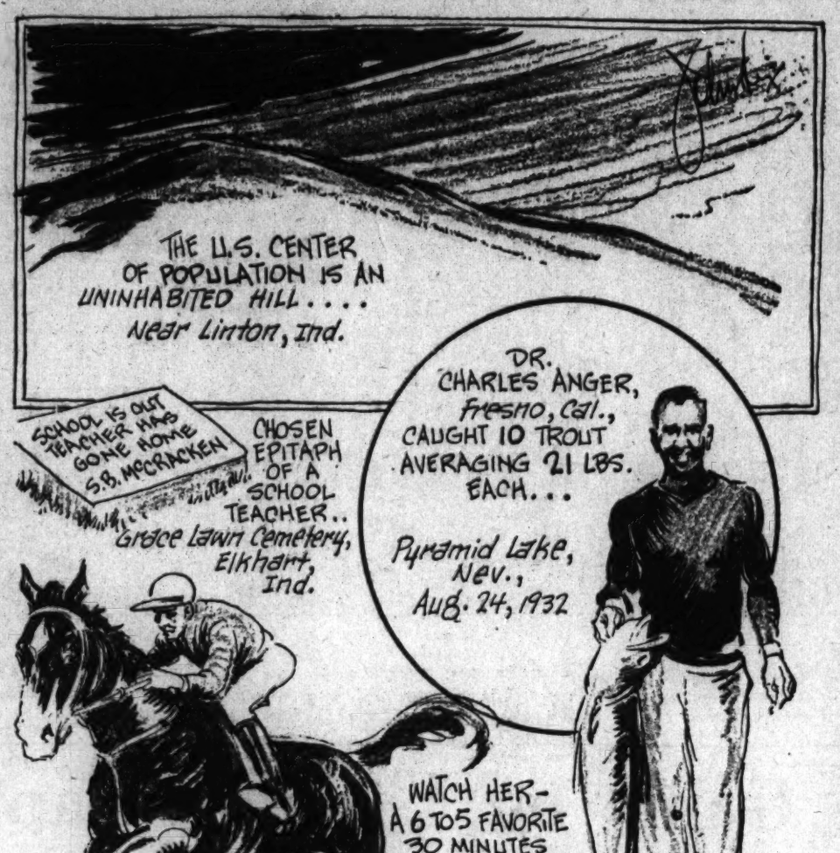
Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



THE center of population of the United States, by the 1930 census, is a point two and nine-tenths miles northeast of Linton, in Greene County, Ind. The immediate site, so far as can be reckoned from the Bureau of Census data, is a spot in the agricultural district of southwestern Indiana, on which there is no human habitation.

Strange as it seems, the center of population is not a point which divides the population equally, the North from the South, or the East from the West. There are many more people living east of the center of population than live west of it. To arrive at the place to be termed the center of population, Census Bureau officials consider the entire Nation as a flat plane and (assuming that all persons are of equal weight) determine the center of gravity of the population—or at what point the country would balance.

This, of course, means that a person 1,000 miles from the center of population counts for as much as 1,000 people living only a mile from it. Any shift of population along the Pacific Coast, for example, would move the center of population much more than the same shift of population would in Indiana.

Watch Her, a 2-year-old, was the favorite up to race time in the Coy Maid Purse, Belmont Park, June, 1933, at 6 to 5, but at the barrier she threw her jockey, ran several miles around the track and over a steeplechase course until she was caught half an hour later and returned to the post. She won the race, but in the meantime odds against her had risen to 150 to 1.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

with Bill Bennings.

Dear Al: Hawthorne Race Track, August 7.

We slipped you Singleman, which was making his first start today. He got home okay, but the come-back money shortened the price. Miss Tulsa, our best bet, got home, too, but that was nothing to brag about. Expect Bill back tomorrow with plenty of fish stories, and here's hoping, winners, too. Yours, MIKE.

First race—Any old guess is as good as another. A poor band of 3-year-old maidens. Monk's Bela, Keen Prince and Keaton are as good as any.

Second race—I am again selecting Cabouse with Westrope up. Durga and General Parth for place and show.

Third race—Grand Prince, Hillsborough and Burning Up may finish in order named.

Fourth race—Just a mediocre lot, all having a chance. Prince Drake will be favorite and may win. Postscript and Trey for place and show.

Fifth race—Royal Blunder likes the mud, but may grab this heat. Monel should defeat the front-running Hope to Do for place.

Sixth race—Snaplock should repeat his last winning effort. Stone Martin is overdue. War may be there.

Seventh race—Here's another of those affairs that half a dozen figure to win. Damascene, Tack and Battling On may get down.

Eighth race—Uncommon Gold will be in front and may last. Don Tasker is the contender, with Capt. Ed for show.

Joe Stecher Shows Mat Wares Here

Old-Timer, in Comeback, to Meet Russell Thursday at Griff Stadium.

Though champions come and go with clock-like precision one grand old man, Joe Stecher, still remains a title menace in his particular profession. The leg scissors king Thursday night semifinals against "Cowboy Jack" Russell at Griffith Stadium. Gino Garbaldi and George Zaharias are to main event it.

Good enough to have dazzled with a Londos draw less than a year ago, Stecher is said by many to possess equally as much potency in his world-famous scissors as he did years ago.

Overlin Gains Decision Over Strickler as Fort Washington Resumes Boxing Cards

Navy Champ Outclasses His Foe

Terminal Bulldog Is on Verge of Collapse in Seventh Round.

Mayes Wins Over Furr; Swetnam in Draw; Clark Winner.

BOXING returned to Fort Washington last night after an absence of one year, and Ken Overlin, celebrated the occasion by pounding out a decisive victory over Billy Strickler in the eight-round feature bout. A slim crowd, held down by the uncertainty of not knowing whether protests of the Maryland Boxing Commission would halt the proceedings, witnessed the fights.

Two good scraps developed in the preliminaries, Johnny Mayes whipping Phil Furr in a six, and Soldier Clark winning the nod over Bill Bullock in a four. Both were lively fights, with action from opening bell to the final punch. Doug Swetnam and Sammy Romano drew in the six-round semiwind-up, and Frankie Mayhew defeated Sailor Sarge on a technical k. o. in the third round of a scheduled four-rounder.

Wins Five Rounds.

Overlin punched Strickler at will, but marred his work by holding when the Terminal Bulldog continued to come in to him. Overlin was credited with winning five rounds, with two for Strickler and one even. Strickler appeared to be muscle-bound and failed to bother the Navy middleweight champ.

Overlin's two-fisted attack in the seventh round had the Washington ringman on the verge of a knockout, but he weathered the storm and came back for more in the eighth.

Clark Is Impressive.

Soldier Clark floored Bullock twice in the third round, each time for counts of nine. Clark fought with his old vigor and was impressive in victory.

Mayes beat Furr to the punches in stopping the Third Corps Area lad. The Fort Myer cavalryman fought a clever battle, jabbing and punching Furr almost at will.

P. G. A. Golf Play Under Way Today

Clarence Hackney, of Atlantic City, toured the course in 34—35—69 today, while Revolta shot a 68 in practice yesterday. Golden and Burke turned in 71s despite a heavy downpour of rain.

Joe Turnesa, of New York, came in later with the prize practice round—a 67. Joe took 36, one over par, on his outward trip, but shelled the course with a 31, four under perfect figures coming back. On the back nine, he had five birdies.

Tomorrow's qualifying round will be over 36 holes after which the 31 low scorers and Dutra open fire for the title over the arduous match-play route of 36 holes a day through the finals Sunday.

Turner Is Secretary Of Marlboro Meeting

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—John Purcell Turner, of this city, who enjoys an international reputation as a turf official, serving with success on American and Canadian courses, was named today as racing secretary of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association's fall meeting, which opens August 29 at Marlboro.

Turner, who spent the summer working as racing secretary, steward, clerk of the scales and placing judge on Canadian tracks, is due in Marlboro shortly to get things shipshape for the second lap of Maryland's fall racing season.

Dorval Track Closing Is Seen as Permanent

Montreal, Aug. 7 (AP).—The Montreal Gazette says the end of the horse racing program at Dorval Saturday probably marked the permanent closing of the track.

The course never has been a paying venture, the Gazette said, and the season just closed was "a dismal failure" financially.

Several offers have been made for the track by real estate men who plan a building development.

Rinaldi After Games.

Rinaldi A. C. wants a game for Sunday. Call either North 1600 or Emerson 5662.

Indianhead Wants Action.

Indianhead juniors want a game with a team that has a diamond Sunday. Call Indianhead 77 after 4 p. m.

Delphites Meet Chesapeake.

The Delphite A. C. and Chesapeake A. C. will meet Saturday at East Ellipse. Delphites want a game for Sunday. Call Columbia 0562.

Ready results await the offers in Post Classified Ads, the first thing in the morning.

Tigers Defeat Tribe and Err Six Times

Vic Sorrell Goes Route; Averill Hits Homer in 6-3 Victory.

DETROIT, Aug. 7 (AP).—Although the Tigers made six errors, four in one inning, they batted out a 6-to-3 victory over Cleveland today in the finale of a series that went to Detroit, four games to one.

Vic Sorrell went the route for Detroit and was in trouble only in the eighth when Oulliber singled, Burnett was safe on Davis' error and Averill cracked out a home run, driving in all the Cleveland runs. There were three other Tiger bobbles in that inning, but they did not figure in the scoring.

Five Runs in Fourth.

A five-run attack in the fourth gave the Tigers all the runs they needed to win. Detroit batted around in that frame, getting five hits and a walk. Mel Harder lasted out that assault, but gave way to a pinch batter in the fifth and Clint Brown finished.

Five Double Plays Help Browns Nip Chisox, 6-0

St. Louis, Aug. 7 (AP).—Rolland "Lena" Stiles, with the aid of five double plays by his companions, shut out the Chicago White Sox here today, 6 to 0, and took the four-game series from the Sox, 3 to 1.

It was the first series victory by the Browns since Rogers Hornsby took the helm of the club.

Whitlow Wyatt, who started for the White Sox, pitched sterling ball for three innings. In the fourth the Browns got five safeties, which were good for five runs.

Gets Homer and Triple After Being Feted by Mack Fans.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7 (AP).—Bucky Walters, Philadelphia boy with the Boston Red Sox, made his debut before his home folks today and led the Sox to an 8-to-5 victory over the Athletics.

Presented with a chest of silver and a cup before the game, Walters hit a home run with one on base in the second inning and in the sixth broke up a 4-4 tie by tripling with the bases filled. Dusty Cooke clubbed two doubles and a triple. Bob Johnson and Dib Williams both hit for the circuit.

D. C. Printers Defeat Cincinnati Nine, 4-2

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—Washington, defending champion in the Union Printers base ball league for nine of the past eleven years, came through the second round of the Union Printers international base ball league with a 4 to 2 victory over Cincinnati today.

The defending champions scored three unearned runs in the seventh and one more tally in the ninth to win, checking a Cincinnati rally after two runs had been scored in the final inning.

Heany, Washington pitcher, was in good form, yielding only seven hits to nine for Goettke, opposing moundsman, but Cincinnati errors helped his cause.

entered, heads the list and has 22 qualifying places to fill, closely followed by Chicago with 74 entries and 19 places.

Johnny Goodman, finalist against Somerville last year, will match strokes with 19 other players at Omaha for one of five qualifying places. Francis Ouimet, 1931 title holder, will take his bid among the 39 players competing for the 10 places at West Newton, Mass.

Two Virginias to Open Golf Tourney Aug. 14

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 7 (Spl.). Officers announce that the annual senior golf tournament of the two Virginias will be held August 14-16 on the "Old White" course at White Sulphur Springs, this State.

The first two days will be devoted to medal play to determine the individual champion. On the last day there will be a team match between Virginia and West Virginia seniors. J. Marshall Hawkins, of Huntington, is captain of the West Virginia team, while W. S. Battle, jr., of Roanoke, Va., will head the Virginians, who have been victorious for three consecutive years. Driving, approaching and putting contests also will be held.

Dr. N. L. Rea, of Charlottesville, Va., is the defending champion. He also won the title in 1930.

Hook, Line and Sinker

By Jean Monk.

"RODDY" THOMAS, maker and breaker of local horseshoe pitchers, and Joe Turner, rasslin' promoter, ran away with the gold shark-took last week, given by this column for the best fishing story.

Thomas says he and Joe, and maybe several others, boarded Joe's cabin cruiser, Wristlock, and faring out of Herring Bay Tuesday night, they crossed to Sharps Island or somewhere and fished or something.

About midnight the waves began to roll, and the boat began to roll, and—and—the fz-fizsch weren't bitin' or hookin' or anything—on top—so the fishermen went under or over—or somewhere—to find the fish. And Joe got a sch-plizz on—on—a sc-hee-nettle, or a sc-hee-nettle got a pear-shug on Joe or—well, anyway, they weren't the ones that threw all those dead fish overboard at Herring Bay.

Criticism Ill-Advised.

Criticism of Capts. George North and Saul Phillips at Governor Run (Kenwood Beach), released in a local fishing column, was ill-advised. The gooses is just across the channel and, following announcements in this column of extraordinary catches being made there more than a months ago, hundreds of fishermen made a run on the place.

The crowds had to be crammed in, jammed in, slammed in. Good sportsmanship and good fishermanship can always get along on the same ship. Striking these captains below the belt, in this manner, may have sent a few parties to another beach; but it's a sorry method—the practice of trying to build up one man by breaking down another.

Fishing conditions in salt water just now seem to be undergoing a brief period of suspension—like the momentary silence which follows shifting from intermediate to high gear.

Falls Into Coma.

An occasional rockfish is being caught at Point Lookout and vicinity, the alleged big catches of supersize rockfish off Tall Timbers have dropped to average-size fish; trout are appearing cautiously at points up the bay; average success follows trolling adventures here and there, and, according to Edwin Pitts, who spends his week-ends on Cobb Island, that section has fallen once more into a coma.

Hooped Island (across the channel from Solomons), the meantime, persists in coming to the front. Last Friday at 6 p. m. Jack Muhally, Al Hall, M. B. Humphreys and three others, all connected with the construction of the new Department of Justice Building, left Brooms Island, piloted by Capt. Perry Elliott, sailed out of the Patuxent River at Solomons, and anchored in 150 feet of water near Hooper Island.

Add About 100 Fish.

While in this depth of water they caught 25 or more of the largest croakers, but the catches were slow and they returned to a more reasonable depth, near Solomons. There they added about 100 fish, medium-size hardhead and nine trout, the largest a four-pounder. They returned to Brooms for breakfast.

A letter from Capt. Brady R. McKay, received last week, states of fishing conditions at Point No Point and Point Lookout:

"Fishing is good. Plenty of hardheads and trout. Last Monday Mr Ryan, of Upper Marlboro, with three others, caught over 100 trout and lots of hardheads. Judge Oscar E. Bland, of Washington, with L. C. Dyer, of Scotland Beach, caught over 100 hardheads and 50 trout on Friday afternoon.

"Saturday night Mr. C. E. Rabbitt, Thomas F. Jones, S. S. Ball and T. M. Mileo caught over 500 pounds of hardheads and some nice trout. These were all fishing with me."

Cards Win Both.

The Cardinals won both ends of a double-header with the Wheaton A. C. on the latter's diamond yesterday. A home run by Charlie Dingler in the eighth inning of the first game and four hits from the bat of Hal Kiesel, featured the games. The Cards are anxious to meet the St. Mary's Celtics and would like the manager of that club to call Vincent Lester at Adams 7147.

Gilbert Hunt Wins In Jr. Title Net Play

Culver, Ind., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—Gilbert Hunt, of Washington, D. C., advanced to the third round of the national junior tennis championship here today. He drew a bye in his first-round match, and won his second with ease.

Hunt is the only D. C. entry in the tournament.

International Pro Competition Like Davis Cup Play Looming

Vines, Cochet, Crawford and Perry Reputedly Might Join Tilden in Fold; Wouldn't Be a Bad Idea, Californian Declares.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7 (AP).—Tennis circles today were discussing with skepticism a report that the four leading tennis players of the United States, France, Australia and England might turn professional and inaugurate international competition to rival the Davis Cup play of the amateurs.

Both the World-Telegram and the Evening Post carried stories that Ellsworth Vines, jr., Henri Cochet, Jack Crawford and Frederick J. Perry might join Big Bill Tilden in the professional fold, the plan being conditional on Vines' successful defense of his American title against the other three. Both papers quoted an unnamed tennis authority "well qualified to speak on the subject."

Vines, denying he knew anything of the ambitious plan, admitted it wouldn't be a "bad idea" and said he knew Cochet was again considering a professional career. It was said the matter had been discussed with Vines and Cochet.

It is known that Vines has considered "cashing in" on his tennis fame. The Californian admitted, on his return from Paris recently, that he would seriously consider an offer of $50,000, but tennis officials considered it highly improbable Perry and Crawford could be lured into the professional ranks. Cochet, past his prime, recently accepted a job selling wine to thirsty Americans.

Perry, hero of the British Davis Cup victory over France, is only 24 and at the height of his game and popularity, while Crawford, holder of the Australian, French and Wimbledon titles, is an idol in his own country. Both have many good years of tennis ahead of them, as has Vines.

4,000 at Close Of Waynesboro Union Revival

City-Wide Effort of 10 Local Churches Lasted Three Weeks.

Waynesboro, Va., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—A city-wide revival sponsored by ten churches here during the past three weeks closed last night with Carey Barker, Lynchburg evangelist, addressing an audience of 4,000 persons. The services have been held nightly in a huge canvas tent on the Fishburne Military School campus and the bleachers used for the school athletic contests have been used to augment the wooden benches within the tent.

More than 300 new candidates for membership have been reported by the churches participating. During the revival local motion picture houses played to the smallest audiences in their history and several traveling tent shows took down their posters and canceled bookings to show here. All other amusements operating at night report a similar falling off. Special police officers had to be added to handle traffic before and after each service.

Preceding a men's meeting Sunday afternoon, which attracted more than a thousand men from all sections of the county, a parade of the organized men's Sunday school classes was held through the streets, headed by the municipal band. Prayer meetings were held during the past few weeks in practically every business establishment in the city and in homes daily on every street.

Mr. Barker was assisted in the services by W. P. Martin, choir leader, of Birmingham, Ala., and the Rev. Alvin Cook, of Shenandoah (Pa.) First Baptist Church, pianist.

Burial in Kentucky.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 7 (Spl.).—The body of Mrs. Mary W. Allen, 87, widow of D. H. Henderson, who died Saturday night at her home on Linden street, has been taken to Louisville, Ky., for burial. Two daughters, Mrs. William Megginson and Mrs. George Rhodes, live here.

AUCTION SALES

TUESDAY, AUGUST 29, 1933—
THOS. J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers.

Trustee's sale of valuable improved real estate consisting of a five story and basement stone and brick apartment building containing 78 apartments, facing on Harvard Street at the corner of Mount Pleasant Street Northwest, Washington, D. C., known as "The Embassy."

Whereas, default having been made in the payment of the semiannual interest on the debt secured on the hereinafter-described land and premises by a certain deed of trust bearing date May 1, 1924, and recorded May 9, 1924, in liber 5213, folio 305, of the land records of the District of Columbia, and also in the payment of taxes, and at the written request of the holder of the bonds secured by the said deed of trust, the undersigned, the trustee named in said deed of trust, will offer for sale, under the provisions thereof at public auction in front of the premises, at THREE O'CLOCK P. M., on TUESDAY, the TWENTY-NINTH DAY OF AUGUST, 1933, the following described land and premises, situate, lying and being in the County of Washington, in said District of Columbia, namely: Part of the tract of land called "Mount Pleasant," being a portion of the land conveyed to David G. Swaim, by deed recorded in liber 981 folio 470 of the Land Records of the District of Columbia, described as follows: Beginning for the same at the intersection of the western line of Mount Pleasant street with the northerly line of Harvard street, as said Harvard street was condemned and opened by proceedings in District Court Case No. 9170 in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and running thence along the said north line of said Harvard street, south seventy-two (72) degrees thirty-nine (39) minutes west, sixty-five and eight-e ght hundredths (65.88) feet to a peg; thence on the arc of a circle, deflecting to the right whose radius is two hundred and forty-five (245) feet, a distance of one hundred and fifty-seven and eighty-two hundredths (157.82) feet to a peg at point of reversed curve; thence still with said north line of Harvard street, on the arc of a circle deflecting to the left, whose radius is nine hundred and forty-five (945) feet, a distance of twenty-five and sixty-nine hundredths (25.69) feet to the southeasterly corner of the land conveyed by John G. Wolfe by Mary B. Swaim Thompson, by deed dated April 27, 1921, and recorded in liber 4516, folio 411, of said land records; thence along the said Wolfe's east line, one hundred and twenty-one and forty-six hundredths (121.46) feet to an alley; thence on said alley, south eighty-six (86) degrees fifty-one (51) minutes east, two hundred and four and seventeen hundredths (204.17) feet to the said west line of Mount Pleasant street; thence on said west line, south seventeen (17) degrees twelve (12) minutes east, to the nudle; and six and fifty-two hundredths (106.52) feet to the place of beginning. At the date hereof, the above described land is designated on the books of the Assessor of the District of Columbia for taxation purposes, as lot 808 in square 2591. Together with all buildings and improvements of every kind and description which have been erected or placed thereon, including all gas, steam, boilers, dynamos, heating and lighting apparatus, refrigerating plant, and also all, each and every of the permanent or immovable interior improvements and fixtures of every kind and description in or upon said premises, or used in connection therewith, together with all and singular the ways, easements, rights, privileges and appurtenances and hereditaments to the said premises belonging or in any wise appertaining.

TERMS OF SALE: One-third of the purchase price in cash, of which a deposit of $15,000 must be made with the trustee at time of sale, and the balance in equal notes of the purchaser, payable in one and two years after date of sale, with interest at the rate of six per centum (6%) payable semi-annually and semi-annually, secured by deed of trust on the property sold, or all cash, at the option of the purchaser. The terms of the sale to be complied with within fifteen days from date of sale, in default of which the property will be resold, at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser, after five days readvertisement in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C., all conveyancing, title examination, recording and revenue stamps to be at the expense of the purchaser. UNION TRUST CO. OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, Trustee. By GEORGE E. U. S. to Spend $171,683 Here On Arboretum

Land-Purchase Funds Are Given to Buy 500 Acres for Project.

President Roosevelt has come to the aid of the National Arboretum to be established here and has signed an order setting aside $171,683 for the purchase of the rest of the needed land, The Post learned last night.

The money will be taken from the public works fund, under authority of the Civilian Conservation Act. Part of the work to be done will be in tree-breeding, which brings the project into the scope of the Conservation Act.

The arboretum will be established along the Anacostia River. The river forms the eastern boundary of the tract. The Pennsylvania railroad tracks bound the north, while Bladensburg road will lie along the west of the arboretum.

There will be between 400 and 500 acres when the purchases are completed. Less than half of this land has been bought already. The tract will comprise about all of the Mount Hamilton section, which lies across Bladensburg road from Mount Olivet.

No appropriation has been made for buildings on the arboretum grounds. The Public Works Administration has been asked for funds to start cleaning up the ground purchased. This clean-up program, which will employ mostly manuel labor, can be started a few weeks after the money is made available.

The arboretum will form a living museum of all trees in the United States which can live in this climate. A nursery for ornamental stock also will be established, to provide new decorative trees which can grow here. The tree-breeding experiments will be carried on with the Forest Service. It has been found that hybrid trees grow more quickly than ordinary ones. For this reason, the Forest Service is anxious to have a supply of hybrids for reforestation purposes.

Man Knifed; Hunt Jealous Husband

F Street Crowds Thrown Into Panic by Attack at Theater.

Mid-day crowds on F street were thrown into a mild panic yesterday when Gus Georges, 30, of 412 Twentieth street northwest, was stabbed in front of the Fox Theater by a man who, police said, was a jealous husband.

Georges was about to enter the theater with a young woman when he was stabbed several times in the abdomen. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where his condition was said not to be serious.

Police were looking for a man whom Georges named as his assailant. The suspect is said to be the husband of Georges' companion, who disappeared after the stabbing.

100 in Health Camp Feted by Kiwanians

Fifty children of the Tuberculosis Health Camp and 100 adults were guests of the Kiwanis Club at an entertainment in Tuberculosis Hospital last night.

On the program were Miss Dorothy Reddish, William F. Raymond, Clyde Melville, George A. Small and Fred A. Schutz. Refreshments were served by Ford Young. Guests included Miss Olive Ward, camp superintendent; Mrs. Agnes H. Stewart, hospital staff, and Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, executive secretary of the association. A similar entertainment will be given next Monday.

Gen. Lee's Civil War Mansion, at Arlington, Is Placed in Charge of Interior Department

War Office Loses Authority for First Time Since Civil War.

By Helen K. Essary.

One of the famous homesteads in America is about to acquire a new ownership.

The Lee Mansion at Arlington, the home of Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Lee, until the Civil War, will become Wednesday the special charge of the Department of the Interior.

Arlington Cemetery remains within the jurisdiction of the War Department.

The War Department has been the custodian of the mansion since 1861. Tomorrow afternoon Col. Charles G. Mortimer, of the Quartermaster's Corps, will hand over the keys to the National Parks, Buildings and Reservations office in the Department of the Interior.

This office, a merger of several offices, was created recently by Executive order of President Roosevelt.

The administration has been moving recently many national military parks, cemeteries, battlefields and memorials from the War Department to the Interior, to become part of the Interior's general historical park program. This transfer has placed Arlington Mansion under control of the Department of the Interior.

Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, announced yesteray that little change will be made in the direction of the Arlington house. The work of restoration and refurnishing, which has progressed under the War Department supervision, will be continued.

Additional furniture perhaps will be acquired, original pieces to make even more authentic the atmosphere of the house. Although the interior is charming and the mahogany and china and silver are exquisite examples of the taste of the period, very few pieces there now ever belonged to Arlington. One of the glories of the day of Gen. Lee was the collection of family portraits. Most of the original Arlington furniture came from Mount Vernon. At the outbreak of the Civil War these treasures were scattered. However, many are now in possession of Lee descendants. Some of the portraits are at Washington and Lee University at Lexington. Many pieces are at Mount Vernon.

Secretary Ickes is enthusiastic about the historical value of his department's new acquisition. He hopes patriotic societies and individuals throughout the country will assist him in continuing work of restoration.

As far as possible, without disturbing the graves and monuments, the mansion garden will be returned to its old appearance.

Guides to be Instituted.

One of the immediate improvements to be made at Arlington will be the introduction there of guides recruited from the National Park Service. The history of Arlington will be explained.

The control of Arlington will be a sympathetic undertaking for any director with sentiment and a sense of beauty. It is not only a fine old house with one of the most thrilling views, but it is intimately associated with the Civil War. Verue E. Chatelain, chief historian of the National Park Service, will undertake to compile its historic story.

Important figures in American history created Arlington. Its traditions go back to 1669 from Gov. Sir William Berkeley through the Alexanders, in whose honor the little town of Belhaven was changed to Alexandria, to the Washingtons who had a finger in every early American undertaking. George Washington Parke Custis, adopted son of George Washington and one of the executors of his will, began the mansion in 1804.

Born Near Marlboro, Md.

"Washington" Custis, as he was called, was born at the Dower House near Marlboro, Md., built by the Lords Baltimore. His father was wild young "Jackie" Custis and his mother was Eleanor Calvert, granddaughter of the fifth Lord Baltimore.

While Arlington was being built, "Washington" Custis occupied a small house built by the Alexanders terminus of the Memorial Bridge. Mr. Custis entertained Lafayette at Arlington and on the schooner yacht which he kept on the river at the foot of his garden. Intensely interested in ancient history he built Arlington House in the style of the Temple of Paestum at Rome. Its classic entrance portico and the eight huge pillars supporting a simple pediment now national landmarks in their setting of trees above the river. They form the end of the marvelous vista across the river from the Lincoln Memorial.

Daughter Wed to Lieut. R. E. Lee.

At the age of 23 Washington Custis married the 16-year-old daughter of Col. William Fitzhugh. Their daughter, Mary Custis, was married to Robert E. Lee, a young lieutenant in the United States Army, who became at the death of his father-in-law the master of Arlington.

Gen. Lee wrote his resignation from the United States Army in the library of the mansion in 1861. Solemnly he rode away never to return when Arlington was at its loveliest, in May, 1861, with the jasmine and magnolia in bloom and went to Richmond to become commander in chief of the Confederate Army.

After the battle of Bull Run Gen. McDowell occupied the house and later Gen. McClellan reorganized the Union Army there. Mrs. Lee had left for Ravensworth, a few miles away. The Government occupation was intended to be only temporary, but by force of circumstacnes it has become permanent and no Lee has lived there since Mrs. Lee left.

A Federal commissioner sold the estate at auction for a tax delinquency. A relative of Gen. Lee's offered to pay the levy and costs, but his offer was refused.

After 22 years of occupation the Secretary of War, Robert T. Lincoln, paid George Washington Custis Lee, one of Gen. Lee's sons, $150,000 for the estate.

Before the Civil War had ended the estate had become a military graveyard. Except for the great yellow house and its smaller houses nearby, it has so remained ever since.

Once Much Neglected.

At one time just after the war, Arlington was tragically neglected. Part of its acres was set apart in a tract called Arlington Village, one of the many outlets throughout the country for the freed slaves, who were then overflowing the Capital. Arlington Village, like many other similar places, was soon abandoned. It was too difficult to control, within any prescribed area, the newly emancipated Negro population.

Although the use of the estate as a cemetery has changed its appearance, its lovely woods and hills sloping down to the Potomac are much the same as they were in the happy days before the Civil War.

At one end of the mansion is a beautiful weeping willow. Tradition declares it was grown from a sprout brought to America, in 1775, from the villa, at Twickenham, of Alexander Pope, the poet, by a young English army officer who met "Jackie" Custis, then Gen. Washington's aid in the Revolutionary Army.

The Arlington willow is said to be the parent of all similar willows in America, just as Pope's was in England. The species originally came from the Far East.

Guides to Be Introduced to Explain Features in Mansion.

Officials Admit Lorton Losses In Private Fund

$500 Not Accounted for as Inquiry Goes on; No One Arrested.

Confirming rumors circulated for several weeks, District officials yesterday admitted that a check-up of accounts at the District Reformatory in Lorton had revealed a shortage in private funds. So far the shortage is less than $500, but the inquiry has not been completed.

The shortage, which was discovered by Paul Kirby, assistant director of welfare, and George A. Kidwell, District accountant, is in the fund belonging to inmates of the reformatory or contributed for their recreation. The fund was operated through direct supervision of A. C. Tawse, who recently resigned under fire as superintendent of the prison.

Whether any criminal action will result from the finding is conjectural. Officials said yesterday no arrests had been ordered, but declined to predict whether any present or former employe or official of the reformatory may become involved.

Kirby said several days would be required to complete the inquiry. The findings will be submitted through Auditor Daniel J. Donovan and George S. Wilson, director of welfare, to the District Commissioners for action.

The auditor's office is establishing a new system of accounting to govern the canteen and welfare funds, which are used to finance athletic programs and buy cigarettes and the like for prisoners.

Raiders Wreck Barroom, but Find No Liquor

Lone Tenant Is Nabbed in Connecticut Avenue Rendezvous.

The bar was there, the bottles were there, but the police liquor squad found the cupboard was bare when they raided a purported speakeasy at 1223 Connecticut avenue last night.

One man was there, one Patrick O'Malley, 26. He was taken in custody. Then the axes began to swing. Crash! An expensive mirror was shattered.

Bottles, squat, ugly bottles, tall, slim bottles, mysterious bottles, all empty, were rendered into glassy confetti.

The attack had been made from the rear, by way of a fire escape. Two of the squad of a dozen lurked in front of the building, the swanky traffic passing by oblivious of events.

Two tall, frosted mint juleps were the cause of the raid, it was said. Two dry agents visited the establishment several days ago, said the liquor raiders.

A warrant sworn out by the men alleged the juleps contained rye whisky. O'Malley was booked on a charge of selling liquor and maintaining a nuisance. He declared the place had been closed a week. Bond was arranged for O'Malley by Milton Kronheim, a bondsman.

$100,000 Balm Asked In Auto Accident Suits

Two suits asking $100,000 damages were filed against Lansburgh & Bro. yesterday in District Supreme Court by 4-year-old Annie M. Naylor and her father, Cecil Naylor, 1706 West Virginia avenue southeast.

The child charged in her suit for $80,000 that she was knocked down by the defendants' delivery truck near her home last May 22 and received a fractured left foot. The father asked $20,000 damages for medical expenses and time lost from work occasioned by his daughter's injuries.

Three Men Held Here After Gambling Raid

Three men were arrested by police in a gambling raid at 907 Ninth northwest last night. They were Edward C. Epps, 715 H street northwest; Doros C. Hudson, 1440 Rhode Island avenue northwest, and Hal Thomas, 1644 New Jersey avenue northwest. All were charged with permitting gaming.

Epps and Hudson were released on $500 bond. Thomas was held.

Father Asks $10,000 In Death of Son, 12

W. T. Chapelle, Sr., Says D. C. Health Officials Were Negligent.

Charging negligent treatment by the District Health Department brought about the death of his 12-year-old son, William T. Chappelle, sr., 2008 Second street northwest, as administrator of the boy's estate, entered suit for $10,000 damages yesterday in District Supreme Court against the District.

The suit recited the boy was committed to the Industrial Home School as an incorrigible by the Juvenile Court on June 20, 1932.

Claiming the boy was not in ill health and without consent of his parents, the suit further charged District officials removed him to a Health Department clinic on the following August 1, where an "arsenious solution" was injected.

The boy died a few days later in Gallinger Hospital, the suit alleged, as the result of the injection.

Grant Sails Tomorrow From Europe to U. S.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, who has been traveling in Europe since he was relieved as director of public buildings and grounds, will sail for the United States tomorrow. He is expected to report for duty at the Army War College on August 16.

Absorption of the buildings and parks office by the Interior Department, which goes into effect Thursday, necessitated the reassignment of Director Woodruff after he had served only a few months.

"Bomb" Proves Only a Cigarette Case

Package Upsets Bomb-Minded Court Clerks

They Shake and Douse It and Then Find a Cigarette Case.

All is not gold that glitters, nor is ever package that ticks when you shake it a bomb, a couple of clerks in District Superior Court discovered yesterday.

Bright and early to work were A. G. Buhrman and Charles F. Coflin, assistants to Clerk Frank E. Cunningham, now on vacation. They passed the postman with a smile, for he winked and, pointing over his shoulder, said, "there's a package for you."

Buhrman hurried to his desk, where he found a small, box-like bundle, addressed, "A present to the Clerk of the District Superior Court, Washington City."

So What?

"Now what," asked Buhrman of Coflin," do your suppose this is?"

"Where's it from?" asked his associate.

"Chicago."

"Shake it," suggested Coflin. Buhrman did and the strange package gave out some very ominous metallic clicks.

"A bomb!" they exclaimed.

Several clerks who had gathered about cleared away. When Buhrman announced he was taking the bundle to a police station they seemed very glad of it.

Down the steps of the courthouse went Buhrman, across Louisiana avenue, into police headquarters and up to the second floor to Lieut. John A. Fowler, ballistics expert.

So They Open It.

"Good morning," smiled the clerk, "I think I've got a bomb."

If Fowler started, no one noticed it. He calmly took the package and, after dropping it into a pail of water, opened it. The wet paper wrapping disclosed a metal cigarette box.

"Wait," said Buhrman, "what's that on the top?"

"A picture of George Washington," replied the lieutenant.

The bomb scare was over, but the mystery lingers on, for the clerks don't know who sent it or why.

Boy's Wrist Broken by Auto.

Frank X. Hines, 9, 638 Tenth street northwest, was taken to Casualty Hospital yesterday with a fractured wrist, after running in the path of an automobile in front of his home. The driver of the car was not held.

Harmonizes

Arts Commission Agrees to Building Attuned to Bridgehead.

Plans for a two-story store building on the northwest corner of Connecticut avenue and Calvert street have been approved by the Fine Arts Commission, H. P. Caemmerer, secretary, said yesterday.

The design of the building is in harmony with the proposed bridgehead for the Taft Bridge and the new Calvert Street Bridge, Caemmerer pointed out. The building, to be constructed of limestone, will have several stores on the first floor and apartments upstairs.

The plan approved by the commission was the second submitted. The first was returned to the architects to be modified in conformity with recommendations simplifying the design.

Automobile Looted.

Joseph Robey, 1238 Wisconsin avenue, reported to police last night that an overcoat and flashlight valued at $19 had been taken from his automobile.

District Board To Push Drive For Recovery

Trade Body Heads Take Lead; Littlepage Heads "Army."

A District recovery board of the NRA will be set up to supplement the work of the local volunteer organization formed yesterday, it was announced last night.

A request that such a board be granted the District was made to the NRA by the trade body heads who are taking the leadership in the local drive. The request was approved by the National Recovery Board yesterday afternoon.

Members of the local board will be appointed by the President. It will conform with the boards already established in 48 States and 26 districts. Washington had not been given a board because it was thought at first a regional board, with headquarters in Norfolk, Va., would be sufficient.

Trade Heads Ask Board.

The trade body officials voted to ask for the board after the foundation of a military organization was formed at a meeting at Board of Trade headquarters.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was elected general in command of this voluntary army.

Three colonels were chosen to serve with him—Claude W. Owen, president of the Board of Trade; James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and James E. Colliflower, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Mr. Owen will be in charge of publicity. Mr. Yaden will direct a campaign to "sell" the reemployment plan to every individual in Washington, while Mr. Colliflower will supervise educational work.

Woman to Aid Drive.

A woman will be selected for the post of lieutenant general.

Those in command of the drive will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow at Board of Trade headquarters, at which time the woman leader will probably be selected, as well as other members of the organization.

The civic army will conduct the drive through the newspapers, radio and other media. One of its objectives will be to determine if employers who have signed NRA code agreements are living up to the contract. Some concerns are failing to do so, according to reports.

Enrollment in the blue eagle army reached 4,062 last night, more than the half-way mark. More than 7,000 employers have yet to enroll.

Woman Robbed of Jewelry.

Burglers entering by a bathroom window yesterday stole jewelry valued at $44 from the home of Mrs. Eleanor Stebbins, 1660 Avon place northwest, she reported to police.
